1959-60 Theme "America The Beautiful"

The THIRTEEN YEAR OLD

SAVANNAH STATE COLLEGE SAVANNAH, GEORGIA

October, 1959 Vol. 13- No. 1

Sherman Roberson, Tiger's Roar Student Editor, Wins Acclaim for SSC

By Marvin Green

Sherman Roberson, senior chemistry major and Editor-in-Chief of the Tiger's Roar, student publication at Savannah State College, recently returned after participating in the Second Southern Student Human Relations Seminar, National Student Congress, and Operation Friendship in Havana, Cuba.

Roberson was a scholarship participant of the Second Student Human Relations Seminar held at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, Illinois. He was active in discussion groups, panels and case studies concerning the improvement of Human Relations in the South. While at the Seminar, he was co-author of a pamphlet entitled, Programming For Leadership In Predominantly Negro Institutions.

Roberson also represented Savannah State College at the 12th National Student Congress held at the University of Illinois, August 24-September 3. The congress procedure is parallel with the procedure of the congress of the United States. He was author of a bill that will be sent to the President of the United States, which received only four votes of opposition when it reached the floor of the plenary at the congress. He was elected Secretary and Treasurer of the Great Southeast Region of the United States Student Association (which includes Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida).

The Federacion Estudiantil Universitaria (translation) FEU invited a hundred and ninety Student Leaders from the 12th National Student Congress of the United States National Student Association to participate in "Operation Amistad" (operation friendship) at Havana, Cuba. Roberson wrote a 250 word essay and was selected to represent Savannah State College. He and the other North American students spent an 8-day tour of Cuba. The group resided at the Habana Hilton Hotel during their stay. The students of the United States were addressed by Cuban Liberator and Premier Fidel Castro. In his address Dr. Castro expressed the need for better understanding between the U. S. and Latin American countries. He also emphasized that Cuba would never be overcome by communistic influences.

Roberson was interviewed by a Cuban reporter and his picture and interview appeared in the September issue of Carteles, one of Cuba's leading magazines.

Alpha Phi Alpha Plans Project

"A voiceless people is a hopeless people." This slogan was adopted by Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Incorporated, 22 years ago and is more apparent today than at any time since our emancipation.

Delta Eta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Incorporated, recognizes that a fundamental step in the march to "firstclass citizenship" is the registration and awareness of the obligation to vote, of all eligible persons and especially the College men and women.

Howard Jason Delivers Address

By Marvin L. Green

Mr Howard Jason delivered the principal address during the regular all-college assembly on October 22, at 12 noon in Meldrim Auditorium.

Mr. Jason, Instructor in the Department of Languages and Literature, chose as his thesis: "Imagination." He stated that whatever we do, we may need a number of qualities, but we must have imagination, "the power which enables a woman to take a scrap of cloth, a bit of wire, and make a hat out of them."

He set forth that the imagination when used without control can cause one to waste away one's time in day dreaming and also that a lack of imagination may be equally harmful.

The introduction of the speaker was made by Eddie Bryant; closing remarks, by President William K. Payne.

"Beauty lies in the eyes of all who behold." Pictured above are Juliette West, Attendat; Josie Simpson, "Miss Savannah State College"; Delores Julian, Attendat. These lovely ladies will represent Savannah State College throughout 1959-60.

Deen, Johnson and Simpson Victorious In Election to Head Student Council

By Lillian Wright

During the spring quarter of the 1958-59 school year, the Savannah State College student body elected James Deen, Nathaniel Johnson and Josie Simpson as Student Council President, Vice President, and Miss Savannah State College, respectively.

Deen hails from Alma, Georgia and is a senior majoring in Biology and minoring in Chemistry. He is a member of the following organizations: Polemarch, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity; Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society; Tiger's Roar staff; Beta Kappa Chi Scientific Honor Society; Marshall Beard and Wright Hall Dormitory Council.

Johnson is a native of Savannah, Georgia. He is a senior majoring in Mathematics and is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity; Beta Kappa Chi Scientific Honor Society; and a member of many civic community organizations.

Miss Simpson, a native of Savannah, Georgia, is a senior majoring in English. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority; the College Playhouse; the Tiger staff, and the Business Club.

Attendants to Miss Savannah State College are Juliette West and Delores Julian. Both young ladies are Savannahians.

Miss West is a senior majoring in Home Economics. She is a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Mrs. Ella Fisher Delivers Church Address

By Edith P. Albright

The regular All-College Assembly held on October 15, 1959, in Meldrim Auditorium, had as its speaker Mrs. Ella Fisher, Associate Professor of Health Education.

Mrs. Fisher selected as her thesis: "Living With A Purpose." She said that every individual must set some goal and work with a purpose, and in order to do this, one must establish a vision of the "Good Life."

Jeanes Conference Held At Savannah State

Having for its theme "The Dean Approach To The Improvement of Instruction," the Seventh Annual Conference of Jeanes Supervisors and Principals sponsored by the State Department of Education began its conference in Meldrim Auditorium Friday, October 16, with an assembly program and opening sessions.

Mayor W. Lee Mingleford led the assembly of greetings followed by distinguished members of the Board of Education, including Mr. Edward Bartlett, president, and Mr. D. Leon McCormac, Superintendent.

The mayor informed the audience of the progress made in education and expressed the need to continue in that direction.

The opening session developed from two panel discussions moderated by Mr. Hugh Mass of Tuskegee and Dr. W. Bruce Welch of Port Valley. Mr. H. N. Simmon presided over the opening session.

During the assembly program, Beach and O. Tompkins High School Chorus gave selections.

Other features on the program included greetings by Savannah State College President W. K. Payne, and Cuyler Elementary School Principal, Mr. Malcolm G. Thomas. Reverend Richard Williams, pastor of First Bryan Baptist Church, delivered a prayer and Mr. J. E. Luten, principal of Tompkins High School, presided.

Mr. T. A. Carmichael, Director of the Division of Negro Education, State Department of Education, gave remarks during the opening session. Mr. Carmichael related to the audience of Supervisors and Principals pertinent information and facts related to the field of education.

The General Session was held on Saturday, October 17 at 9:30 a.m. The program included a panel discussion moderated by Dr. D. L. Rogers of Atlanta, Georgia's Foreign Language Program presented by Dr. Gordon Brown, and various reports on discussion groups moderated by Dr. L. E. Boyd, including Miss Margaret L. Walker, library consultant and Mr. Robert Thearith, curriculum consultant.

President Payne Addresses SSC Family

By Marjorie Dalida

First all-college assembly program of the fall quarter was held in Meldrim Auditorium on October 1, 1959, with President William K. Payne as its speaker. President Payne selected as his thesis: "The Personal Mirror." According to President Payne, "... the value of a mirror lies within what the mirror reflects." He requested that the students of Savannah State College peer into the "mirror of our generation" and see if they are demonstrating traits of a high calibre or those of a "beat" generation. And as you look into your personal mirrors, it is hoped that you will find the picture of a successful future.

Affluence Cheatham Addresses Assembly

By Carolyn Campbell

Mr. Affluence Cheatham, principal of Sol C. Johnson High School, delivered the main address during the all-college assembly on October 8th. The program was sponsored by the Sphinx Club of Delta Eta Chapter, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Incorporated.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Bess. The core of Mr. Cheatham's talk stressed the uselessness of mere words, the importance of action, the careful thought, and explicit trust in God. He stated "... Be more than a talker, be a doer."

Another highlight of the program was the vivid interpretation of the poem "Noah Built the Ark" by Lemard Tobins.

Closing remarks were made by the Rev. A. E. Peacock, College Minister.

The Editor Speaks

Editor's Note: This editorial does not necessarily represent the views of the Faculty, Administration or Student Body of Savannah State College.

The past summer proved to be the most interesting period of my entire life. I attended the National Congress of the United States National Student Association at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois.

The congress was attended by students representing various colleges and universities throughout the United States. Upon my arrival there, I had no vision of the variety of events that were to occur. These events had a marked effect upon my evaluation of my fellow men.

This congress is paralleled with the procedure of the United States Congress. This first three days of the congress was given to discussion groups with various topics of interest. I was enrolled in the discussion group concerned with Desegregation. The group was composed of six students and one moderator. One of the participants was from North Carolina and stated that he shared a moderate view of the subject of integration. He set forth his purpose for registering in this particular group was the fact that integration was inevitable and he desired ways of bringing it about smoothly.

As the discussion progressed, a strange incident occurred. He came to the realization that the other views present were quite liberal. From this point on, the moderator's view became rather conservative.

The second day of discussion gave rise to many surprises. The size of the group increased tremendously. Two of the new participants were from South Carolina and shared the most conservative views concerning integration that I have ever entertained. These individuals presented a number of analogies supporting their views (negative) on the integration question. Of times I was guilty of employing impractical tactics by attacking these analogies very violently. Mine was a normal reaction, for never before had I the chance to discuss this topic with a member of the "majority." I attribute this fault to the isolation that is ever prevalent between members of the various "races."

One of the prime reasons for the anti-integration campaign by my Caucasian brothers was their "Rationalization On Seg." With the help of some other Caucasian brothers I was able to suppress this rationale. (At least from the discussion.)

Communication breeds understanding in abundance. I share a great deal of respect for my brothers from Carolina, however, I have no allegiance to their conservative views. The discussion of the various views may or may not have converted their opinion of me or mine of them, but the important factor is that members of different "races" were sitting down at a table of "arbitration" and discussing a problem which is affecting the lives of every individual in the United States.

If the problems of the South are to be solved, then a system of race communications (on an equal basis) must be established. If the United States is to remain United, then this system must be established and God speed!

I feel that the students should have more to say about what affects them. The congressman does not necessarily reflect the views of the masses of people in the South and especially not the majority of the students. Adults, if we the students of today are to take the reins of the world of tomorrow, then let us "taste" this task now! Let us do our own thinking and our "advise" when necessary.

During the duration of the discussions, it was interesting to note that my brothers sought to be in many cases found suppressors of human rights in the North. This was supplied a rationale to "justify" the South's defiance of BROWN vs. BOARD OF EDUCATION during the student congress.

Upon leaving the congress, I left with many thoughts of a varied nature. But these were not thoughts of hate, but thoughts of thanks and understanding for such a valuable experience.

My Color of Democracy

By Leford Tobias, Jr.

All too often today we tend to forget the great moral heritage which is ours. The bustle of everyday life, the everyday chores, the demands of our jobs—all these bedevil our vision. America needs a rededication to the moral values which guided our forefathers. These are the guideposts by which we should chart our course.

Today the nation is being attacked by a dangerous enemy—communism. The Communists seek to destroy our way of life. They would tear down the free government and establish a Soviet State. Our historic liberties would be wiped away. Instead of law we would be ruled by a fascist dictator. The concentration camp, the secret arrests, the purge trial would be the hallmarks of everyday life. Our destiny would be in the hands of a small clique, from whose decisions there would be no appeal.

This is the danger we face today. Communism is an evil. It is atheistic. It bitterly hates all religions. The Communists detest men who live by the principles of fair play, justice, and brotherhood. To Communists, love is a sign of weakness. Only brute force, ruthlessly applied, has any meaning.

To meet the Communist challenge, we in America must rely on the great moral heritage which is ours. We need to know more about the history of our nation. We need to appreciate the course of the individuals who fought through wilderness, swamp, and mountain for the ideals in which they believed. We need to know the valor of the men of 1776. Our citizens should read and re-read the historic documents of America, such as the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. "We whose famous passage . . . hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal" . . . has lived in the hearts of men and gave their lives that this country might remain free and independent.

Points to Ponder

Albert Schweitzer in "Memories of Childhood and Youth":

No one has a right to say to another, "Because we are different from each other as we do, I have a right to know all your thoughts." Not even a mother may treat her child in that way. All demands of this sort are tedious and unwholesome. In this matter, giving is the only valuable process; it is only giving that stimulates. Impart as much as you can of your spiritual being to those who are on the road with you, and accept as something precious what comes back to you from them.

—Macmillan

John Foster Dulles:

It is my experience that those who are most positive about political problems are the least positive only because they do not know all the relevant facts. Those who are most harsh in their judgments are able to be harsh for that same reason. When the whole of a problem is known, solutions become excessively difficult and judgments are not as easily made.

—From a 1955 speech before the Fifth Annual All-Jesuit Alumni Dinner

Robert Louis Stevenson in "Vagabond's Pluribus and Familiar Studies of Men and Books":

Hope, they say, deserts us at the period of our existence. From first to last, and in the face of smarting disillusiones, we continue to expect good fortune, better health and better conduct, and that, so confidently that we judge it needless to deserve them.

—Dutton

The Periscope

By James N. Nevels

Looking Back

The recent visit by Soviet leader Nikita S. Khrushchev might help ease the cold war tension which has faced the world for over a decade. However, Mr. "K" still holds his viewpoint that communism will bury capitalism. Not literally, but in the sense that communism will overtake the accomplishments of capitalism and push it off the globe. According to the figures of over 200 million people, the Capitalistic system is reaching the point of diminishing returns and when the system can no longer employ the people, the workers will rise and overthrow the system.

What Khrushchev thinks about capitalism and what we think about communism do not alter the fact that these two leading systems of the world must find a way to exist peacefully together on the same planet. According to the Soviet leader, "I speak of co-existence, not because I want capitalism to exist, but because . . . it does exist." "It does exist" are the words that both systems must recognize. Our President Eisenhower must recognize this fact when he visits Russia when the cold spell is over and things are green again.

One Hiding Place

Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro, eight months after liberating Cuba from the Batista regime, seems to be approaching the same "pandora's box" that closed in on his conquered foe. Castro has constantly boasted of a democratic Cuba, a land of free people, but the two overt expressions of freedom are missing—freedom of the press and open elections.

As head of a disorganized government supplemented by chaos and confusion, Cuba is well approaching a police state type government. Anyone speaking out for private rights is doomed to the fate afforded all counter-revolutionaries.

In any event, the Sierra Maestra will welcome its long adopted companion. That is if he can escape in time.

A woman received two notices from the city: (1) the tax assessment on her tenement house was raised 20 per cent, (2) the building was declared unfit for occupancy.

Despite Nature's Ways

A recent incident occurred on this campus which we feel merits the consideration of Mr. John Q. Student.

This incident occurred between two factions, which hereafter I shall refer to as faction A and faction B.

Faction A returned to school and began preparation for its annual activity. Things seemed to have been going very smoothly. But a few days before registration, a demon by the name of Confusion stuck his dirty head through the picture and the spark began to fly.

Faction B, due to circumstances beyond its control, had ceased its "catering" to faction A. Well, that was all right, but it had caused and decided to follow the example of the steel workers in order to get its ends.

A period of contemplation, intense meditation, and prayer existed between factions A and B for the next few days due to the lack of communication.

After three days, faction B got the word (by way of the grape vine) on faction A. Faction B immediately arranged a conference with faction A and other participants. It was present as an impartial observer if this is possible).

My evaluation of the entire situation is as follows:

(1) First of all, Faction B had "catered" to faction A, this "catering" was taken for granted.

(2) After faction B was forced to cease "catering," it is only fair that faction A should have been notified.

(3) Faction B should have been informed of the feelings of faction A. It was the duty of its representatives, before the latter resorted to the methods of the steel workers.

Faction A was too reluctant in airing its views at the conference. I am glad no little girl came into the room and said "boo" because faction A might have been disturbed.

This incident which I am submitting for your consideration, Mr. John Q. Student, is a perfect example of what happens when people fail to assume their responsibility to other persons and when other persons refuse to speak up and stand on their own two feet. This further exhibits what can happen if a system of communication does not exist between two factions.

A system where everyone is allowed to speak freely and without any fear of later embarrassment or punishment. My advice to factions A and B is "to get on the ball" despite Nature's Ways.

CONTINENTAL

Classic Italian Style for Fall '59

By Alphonso McLean

This fall the Continental-verus controversy continues on Fifth Avenue and on the College Campuses around the country. The well dressed men of this country will continue to favor Ivy because of the casual and day-to-day wear. In the area of definition one might wonder just what is Continental? In its most classic manifestation, Continental is definitely Italianate. It is characterized by the concept that clothes should fit the body just as much as the hand. Sport jackets are short, and fitted to the point. Sleeves are slender and tapered. Lapels are narrow, tapered almost to the point. Trousers, too, are extremely narrow, tapered to detail: the slacks are cuffless, pleated, with slash pockets rather than side pockets. Jackets can be three as well as two-button.

The word Continental, of course, does not apply solely to suits and sport jackets. The accessories with your Ivy outfits will do in company with the Continental styling. Shoes are thinner, more flexible; shirts have more form-fitting and narrower sleeves. Ties should be narrow and short enough so the ends don't protrude from the cutaway, sport jackets.

For casual and rough-weather wear are the high and sturdy boots. The boot takes a big step forward this fall. The introduction of the Continental suit and slacks, whose cuffless trousers tend to snag in standard-high shoe tops, shows that elegance can now be included with casual wear.

How low are casual boot creations for sport, city wear on these rainy autumn days and cold winter nights on campus. So if in the past those unattractive overboots have nagged you, now's the time to look correct, as well as one of the advanced men of style on your campus set.

Continental designs are not only tailored to perfection but are also narrow on the pocketbook. The Classic Continental suit (which includes a reversible vest), ranges from $45 to $70. The Modified Continental ranges from $39.95 to $60 and the American Continental from $65 to $110.

Well this fall there is a radical change in men's attire. Men of Savannah State College are you up-to-date with this fall's styles? The distinction of Continental captures and characterizes a typical college man over the average dressed man. As for me, I've catered to Continental and really dig it.

To those personalities who thrive somewhat as daring in dress to varying degrees, I challenge you to accept this new concept in clothing and be a classic on your campus this fall.

Quotable Quotes

An antique is an object that has made a round trip to the attic.

A woman who is smart enough to ask a man's advice seldom is dumb enough to take it.

So far science has not figured out how a man can tell what a woman is thinking by listening to what she's saying.

A sense of humor is what you laugh at something which would make you mad if it happened to you.

Things are pretty well evened up in this world. Other people's troubles are not so bad as yours, but their children are a lot worse.

Professor Studies Love: Finds It Matter of Needs

Why do we love in love? Professor Robert F. Winch, Northwestern University sociologist, knows why 50 young husbands and wives did and the results of his eight-year study of them are reported by Morton M. Hunt in a November Reader's Digest article, "How Do We Choose A Mate?"

According to Professor Winch's evidence, the love of man for woman and woman for man is basically self-serving; its primary purpose is to benefit the lover, not the beloved.

Each of us, he says, tends to fall in love with someone whose personality is the complement of our own and through whom we can therefore relieve our own frustrations and viciously live out our own impulses. A tough, brusque, hard-driving man may long in secret to be a cared-for child again.

He cannot do this, so he falls in love with a timid, frail girl whom he enjoys sheltering—and through whom, by proxy, he enjoys that would-be other self. She, meanwhile, has always yearned to be more aggressive and competent, and because she identifies her life with his, she indirectly achieves her wish. So each benefits and fulfills the other and so love, though selfish in its origin, succeeds in becoming a mutual blessing.

Professor Winch believes this dewatering of psychological needs to be the essential reason for love and a far stronger force than sexual desire, beauty, or similarity of tastes. These needs change as boys and girls go to work or to college.

The Northwestern professor is 48, married and has written a book, "Mate Selection," published by Harper & Brothers at $5, explaining how he and his staff studied the 25 couples, all childless and all married less than two years when the study began, as to 388 pairs of traits.

His wife, Martha, executive director of the Family Service of Highland Park, Ill., feels the need theory gives a marriage counselor a positive approach to problems.

Faculty Members Participate in Arts

Faculty members participating in teaching the integrated subjects of the basic curriculum at Chatham College are continually learning, since many of these courses are cross-disciplinary in nature.

In the two year course in the Arts, which correlates work in visual arts, drama, prose, fiction, poetry, music, and the dance, it is not unusual to see faculty members who instruct in different parts of the course, sitting in on each other's area presentations. Thus a musician, because he has become intimately familiar with the areas of the course devoted to poetry and the visual arts, is able to relate form in music to these areas; the faculty member in drama is able to correlate his specialty with those sections devoted to the dance and fiction. Some of the other cross-disciplinary courses where similar faculty participation takes place are Human Development and Behavior (psychology and biology); and The Natural World (astronomy, biology, chemistry, or physics, and the history and philosophy of science).

THE SPOTLIGHT

By Yvonne McGlockton

"Be the best of whatever you are" is a phrase that is commonly used by many. Dorothy Lawton is a living example of this phrase.

Dot (as she is called by all) is a sophomore majoring in Home Economics and specializing in textiles and clothing. She is an expert seamstress; several of her garments have been placed on various exhibitions. Last year during the annual awards day, she received an award of $100 for her proficiency in textiles and clothing.

Ironical, Isn't It?

From a letter written by a young man, who was receiving his basic training: "We were supposed to have survival training today but it was postponed on account of rain."

From the Ontario, N. Y., Wayne County Mail: "West Walworth Volunteer Fire Department will blow the siren 15 minutes before the start of each fire."

Her hobbies and ambitions are part of her major field. She likes to sew, design hats and cook and plans to become a designer and a home economics instructor.

Neat and debonair, Dot is a native of Savannah, Georgia, and a graduate of Alfred E. Beach High School.

She was elected "Miss Home Economics" of 1959-60. The Spotlight is proud to add Dorothy Lawton, a talented young lady, to this column.

As sure as little apples, Newton knew that what goes up must come down.

But when it comes down to a really pleasurable filter cigarette, it's what goes up—in front of the filter, that is—that makes the difference!

And there's where Winston had an inspired idea—Filter-Blend! Winston specially selects choice, mild tobaccos, then spe-

Faurot Blames Coaches and Presidents For College Football Code Violations

College presidents and football coaches are primarily responsible for the violations of athletic recruiting rules which are giving big time college football "a sour reputation," says Don Faurot, now University of Missouri director of athletics, after years of coaching.

His views are given in the November Reader's Digest in a signed article, "Is College Football Destroying Itself?" condensed from the Saturday Evening Post.

"When a college corrupts an athlete by paying him under the table," says Faurot, "you can be pretty sure that the coach not only knows about it but probably instigated it. . . . As for college presidents, some have been coerced into putting up with dishonesty, some have winked at it, some have been too naive to know what is happening. . . ."

Faurot feels it imperative that everyone concerned with college football acknowledge the abuses and take corrective action.

"First of all," he writes, "educators must enforce the rules governing college athletics. Simply refusing to schedule teams which operate outside the rules would quickly whip into line those colleges which now value winning football teams above honesty. . . ."

"School administrators must make it clear to their coaches that they place integrity ahead of victory; that no amount of alumni pressure after a losing season will affect the coach's job, whereas under-the-table aid to athletes will get him fired. I'm still idealist enough not to see much difference between paying a boy under the table to win for you and having some gambler pay him to lose."

SSC and Morris Battle to 3-3 Tie

By Jolly Stephens

The Savannah State College Tigers and the Morris College Hornets played a tremendous defensive game, on a soaking wet field, as they tied 8-8. This was the first conference game for both teams. Over a period of five years these two teams have won two each and tied one.

During the early minutes of the first quarter, James Davis of SSC blocked a kick on their own 22 yard strip. But the SSC offensive could not move the ball any further than the 16 yard line; so Morris took over on downs. The Hornets moved the ball to their 40 yard line before they were forced to kick.

But again their kick was blocked, this time by Eliazah McGraw. On the next play SSC's John Owens carried the ball to the Morris 22 yard line; then James Davis, in fullback position, passed the ball to end McGraw in the end zone for a SSC touchdown. The point after touchdown was good when Davis passed to Lawrence Williams in the flat. The first quarter ended with SSC 8, Morris 0.

In the second quarter SSC had a substantial drive from their 28 yard line to the Morris 30 before Morris took over on downs. But on the next play Hossis of SSC intercepted a Morris pass on the 35 yard line and galloped to the 25.

Freshman's Outlook

Several freshmen were interviewed by reporters of the Tiger's Roar staff in order to obtain a random sample of views and evaluations of Savannah State College held by the newest members of the Savannah State College Family. The following are the views of Savannah State College as the Freshmen see it.

Carrie Louise Guiton, Savannahian, who plans to major in Biology. "The instructors aren't as rigid as was expected. This fact relieved some of the tension that had accumulated before entering SSC. The majority of the upperclassmen seem to be very friendly and understanding. They make one feel as if he has always been a part of the SSC family. College life is not the 'hellscape' I expected. I'm looking forward to a long happy stay."

Otis Mitchell, Savannahian, who plans to major in Biology. "Savannah State College is a very wonderful college, serving its purpose. It couldn't be any better; here you get a chance to meet a lot of people. I have no dislike for the school or its personnel. We have a well prepared faculty and staff. College to me is like a foreign country; you are forever learning things."

Harvey Bryant, a native of Woodburn, Georgia, and graduate of Ralph J. Bunche High School. When asked to comment on on-orientation week, Bryant stated, "I think orientation week gave the students a chance to gain helpful information and meet fellow freshmen."

Marjorie Dalida commented that "the College Campus is very beautiful and interesting."

Clinton Robinson, a graduate of Alfred E. Beach High School, described the campus as very picturesque.

Eunice Veal stated that the orientation week activities were helpful in acquainting her with the new surroundings.

Leonia Pinkney, a business major and graduate of Alfred E. Beach High School, stated, "I like the College very much and feel that orientation week helps in adjusting to college life."

Eddie Mae Polk hails from Statesboro, Ga. "She thinks the SSC campus is the most."

Village Players Perform at SSC

The Village Players were seen at Savannah State College in Melldrim Auditorium on Tuesday, November 24 in two one-act comedies, "The Proposal," based on a play by Anton Chekhov and "A Village Wedding" by George Bernard Shaw. This event was under the auspices of the College Lucern Committee. Dr. Coleman A. Brathwaite, chairman of the Department of Fine Arts, is the director of the college village group programs.

"A Village Wedding" might be called a battle piece, in which the male is doomed to defeat. The play occurred in three scenes, the first set on board a pleasure ship and the remaining two in an English Village store. The players depicted an account of a very unusual "wedding" in which one of the Village offered flavor and charm to the production.

"The Proposal," like Shaw's play, concerned itself with a man, but one of a very different nature. The setting was on a farm in the Midwestern United States. "The Proposal" gave an account of "the course of true love."

Dr. Paul L. Taylor Delivers Honor's Day Address in Melldrim Auditorium

The annual Honor's Day chapel program was held on Thursday, November 19, 1959, at 12 o'clock noon in Melldrim Auditorium with Dr. Paul L. Taylor, Director of Testing and Guidance at Savannah State College.

According to Dr. Taylor, the value of anything depends upon its use and not the thing itself. For anything that is not used is soon lost by its owner. Dr. Taylor stated that all life is a climb and we get out of life what we deserve rather than what we desire.

"Some of us fall in our climb for success because of over confidence," and therefore according to Dr. Taylor, the greatest of care should be employed when the inventory is taken of one's abilities.

Dr. Taylor set forth that if today's students desire success, then religion is a necessity. "Put your hands in God's hand and he will say surely I will be with you." If you only believe "Ye shall achieve" go get a hold of yourself and say "I can."

Recognition was given to the following persons for having earned the average of "B" or above on a full load during three quarters of the 1958-59 school year:

Eva C. Boseman, Reatha Butler, Carolyn B. Campbell, Nellie M. Council, James Deen, Charles Frasier, Marnie Green, Willie Mae Julian, Annette Kennedy, Bettye Hume, Gladys Lambert, Vergell Lambert.

Geraldine Lindsey, Yvonne McGlockton, Juanita Moon, James Nevels, Albert Owens, Bertie Pinkney, Alberta Poole, Juanita Quinn, Doris Rigby, Willie Mae Rutt, Rosalyn Scurdy, Ruby L. Sims.

Silvery Perry, Mildred Thomas, Carolyn Young, Geraldine Williams, Ruby M. Williams, Lillian W. Wright, Freddie Zeigler.

Included on the program were two selections by the Savannah State College Choral Society, under the direction of Dr. Coleridge Brathwaite, chairman of the Department of Fine Arts.

Pertinent Facts Concerning the National Student Loan Program

The purpose of this article is to acquaint the students of Savannah State College with pertinent facts concerning the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

The National Defense Student Loan program was established by the 85th Congress under Title II of Public Law 85-664, designated as "The National Defense Education Act of 1958," approved September 2, 1958.

The program, nationwide in scope, provides loans to students under early terms with Special Scholarship provision for Student borrowers who later enter public secondary and elementary teaching and public school administrative careers.

An eligible college student may borrow up to $1,000 per year. No student, however, may receive more than $5,000 in loans from funds established under this act. Interest at 3 per cent begins to accrue and repayment begins on any outstanding balance of a loan one year after the borrower ceases to be a full-time college student.

This act specifies that only students with "satisfactory standing" may receive assistance under this act. In order for a student to have "satisfactory" standing, he must be eligible to continue in attendance at the institution where he is enrolled based upon the achievement of satisfactory progress towards a degree and the maintenance of good conduct, in accordance with the institution's standards and practices.

An institution of higher learning has the responsibility for carefully assessing the degree of financial need of a borrower. In general, information concerning the assets and income of the student and his family and reasonable expenses of the student loan officers of the institution.

A loyalty oath is required from all borrowers. Every candidate for a national defense student loan must sign a loyalty oath and affidavit which will be imprinted on a form to be supplied participating colleges by the Government.

It is hoped that the National Defense Student loan program will make it possible for a great number of eligible college students to enroll at the colleges of their choice.

Savannah State College is participant of the National Defense Student Loan Program. Further details concerning this program may be secured by contacting Mr. Nelson R. Freeman, Dean of Personnel.

It was called to the attention of the Editor of the Tiger's Roar by Mr. P. A. Bertrand that many of the students were not sufficiently acquainted with this program.

It is hoped that this article will tend to correct such a situation.

My Kind of Democracy (What I Want Most For the New Year)

By Leford Tobias

I want a peaceful co-existence among men. I want a gigantic exhibition of brotherly love, friendship and loyalty. I want many sincere friends, who'll try to understand my faults and mistakes, and yet remain loyal when I am proven in error. I want an untiring sense of responsibility and duty embodied in many willpower and proven deeds. I want justice served with mercy. I want a sense of humor and the genius to laugh at the grace to forget the humility to be forgiven, the willingness to praise and the modesty to be praised.

I want international rallies to meet on the street and shake hands and smile earnestly to see Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Eisenhower meet on Main Street and pat each other on the back cheerfully and one suggest a spot of tea. They need not argue over the matter of who'll pay for the tea. I will pay for it.

I want to go to bed at night and not fear the following day. I want to go goodnight to my family with a smile and know that they are safe and secure. I want to think of my posterity and not have a pang of grief and fear for the future.

I want to sleep and dream of kneeling hills, the restless sea, the distant falling stars and hear the awakening of beautiful morning bringing with it the high pitched voices of slowly awakening birds.

Above all, I want to be aware of the presence of God on this New Year's Day.

DOWN BEAT

Young people today, particularly college-age crowds, want a sound with which they can find a personal identification.

This is the view of Maynard Ferguson, the gifted young trumpeter and bandleader who to so hot with college dancers these days.

Ferguson thinks it is a serious error to try to recapture the sounds of the "swing era."

Ferguson, who has an enormous sense of responsibility toward the young audiences for which he plays—particularly inasmuch as he is looked on as representative of jazz—told Down Beat:

"Kids today rebel against the tunes and the styles of music their parents like. They have to give them something they can feel belongs to them."

"If the disc jockies had promoted Monk's recording of 'Round Midnight' instead of something brand new, and let the kids discover it for themselves, it could have set as big a musical fashion as rock and roll."

Ferguson, who is featured on the cover of the October 1 Down Beat, added, "I try to keep that in mind when I'm playing for young college crowds."

Baritone saxophonist Gerry Mulligan, the latest person from the music world to try his hand as an actor, Mulligan, who may have got the bug somewhere in the course of his widely publicized and featured New Year's Judy Holiday, plays, of all things, a priest in the new film about beatniks of the west coast, "The Subterraneans." Also in the picture is pianist Andy Frevin who will play, in somewhat less offbeat casting, a jabb musician.

John Hendricks, the gifted singer and lyricist who provides most of the far-out lyrics for the new album, "The New Year's Trip," of which he is a member, tackled one of his most ambitious projects to date when he wrote rhyming introductions, to be played by the trio, for the acts at the Monterey Jazz festival.

The Boston Jazz festival—one of three sponsored by the Sheraton Corp.—got off to a good start with an attendance of 10,000. The festival, which is life yet the first Boston festival could be the last. Persistent reports have it that the Sheraton firm has set its first jazz festival at the sponsored festivals at French Lick, Ind., and in Toronto, Canada. The reason: they have not proved their financial value to the big hotel chain.

Fred J. Smith, Aladdin Insulations, Inc.; Richard Alterbaum, Teens & Juniors, Inc.; Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Clark; Mr. William Lattimore, William Lattimore Company; Mr. J. Rufus Howard, Howard Beverage Company, Inc.; and Dr. Frank Hoffman.

Other $10 donations were sent by Mr. Albert C. Oelschig, Oelschig's Nursery, Inc.; Mr. Cecil H. Pittman, Pittman's Steamfitters and Air-Conditioners; I. A. Solomon, Jr., Solomons Company, Wholesale Druggists; Murray B. Weldon, The Merchant Credit Association, Inc.; Dr. L. S. Hines, Jr.; Daniel W. ## The Spotlight

By Yvonne McClockton

Tommie Mitchell

A writer once said, "Hats off to the man who is a little better than his word, a little more than his promise, and a little larger in deed than he is in speech."

Surely the writer who said this must have had in mind a person like Tommie Lee Mitchell, Ousega Psi Phi Fraternity (Keeper of records), Y.M.C.A., and Physical Education Club, and college dollars to boot. Tommie's hobbies include all types of sports, movies and reading.

The Spotlight takes pleasure in adding Tommie to its roster, as a young man whose talents and commendable personality continue to be reflected among your associates.

Record Fans Can Choose Hi-Fi Symphony or Splash

Little more than ten years after the dawn of the long-playing record, high-fidelity enthusiasts can choose today from a variety of records ranging from Prokofiev to Presley, from a classical symphony to the throbs of a single heartbeat.

An article in the December Reader's Digest reports we're plunking down $425 million dollars a year for the music.

Chief beneficiaries of the spurring business have been "longhair" music fans, notes author Don Murray. Ten years ago, a long-playing record catalogue published by William Schwann listed 11 companies offering 407 classical works by 39 composers.

But lovers of classical music aren't the only beneficiaries. Many of the 26,000 phonograph-equipped American homes echo to the sound of rock-'n'-roll records, put out by more than 1,500 small but hopeful record companies.

Even weirder sounds appear in some of the new, among a small but dedicated group of hi-fi aficionados, hours may be spent listening to the recorded progress of a violent thunderstorm, an on-cushion locomotive, or the dripping of water into a rain barrel.

The spoken word has also proved immensely popular on records. In 1952, 20 22-year-old girls gambled $1,500 on recording poetry. Today their Caedmon Records have sold three million dollars worth of the spoken word. Included are readings by such distinguished poets as Dylan Thomas, Robert Frost and T. S. Eliot of the words of the spoken word. Other companies have issued comedy plays. There are even records which allow the listener to "go-star" with famed actors, by reading out loud during pauses on the record.

The Digest article is titled: "The Exciting World of Recorded Words." It is Sunday's Special. Today's Living, the Sunday supplement of the New York Herald Tribune.

Savannah State Rallies to Tie Alabama State College, 14-14

Playing on a rain-soaked field in a steady drizzle, the Savannah State Tigers roared from behind in a tremendous fourth period uprising to tie the favored Alabama State College, 14-14, of Montgomery, Alabama, 14-14. After trailing the Hornets 8-0 for the first three quarters, the Tigers, behind the fine offensive play of Quarterback Richard Anderson, End Elijah McGraw, and Fullback James Davis, the Tigers came from behind to score two touchdowns in conversion to deadlock the score. Savannah State's record now stands at 2-2-2. The Hornets also have a 2-2-2 slate.

First Period
At the beginning of the first quarter, the Tigers gained possession of the ball on the 25-yard line as the result of a fumble. On the very first play the Tigers fumbled and the Hornets recovered on the Tigers' 22. Unable to move the ball, the Hornets were forced to punt. SSC's Hornets ran in the end zone and ran it back to the 20 but was unable to budge from that spot. Forced to punt on fourth down, SSC's Fullback, James Davis, was not able to get the ball off as the result of a bad snap from center and was tackled in the end zone for a safety. The Hornets went ahead 2-0.

Second Period
The second period proved to be a defensive battle between the two teams as the Tigers held the Hornets to one drive, while the Hornets did not permit the hapless Tigers to run up a single down. The only serious scoring threat of the period came when the Tigers fumbled on their own 8-yard stripe and Alabama recovered on the 5. The Tigers' defense, led by Lawrence Williams and James Davis, held the Hornets to a field goal. On the fourth down Williams McIntosh, Tiger Tackle, broke through and recovered a Hornet fumble on the Tigers' 12, as the Hornets attempted to pass.

Third Period
As the start of the third quarter, the Tigers' offense came to life as they picked up their first first down of the game. Both teams continued to play a strong defensive game during this period. Little Richard Anderson, SSC Freshman Quarterback, thrashed the rain-soaked row of less than 1,000 fans as he broke through the Hornets' line twice for a total of 36 yards to move the piskin to the Hornets' 28. The third period ended with the score remaining 8-0 in favor of the Hornets. McGraw and Davis took the defensive honors for the Tigers in this period.

Fourth Period
During the fourth and final period, the Tigers' offense which started to roll during the third period, really came to life. In the first few minutes of the quarter, QB Anderson ran the ball from the Tigers' 35 to the Hornets' 35 on one of the most spectacular runs of the evening. John Stinson, HB and John Owens, FB, in four plays moved the ball to the Hornets' 8 where Davis, who switched from End to Fullback for the play, passed to McGraw in the end zone for SSC's first TD of the evening. The try for conversion failed and SSC now trailed 8-6.

The Hornets' David Veasy setting a possible upset, took the Tiger kick-off and galloped 85 yards for the second Hornet score of the evening to quickly get back in front 14-6. The attempted conversion was missed.

With four minutes left in the ballgame, Alabama had possession on SSC's 29 yard line where Lawrence Williams of SSC recovered for the Tigers.

Lawrence "Cuff" Williams catches a pass during the homecoming contest between Savannah State College "Tigers" and the Albany State College "Rams." After the completion of the pass, Williams scored for the Tigers. Savannah State College won the contest 10 to 8.

SSC Loses to Benedict, 24-6

The Savannah State College Tigers suffered their second defeat of the 1959 gridiron season at the hands of the powerful Benedict College Tigers of Columbia, South Carolina, 24-6. Playing on the rain-soaked Savannah State College Athletic Field before a capacity crowd of 1,200 cheering fans, the Orange and Blue Tigers were no match for the South Carolinians' passing and running attacks spearheaded by Quarterback Johnny Green and Halfback Billy Carson, respectively.

During the first quarter, Benedict and SSC put on quite a defensive play of SSC's end, Lawrence Williams and SSC's Guard Jesse Carter stopped the pay-dirt march of the Purple and Gold Tigers from the Palmetto State. Benedict was never in any serious trouble, as the Tigers from Savannah were not able to get beyond their own 45-yard line.

The second period was a carbon copy of the first until the last 4 minutes when the bottom seemed to fall out of the SSC's defense. The fireworks started when Benedict's halfback, Carson, intercepted an SSC pass on the Benedict 28-yard stripe. On the very next play Benedict's quarterback, Green, passed to his right end, James Pratt, for the first TD of the afternoon.

In two plays the Tigers moved the ball through the Hornets' line to their own 35. On the third down FB Davis passed to McGraw at the midfield stripe. McGraw ran it all the way for the most thrilling run of the entire afternoon. The first try for conversion was nullified when pass interference was called on the Hornets. On the second attempt, Davis plunged through the center of the Hornets line for the conversion. The scoreboard read 14-14, with three minutes left, neither team was able to score again, and the game ended in a deadlock.

Outstanding offensively for SSC were James Davis and Elijah McGraw. Davis was named the offensive honors for the Alabamians. Leading SSC's defensive attack were James Bowen, Henry Wesley, Louis Brown, and Eddie Bell. For the Hornets, Robert Turk and Charles Williams were outstanding.

The try for conversion failed and Benedict led 8-0. After Benedict kicked to SSC, the hapless Orange and Blue Tigers lost the ball on downs as they were unable to dent the Benedict forward wall. SSC's fullback, James Davis, punted on the fourth down. Halfback Green of Benedict took the punt on the SSC 45-yard and galloped all the way to pay dirt. The attempted conversion after the TD was blocked by SSC's halfback, B. C. Carswell. Benedict led 12-0. At the beginning of the third quarter, SSC put on a sustained drive from their 30 to Benedict's 11. With SSC on Benedict's 30, SSC's QB, Richard Anderson, passed on SSC's end Elijah McGraw, for 20 yards. Three plays later FB James Davis passed to McGraw, but the pass was incomplete. In two plays James Whitley, HB, and QB Anderson moved the ball to the Benedict 11. On the very next play Whitley fumbled on the ten-yard stripe and Benedict recovered. With Benedict in possession, on their first play, HB Billy Johnson galloped around SSC's right end to the SSC 44, a 46-yard run. QB Green then carried to the SSC 28, and next play Johnson ran it over for a TD. However, the TD was nullified because of a penalty. On the next play Johnson ran it to the SSC 5; the gun sounded for the end of the quarter and the third scoring threat of the Palmetto State Tigers ground to a halt, with Benedict leading 12-0.

In the fourth and final quarter, in two plays from the 5, Benedict's Johnson carried to the one; and FB Myckle Jeffery plunged through the middle for the tally. Again the try for conversion failed and Benedict went ahead 18-0.

With five minutes left in the game, SSC recovered a Benedict fumble on the 43-yard stripe of Benedict. On the next play Benedict intercepted an SSC pass on the Benedict 20. They failed to advance the ball from the 20 and were forced to punt.

Following the kickoff after the first TD, SSC lost the ball on downs. State's James Davis, attempting to kick on the fourth down, had his punt blocked on SSC's 26, by his namesake on Clafflin's team, James Davis, who was in the tackle position for the Panthers. Five plays later Chambers hit HB Earl Spain in the end zone for the second Panther TD of the evening. George Sargent, FB, fullback, ran the piskin over for the PAT. The first quarter ended with Clafflin ahead 14-0.

SSC Loses to Clafflin, 38-16

The Savannah State College Tigers went down to a smashing 38-16 defeat at the hands of the Clafflin College Panthers of Orangeburg, South Carolina, in their last home game of the 1959 gridiron season.

Playing on a rain-soaked field in a steady drizzle for the fourth time this season, the Tigers came from behind and went out front 18-14, only to be swamped by the onrushing Panthers in the fourth period, who piled up a total of 24 points in the final ten minutes of the closing period. The Tigers overall record now stands at 2-2-2. Their conference record is 1-1-1. Clafflin has an overall record of 5-3 and a conference of 2-1.

The Panthers from the Palmetto State quickly chalked up two successive TD's in the first period before SSC Tigers could solve their rattle-dazzle offense.

SSC, who has been a slow-starting team this season, long came to life in the second and third periods after solving the fast-moving offense of the Panthers. The Tigers scored their first TD in the second quarter, a safety in the second quarter and two TD's and conversion in the third period. It seemed for a time that the Tigers would make it a close one, but the rill-roaring Panthers came surging back in the final ten minutes of the fourth period, scoring almost at will, as the defense was ripped to shreds.

First Period

In the early minutes of the first quarter, SSC found it difficult to stop the passing of Clafflin's rifle-armed quarterback, Norwell Chambers. Chambers' passing was responsible for two Panther TD's in the opening minutes of the first game. On a sustained drive covering 65 yards, Chambers hit his left end, Louis Anderson, for the first TD of the evening in a play that covered 9 yards. The Pictured above is Elijah McGraw, Co-Captain of the Tigers' Squad this past season. McGraw was the Tigers' leading scorer with a total of eight touchdowns. PAT was no good. Following the kickoff after the first TD, SSC lost the ball on downs. State's James Davis, attempting to kick on the fourth down, had his punt blocked on SSC's 26, by his namesake on Clafflin's team, James Davis, who was in the tackle position for the Panthers. Five plays later Chambers hit HB Earl Spain in the end zone for the second Panther TD of the evening. George Sargent, FB, fullback, ran the piskin over for the PAT. The first quarter ended with Clafflin ahead 14-0.

Second Period
In the opening minutes of the second period, SSC began to show a little offensive ability as they put on a sustained 50-yard drive for their first tally of the evening. Sparked by HB Henry Wesley, QB Richard Anderson and FB James Davis, the Tigers marched from mid-field to the Panthers' 12. Anderson's punt Davis ran it over the middle for the TD. The try for conversion failed.

SSC's second TD came when Henry Wesley intercepted a Panther pass on the SSC 30 and ran it back to the Panther 30. On the fourth down Davis passed to QB Richard Anderson for the second Tiger TD of the game. Anderson rolled out around left end for the end and State went ahead 16-14 as the third period ended.

Fourth Period
In the final quarter, Clafflin made it a rout, scoring a total of 24 points, more than they total for the previous three quarters. The Panther's first TD came on a 65-yard pass play from Chambers to Sargent. The try for conversion failed and Clafflin went ahead 20-16.

Unbeaten Clark Mauls Tigers, 28-12

Unfolding an amazing aerial offensive and a crushing ground attack, the Clark College Panthers romped to a smashing 28-12 win over the Savannah State College Tigers, Saturday afternoon in a colorful homecoming battle, at Herndon Memorial Stadium.

The Cardinal and Black Panthers went out from early, moving 73 yards to pay-dirt, the first time they got their hands on the ball. Charles Hood, Joseph Mullins, Robert McFadden, Milton Cherry, and Arthur Williams juggled the ball to the Savannah midway the second period, going 42 yards on the ground and through the air lines. Johnny Scott, Mullins, and Williams moved the ball to the Savannah State 16, when James hit Robert Barksdale with a pay-off aerial. Williams crashed over for the extra points.

Illegal procedure nullified a 65-yard touchdown play for Savannah State late in the second period, but fighting Orange and Blue Tigers stormed back and went 47 yards to pay-dirt. Quarterback Richard Anderson fired two long passes to Elijah McGraw and John Strong, the Tigers No. 1 ground game, then tossed a short pass to J. Davis for the TD. They tried for points but was no good.

On top, 14-6, as the third period got underway, the Clark Panthers marched 67 yards after the opening kick-off. Taking hand off from QB Jones, Williams, Scott, McFadden and Cherry moved the ball to the Savannah State 13, where Jones pitched a touchdown pass to Williams. Richardson powered his way into the end zone for the extra point.

Trailing 14-6 in the fourth period, the Orange and Blue Tigers went 82 yards to pay-dirt with Henry Wesley, Powell, Anderson, and Joe Sweet grinding out most of the yardage. A 15-yard penalty, followed by interference on a pass, put the ball on the Clark 4; Strong crashed over for the TD. Again the try-for-points was no good.

SSC Edges Albany State College 10-3

In Homecoming

The Savannah State College Tigers edged the Albany State College Rams 10-3 in one of the most thrilling Homecoming contests ever played on the Savannah State athletic field. A highly partisan crowd of 4,000 widely cheering Homecoming fans saw the key-up Blue and Orange Tigers in their first conference win of 1959 gridiron season. The Rams, up to this time were undefeated in conference play, having won two prior conference games. The Tigers' record now stands at 2-2-1, while the Rams have a 2-4 record.

During the first quarter SSC fumbled on the 26-yard line and Albany recovered. They were not able to score as Jesse Carter and James Bowen stopped them on the 20-yard stripe. At this time Albany tried a field goal and missed. On the 25-yard line, Strong ran 49 yards, but the defensive power of the Rams would not let SSC progress any further.

In the second quarter both teams put on an amazing defensive stand. With six minutes left in the second quarter Albany was forced to punt. Albany's own 20 on fourth down Big Jess Carter, SSC guard, broke through the line and blocked the punt which was good for a safety as he fell on the ball in the end zone. Savannah State College went ahead 2-0.

With four minutes left in the second period, Quarterback Arthur Bostie was unable to get the ball to his own 30-yard stripe to SSC's 20-yard stripe, where the Rams tried another field goal but failed.

The first half ended with SSC 2, Albany 0. James Bowen was outstanding defensively for SSC, while John Strong took offensive honors with 103 yards rushing during the first half.

During the first few minutes of the third quarter Albany put on a sustained drive from their 35-yard stripe to SSC's 35, picking up three consecutive first downs. On the next play Ram Quarterback Gaumbe, attempted to pass, but fumbled and Anderson of SSC recovered. Albany was not able to get the Ram's forward wall and was forced to punt. The Rams returned the punt to SSC's 35, where Gaumbe's attempted pass to Bostie was intercepted by Tiger Herb John Strong on the 14.

On the very first play from scrimmage Anderson handed the ball to John Strong who galloped 86 yards off his left tackle for the first TD of the evening and the most spectacular run of the entire ball game. The point after touchdown was good as Anderson passed to Lawrence Williams in the flat. SSC went ahead 10-0.

After the Tigers kicked off, Albany put on another sustained drive, as Gaumbe passed to Ram halfback Shaw for a touchdown. Backfield Willie Townsend then carried the ball to SSC's 45. But on the next play Albany fumbled and Henry Wesley of Savannah State recovered. The quarter ended at this point. Lawrence Williams, John Gordon, James Davis, led the defensive attack for SSC during this period.

The fourth quarter opened with Albany on their own 44-yard line, but their progress was halted when SSC's 24-pound tackle, Louis Brown, made 3 bruising tackles to stop the Rams at the line of scrimmage. Albany's defense power was just as tough as the Tiger's as they fought to a standstill in the middle of the field. With Albany in position, the Ram QB fumbled on SSC's 30-yard stripe where Vernon Sams, the Tiger center, recovered. Again SSC's defense

Savannah State Tigers Romp Over Paine College Panthers, 42-12

The Savannah State College Tigers scored 16 points in the first quarter, 6 in the second, 8 in the third and 12 in the fourth to defeat Paine 42-12. Paine scored 12 points in the last quarter. Savannah's final record for the 1959 season is 3-4-2; Paine, 0-9. Scoring touchdowns for the Savannah State Tigers were John Owens, John Strong (2), Elijah McGraw (2) and B. C. Carswell. Points after touchdown were scored by Henry Wesley (2), James Davis (4) points and Lawrence Williams (2).

The Tigers scored on the very first play from scrimmage, as Fullback John Owen galloped 70 yards off his left guard for the touchdown. The point after the touchdown was good as "Little" Henry Wesley ran off right tackle. Paine had possession of the ball on their own 30-yard stripe when the punt came. The Tigers recovered. A combination of Wesley and Carswell moved the ball to Paine's 4-yard stripe, where Carswell ran off tackle for the touchdown. James Davis passed to Lawrence Williams for the extra point. At the end of the first quarter SSC was leading 16-0.

During the latter part of the second quarter SSC had possession of the ball on Paine's 25-yard stripe. Wesley, a senior, ran the ball around end for a touchdown, but legally made it no good. But on the next play Richardson intercepted the ball.

With four minutes left in the first quarter, Albany put on a sustained drive for the 8-yard line from their own 25, but the Tigers' defense wouldn't let them score. On the fourth down HB Bostie passed to End David Horne for the Ram's first and only TD of the evening. The point after touchdown was good as Bostie passed to his left end, Shaw, making the tally 16-6. Three minutes left in the game SSC took possession on the Ram 30-yard line, but was unable to hold the ball. They were forced to punt. Albany took over on their own 48-yard stripe and on the very next play SSC's James Davis intercepted as the final whistle sounded.

John Strong, SSC's leading ground gainer had 195 yards rushing. The most thrilling run of the game was John Strong's 86-yard run for a touchdown. Leading SSC defense were James Bowen, Ellis Zander, Lawrence Williams, Sam Thompson, John Gordon and James Davis. Outstanding for Albany were Halfbacks Bostie and Townsend, leading their defense were C. Bradley and Tim Duhart.

ard Anderson passed to John Strong from the 40-yard stripe to the 25-yard line, and Strong ran all the way for the Tiger's third touchdown. Outstanding on defense during the first half were Joe Mincey and James Davis.

On the first play from scrimmage, in the third quarter, with SSC in possession, the Tigers fumbled on their own 20-yard stripe in which Paine College recovered. But the Tigers' defense was too much for the Panthers as they did not progress at all. With the Tigers in possession, Bostie galloped off right tackle for a 45-yard run, but the punt on Paine's 35-yard stripe. Two plays later, Strong ran off tackle for a 34-yard touchdown. Davis ran the point after touchdown. The quarter ended 30-0.

During the fourth quarter the Tigers took to the air as Anderson and Davis were hitting their targets. The passing attack started on Paine's 20-yard stripe. McGraw and Strong were on the receiving end of those passes with McGraw scoring from the Tiger's 12-yard line for the Tiger's fifth touchdown of the afternoon. But the Tigers were not in the air alone as Quarterback Roy Wise of Paine moved his team down the field. Paine's interference called against the Tigers gave Paine the ball on the Tiger's 30-yard stripe to give Paine their first touchdown. Three plays later, James Davis on Paine's 35-yard stripe passed to End Elijah McGraw on the Tiger's 40-yard stripe where McGraw ran over a would be tackle and galloped for a touchdown. The play covering 65 yards. The fighting Panthers did not give up. They took to the air and moved the ball for a 35-yard punt to give the Panthers 12 points. The game ended 42-12 with the Tigers out front.

Playing their last game for the Orange and Blue were Henry Wesley, Hoise Harris, James Whitley and Jesse Carter. Outstanding defensive players were Lee Brown, Ellis Zander, John Gordon, John Gordon, Joe Mincey and Henry Wesley.

safety when a host of Claffin players tackled SSC's James Davis in the end zone as he attempted a fourth down punt. Claffin's next TD came as the result of a 52-yard pass from Chambers to Sargent. Sargent ran it over for a touchdown as Claffin went safely ahead 30-18. A few plays later Chambers passed to RE Eddie Bratton for the Panther TD of the evening. The try for conversion was good as Claffin went out front, 38-16.

SSC Tigers Have Fair Season:

Finish 2nd in SEAC

The Savannah State College Tigers played the majority of their games in run this season, and finished second in the SEAC conference with a 2-1-1 record. The Tiger's overall record was 3-4-2. The Tiger's were playing with the absence of ten men from last year's squad, which precipitated the need for a backfield, and most of all our quarterbacks.

At the opening of the season, Coach Richard Washington took an inventory of the prospective players and selected freshman halfback Richard Anderson to play quarterback. After the selection of a quarterback, he formulated with a backfield combination composed of John Strong and Henry Wesley. In halfback positions, James Davis and John Owens. Substitutes in the backfield positions were: Tom Farlow, Harold Lewis, Thurston Powell, Joe Sweet, John Sweet and B. C. Carswell.

The Tiger's line was fairly strong as it was composed of all veterans from last season. In the ends were Elijah McGraw, James Davis and Lawrence Williams. At tackles, Eddie Bell, Louis Brown and Joe Mincey. The guards were Jesse Carter, James Bowen, Ellis Zander and John Gordon. The center was Hode Harris. Helping these linemen, State 1 and Mullins bolted over for the TD. The attempt for the extra point was no good.

The Panthers struck again with James Colbert, Sam Thompson, Morris Carter, Paul Buchanan, James Curthous, Sam Holland, Paul Jackson, William McIntosh and Vernon Sams.

As Tiger's Roar sports editor, I have selected my choice of the most outstanding football players on the Savannah State College football squad for the season of 1959. The selections are as follows: James Davis, best all-round player. He plays end, fullback, quarterback, and linebacker. Davis also did most of the kicking.

Best offensive back — John Strong.

Best defensive back — James Davis.

Best offensive lineman — James Bowen.

Leading scorer — Elijah McGraw.

Most impressive freshmen — Ellis Zander, Richard Anderson, Vernon Sams.

It was indeed a pleasure working with the coaches, Richard Washington, Marian Mendenhall, George Miller, Manager, James Tuttle, Trainer, Roland James Curtis Adkins, Announcer, James Nevels and with Radio Station WSOX of Rossie Camp and T. J. Polite.

"The Authentic Look"

By Alphonse McLean

It's true, Ivy League Style began on the college campus. This is a unique styling designed for young men who prefer exclusive, "dapper" versions of men's clothing. Today Ivy League is the hallmark of good grooming for men of all ages everywhere. Ivy has increased its ranks to men of all professions over the nation.

The Blazer raincoat, traceable to the popular inner sports jackets. Cut to hit just above the knee (40 inches in length), this model gets added jauntness from 11 inch side vents and double-breasted front with traditional brass blazer buttons. Price begins around $44.50.

Slacks tailored in the basic Ivy cut without pleats, are smartly maneuvered for style plus ease of care. Lately the new Acri-Weave (automatic wash and wear) flannel has become a popular hit among college men. This type slack can be found in regulars, shorts and longslacks. Priced moderately at $12.95.

One of the season's top-flight sweater targets is the shawl or roll collar made of bulky wool. Indeed this is of Continental Influence, made of 100% virgin wool in 6 colors. Prices range from $12.95 to $18.95.

This winter, the authentic look features a fine selection of shoes. To promote the correctness of Ivy and Continental styling the American Leather Company has created a new, neat look in shoes with solid comfort can. Flexors are trimmed down on the outside, cushioned on the inside and flexible all over. If its a light-footed feeling you enjoy in a pair of shoes, Flexors are for you. Most styles range from $14.95 to $24.95.

Well there's no doubt about it, today's college student takes a dressed-up approach to college life. A poet once said, "The body is the shell of the soul and dress the husk of that shell of the soul; but the husk often tells what the kernal is." So true a statement, so true. There are certain factors that determine one's personality, dress is one of these factors.

Sol C. Johnson PTA

Buys Band Instruments

Through the combined efforts of the Sol C. Johnson Laboratory School's Parent-Teacher Association, the following instruments have been purchased: two bass horns, two baritones, ten trumpets, three trombones, four alto saxophones, ten snare drums, one bass drum, fifteen clarinets, four French horns, two bass clarinets, three bells and one cymbal.

Principal Alfreonce Cheat-ham and Band Director Robert Dilworth, an SSC Alumnus, share with grateful appreciation the expressed public opinion that great honors are in store for the Sol C. Johnson's band.

The band gave its first performance in October when it appeared in the UCA parade. Its next appearance was in the Savannah State College Homecoming Parade. On Saturday, No-

Alpha Phi Alpha float was first prize in Homecoming parade. Pictured above is the prize winning float and the lovely young ladies who will represent the Delta Eta Chapter during the 1959-60 school year. They are: "Miss Alpha," Annette Kennedy, and attendants, Carolyn Campbell and Janita Quinn. The theme of the float was "Georgia Peaches."

ember 7, the band presented its first football half-time activity when Tompkins High School and Sol C. Johnson met on the Grayson Stadium gridiron in competition. The band also participated in the Alfred E. Beach High School Homecoming Parade.

The staff of the Tiger's Roar salutes the Sol C. Johnson Band and football team.

*Sir Isaac Newton is struck

IT'S WHAT'S UP FRONT THAT COUNTS

As sure as little apples, Newton knew that what goes up must come down.

But when it comes down to a really pleasurable filter cigarette, it's what goes up—in front of the filter, that is—that makes the difference!

And there's where Winston had an inspired idea—Filter-Blend! Winston specially selects choice, mild tobaccos, then specially processes them for filter smoking. The result: Filter-Blend up front of a modern filter. That's what makes Winston a complete filter cigarette.

Filter-Blend also makes Winston America's best-selling, best-tasting filter cigarette. Take it from Sir Isaac:

"You don't have to be hit on the head to know that Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

AMONG WOMEN

By Geraldine Lindsey
Fall Shoes: Variety Galore

Is the Theme

The quiet little black pumps that go with everything will always be with us. But this year's shoe news is the variety keyed to specific occasions. This year's fall collection includes a wide range of colors and combinations as well as styles. The biggest news is the return (for dressy wear) of the open toe sandals with "T" double or sling straps and the D'Orsay with dipped neckline. Boots made on real shoe last and in many heights, from only a bit higher than a pump to well above the ankle, made lots of sense. Flat-heeled models should charm the kindergarten to college set. High-heeled, tall boots look chic as well as practical for travel.

Stacked heels, often thinner than the usual Cuban heel, range from flats for sportswear to over two-and-a-half inches high for the almost dressy town costume in the season's casual mood.

Pointed shapes, sharp or modified, continue in importance. But the slim flat oval toe looks newer and is gaining popularity.

This year various colors are coordinated with handbags and other accessories. Most popular are the browns, pale, spicy, chestnut and dark with spice. Grays start pale, almost bluish, and go to almost black. Greens, just as varied, reds and black are started.

"Coat-Dress Excels in Chic Disguise"

The coat dress is fashion's magician. It is a master of disguise. This is one style form that can look like several other styles. Not one of the new silhouettes is beyond it and not a single trend is outside its scope.

The coat dress is equally successful as a redingote or as a sheath. It takes beautifully to shirtwaist shape and uses the dress and bolers look for a bit of fakery.

It warps to the side, or straight through the middle, runs its buttons in a prim line or puts them on the diagonal and emphasizes the waist with a belt. The sleeves with new cut to the collar by either ignoring it or exaggerating it.

SSC took the punt on their own 46. From this point, Davis passed to Wheatley for 18 yards, and two plays later Davis passed 26 yards to McGraw for a TD. State missed the try for conversion and the score was now 18-6. On the kick off after TD, SSC tried an off-side kick, but it failed and Benedict Tiger's were in possession on the SSC 46. On the first play from scrimmage, Green passed to Pratt for a 48-yard touchdown. Again Benedict, who had failed to score a PAT all afternoon, failed, and the score was 24-6.

With two minutes left in the game SSC took to the air but was not able to complete but two passes out of about six. Losing the ball on downs, Benedict took possession with seconds remaining in the game.

Lawrence Williams, James Davis and James Brown were the leading defensive players for SSC making a total of 32 tackles among them. Johnny Green and Billy Carson were outstanding for Benedict.

This program is under the direction and personal supervision of Mrs. Ida J. Gadsden, instructor of health education.

According to Mrs. Gadsden, this campaign is designed to provide the Savannah State College Family and neighboring community with complete polio protection. Three shots are necessary for immunity. Two shots are given at a month interval. The final shot is administered six months later.

The first polio shot was given on Monday, November 9, 1959 at a price of 50 cents per shot. The date of the second half of this campaign will be announced later according to James Nevels, student chairman.

Technical Building to Open During the Spring Quarter

Dr. William K. Payne announces that he is hoping that sometime during the spring quarter the technical and science building will be utilized.

The division of technical sciences at Savannah State College, is now providing training opportunities for Negroes which are not available anywhere else in the state of Georgia. This is the only college offering a degree in technical sciences.

Mass production, atomic energy, industrial chemistry, electronics, and other sciences are teaming up to give America more goods, a higher standard of living, and providing more technical jobs for individuals to take care of this rapid advancement in our present industrial world.

The data reveal that there are not enough technically trained people on hand who like mathematics and applied sciences. Savannah State College offers a program to train competent workers to meet this demand.

Students entering the technical program must meet college entrance requirements. It is further suggested that students, during their high school training, secure as much science, mathematics, technical and industrial arts as possible while

In attendance. The technician is a special kind of person, and in certain fields he assists in planning and developmental work, estimating research work, and is often called upon to perform jobs ranging from simple testing of materials to tasks requiring a high degree of creative and technical talents.

President's Message

At the beginning of each academic year, three lists of students are sent to my office. A fourth list is implied, the computation of which must be determined on the basis of the other three lists. Usually the first two lists arrive containing the names of students who have been placed on academic probation. A day or two later the list of students who have made the honor roll and the Dean's List reach my office. A study of these lists and the total enrollment enable me to determine the fourth list which contains the names of the students who are making average progress in their studies.

A study of the list of students who are dropped for poor scholarship over a four-year period indicates that a college of considerable size might have been established for failing students. Of course, one would not wish to establish a college for students who found the names of those who have been placed on academic probation. A day or two later the list of students who have made the honor roll and the Dean's List reach my office. A study of these lists and the total enrollment enable me to determine the fourth list which contains the names of the students who are making average progress in their studies.

In several instances, the college has indicated its concern by providing entrance requirements, orientation programs, and advisors. It is desirable that students who are unable to do college work enter some other area which would be more suited to their aptitudes, interests, and desires. Someone has estimated that more than half of the students dropped for poor scholarship or placed on probation could, through their own efforts, have done satisfactory work.

The conditions which face the colleges today will emphasize this feature far more than in the past three decades. Standards and quality of college work will be raised each year. Average performance in our colleges today will move up to a new level. This is equally true of those who make the honor roll and the Dean's List. Students have been willing to accept in non-classroom activities the reality of living and learning. Those who are too tight for football, too short for basketball, too slow for track, unable to carry a tune for the chorus, unable to participate in swimming, or many other athletic activities do not waste time attending the practices. In classroom matters, however, too many have been content to be around or in the procession.

If students have not discovered before they arrive at college their inability to do college work, they should determine that factor during the first quarter and voluntarily withdraw. Those who plan to remain in college and to complete the program which they have undertaken, should plan to do it in an acceptable manner. The sooner students come to this personal understanding, the happier will be their lot and that of the cooperating agencies.

DR. WILLIAM K. FAYNE

Open Letter to the Savannah State College Family

Dear Family:

I feel that the matter of getting out a student publication on time should be called to your attention.

If your memory is serving you correctly, you will recall that only two previous issues of the Tiger's Roar have been published thus far in this school year. What? You say why not? A very good question indeed!

The Tiger's Roar is published, "supposedly," by the student body of Savannah State College; however, only a very few, in fact very, very few students have been cooperating with the staff in meeting its deadlines.

This publication is the official organ of the S.S.C. student body, the expression of students' opinions, and should reflect the caliber of students attending this institution.

My Kind of Democracy

By Leford Tobias, Jr.

A decade has ended and history now turns the page on the 1950's. It is a long page, packed with spectacular, terrifying and heartening developments. It records new concepts swiftly brought to reality, great new concepts of the future, and new contrasts to the past. It is characterized by two words, shadow and light.

THE SHADOW. A hydrogen bomb incinerated an island in 1953. A Russian rocket capable of carrying such a bomb actually hit the moon in 1959. Rocket-armed submarines prowled unbelievable distances without surfacing.

THE LIGHT. Medical science swept forward in giant strides with the Salk vaccine, new drugs for mental illness, isotopes and other weapons in the battle against cancer. Nations, although political enemies in some instances, pooled efforts in the greatest study of the physical earth ever conducted. The centuries old dream of a united Europe came close to reality. Europeans formed the Iron and Steel Community in 1957, Euratom in 1958, and the common market patterns of 1959. Apparently reversing the policies of his predecessors, Nikita Khrushchev said in 1959, "Let us disengage and compete in peaceful co-existence."

Six months after the dawn of the decade, the cold war turned hot. Before dawn on June 25, 1950, six North Korean infantry divisions, armed and trained by the Russians, attacked South Korea. They poured across the never to be forgotten 38th Parallel.

Immediately, President Truman ordered American land, sea and air forces into action. Americans were now dying again on foreign battlefields for reasons not clearly understood at this time.

By Thanksgiving, the war was "won." The North Koreans were shattered. American soldiers, standing on the banks of the Yalu River, looked at Red China on the opposite bank.

So the fifties began as the Age of Anxieties.

The great climax came in a pleasant city in Arkansas. Little Rock today is more than a name; it is a milestone.

The most violent chapter in the story began September 4, 1957, when Gov. Orval Faubus ordered units of the Arkansas National Guard to surround Central High School in Little Rock to prevent Negro students from entering.

After court orders, the Faubus-Eisenhower conference, and mob riots, federal troops entered Little Rock, September 24.

A cult of bearded "beatniks" arose, wearing dark apparel and sun glasses, writing odd ball poems, and indulging in easy living. These people developed a language of their own. They did nothing, but had a heck of a good time doing it.

SPORTS

Are "Red Hot"

By Jolly Stephens

The Savannah State College Tigers look as though they will win the SEAS crown again this year. They are the defending SEAC champions from last season. As of January 20, the Tigers have won twelve and lost one, losing their only game to their "jinx," Benedict College 98-95.

The Tigers have conference wins over Florida Normal, Paine College, Claflin College and Morris College.

The Tigers' success has been sparked by the "Fabulous Sophomore Five," which includes James Dixon, Stephen Kelly, Redell Walton, Willie Tate and Ira Jackson. Helping this five, which are better known for their defense, are Elijah McGraw, James Davis, Raymond Harper, Robin Roberts and Alphonso McLean. Other helpers are Lawrence Williams, Leon Wright, Joe Sweet, Marian Dingle, Frank Martin and Alfred Williams. Freshmen joining the team are Willie Epps, William Day, Arthur Payton and Leon Wright. All of these fellows have seen action this season.

The Tigers opened their 1959-60 season at home by rolling over Allen University 101-93. This game was seemingly a test for evaluating the Tigers' offense. On December 5, the Tigers defeated Florida Normal, three games: Edward Waters, Bethune Cookman and Florida Normal. The Edward Waters game was more of a defensive experiment to evaluate the Tigers' defense. They beat Edward Waters 88-50. Leaving Jacksonville, the team traveled to Daytona to play Bethune Cookman. In a game lasting five minutes over time 99-89. The Tigers scored 16 points during the overtime period. Then the Tigers journeyed to St. Augustine to play their first Conference game against Florida Normal to win by a score of 63-54. This was a game played in one of the smallest gymnasiums among the Conference accommodations.

Being successful on the road, the Tigers came home to play two games with Clark College of Atlanta. The first game, the Tigers won both games 62-59 and 72-62. Three days later, Bethune Cookman came to visit the Tigers seeking vengeance, but the Tigers snuffed them 87-85. With seven straight wins under their belts, the Tigers met the "tough" Virginia State Spartans and sent them home with a defeat of 102-75. The Tigers enjoyed of 102-75. The Tigers enjoyed of 102-75.

After the three-week vacation the Tigers played Benedict College during their first defeat 98-95. Resenting this defeat, the Tigers poured it on Paine College of Augusta, Ga., for a 106-66 victory. Then the team left for Orangeburg, S. C., and played Claflin College in their third conference game and won by a score of 71-64. The next day, the team traveled to Hampton to play Morris College in another conference game in which the Tigers won 84-57.

Returning home, the Tigers found Fort Valley waiting for them. Well, the Tigers "shot them out of the gym" as Coach Ted Wright played seventeen men, but the Slater State School 98-76.

Tigers Win SEAC Tournament,
Defeat Florida Normal in Final

The Savannah State College Tigers won their second consecutive SEAC Tournament by beating Florida Normal in the final 102-76. The leading scorers for the Tigers were Redell Walton, with 33 and Ira Jackson, 24. For Florida Normal, Bill McDougald with 29 and Scott Perry, 25. The half time scores were 45-34, in favor of SSC. The total time scores were 45-34, in favor of SSC. The Tigers, Walton, Jackson, McDougald, Perry and James Davis of Claflin made the first team in the all tournament selection. Jackson of Savannah was chosen as the most valuable player in the tournament.

Claflin won over Morris College, 76-74, in a five minute overtime for consolation.

Starting the first half for the champions were four members of the "Sophomore Five" and Robert Robbins, the only senior on the team. The others were Jackson, Walton, Willie Tate and James Dixon. For Florida Normal, McDougald, Perry, A. Powell, J. Williams and A. Jones. Both teams started the first half off by being very "hot" as they were tied 12-12, with the game 5 minutes old. Walton and McDougald were setting the pace with 6 points each. But with Jackson blocking a couple of Florida shots and McDougald of SSC stealing and setting up passes the Tigers quickly went out ahead by 9 points. Florida Normal was never ahead during the half. The first half ended 45-34.

Starting the second half were the same two teams. With the score half 8 minutes old, Perry and McDougald of Florida had cut Savannah State College Tigers' half time lead down to 5 points.

At this time the Tigers sent in the other member of the "Sophomore Five," Stephen Kelly, a 5'10" guard, who is a flashy, smooth ball handler, and he really got the team moving, in fact, he had 6 assists in 5 minutes. Kelly was the spark at this time because his opponents did not know what he was going to do with the ball when he had possession of it. Kelly also shot 10 points in this half, with 55 seconds left in the game, Walton hit the century mark with a 12-foot jump shot.

The only team that gave the Tigers trouble this year were those two Carolina teams, Benedict and Allen. Benedict being our jinx team, beat us twice this season, and Allen won one and lost one. But other than these two teams, the Tigers haven't had any trouble.

Oh, the Tigers roster this season was 20 men, they were: the "Sophomore Five," James Dixon, Stephen Kelly, Willie Tate, Ira Jackson and Redell Walton. On the "defensive five," Raymond Harper, Alphonso McLean, Elijah McGraw, James Davis and Robert Robbins. Other members of the team are Lawrence Williams, Marion Dingle, Willie Epps, Joe Sweet, William Day, Arthur Payton, Sam Thompson, Leon Wright, Sam Thompson, Roland Nash and Frank Martin. All of these Tigers have played a great part in SSC's splendid record. Redell Walton and Willie Tate made All-SEAC for their second year. Walton has the highest scoring average in the conference with 25.5 for 12 games. Jackson was chosen the most valuable player in the tournament. Jackson and Walton scored 113 points out of SSC's 174 in the tournament. Walton scored 57 and Jackson 58. These two players have been the big guns when it came to scoring all season. Willie Tate also helped in the scoring column this season as he has an average of 17 points per game. James Dixon, better known as the "Little General" by his teammates, is the acting captain for the Tigers. He is only 5-3 tall, but he is responsible for the team's success. The pace in which the team plays. Stephen Kelly a 5-10 guard has been the spark of the team with his smooth ball handling, dribbling and getting those points when needed. Kelly lead the team in assists. Robert Robbins, the only senior on the team, is one of the best rebounders on the team as he has an average of 17 points. These six players have been the workhorses on the team, and the Tiger's Roar salutes them and their teammates for the performance they have contributed to SSC this season. The Tigers having a 22-2 record before the tournament, had chosen to appear in the District 6 tournament of the NAIA in Atlanta, Ga., on February 26-27. The winner of this tournament will represent this district in Kansas City, Missouri.

The final score, SSC 109-65. The Tigers will play Fort Valley State College Wednesday night in Wiley gym.

Gators Lead

Intramural basketball got on its way, starting in January with eight teams participating. They are: Colts, Omegas, Gators, Apes, Hornets, Tramps, Kappas and the Rackers.

With the Madding and the Gorrillas out of the intramural this season, the competition showed a four team struggle, eight teams. The Madding went undefeated in conference play last year and the Gorrillas lost one. But the Rackers and the Gators are the team to watch for this season, since both teams have two wins with no losses. The Gators have wins over the Apes 45-17 and the Colts 41-34. The Rackers have wins over the Apes 52-20 and the Kappas 43-26. Intramural fans are saying that the Gators can win if the Rackers don't make them hit their own tail, so all of this remains to be seen.

Tigers Lose To Benedict

By Jolly Stephens, Jr.

The Savannah State College Tigers lost their second game out of 22 to Benedict College of Columbia, South Carolina, 96-88. This game was full of excitement, at questionable officiating and coaching on the part of the home team. The scores at half time were 42-33 Benedict. The leading scorers for Benedict were Steve Simmons 29 and Ed Walker Simmons 21. For SSC Redell Walton 33 and Ira Jackson 18.

The first half started with Benedict getting the breaks. It was 12-0 in the first 5 minutes. The ball down the court without running or double dribbling. The game was once tied at 5, but fouling on the part of Ira Jackson of Savannah State College 6' 3 1/2" center who is one of the leading scorers on the team gave Benedict free throws in which they capitalized on. With the game six minutes old, Benedict had three fouls, which is his game average for the season. With Jackson having three fouls he was replaced by Robert Robbins. The game ended when the two teams was on. During this half the scores were tied at 21-23-27-29 and 31. With Walton leading Savannah and Simmons leading the Cardinals. With the game this tight, Savannah State College fouling sent Benedict out front to end the second half with Benedict leading 42-33.

During the second half, Benedict College was high scorer for this half with 21 Johnson and Simmons for Benedict with 12 and 13. During this first half, Benedict found out that Benedict had too much air in the ball, and that caused confusion. But the officials finally decided to take some of the air out. This brought on a foul on another, when Benedict Coach asked Savannah State College Coach to take his team off the floor, but Coach Ted Wright of Savannah State refused and Benedict Coach was ready to go into physical violence. It was all stopped by the officials before it went any further.

During the second half for Savannah was the same team that started the first half, the "Sophomore Five." Benedict started their first live. The game was going along good. Steve Simmons of the Savannah State College Tigers came in with 3 points of Benedict, when Larry Pet of Benedict picked a fight with Savannah State College Captain James Dixon, a 5' 5" guard who had 4 assists with the second half 8 minutes old. The official put both of them out of the game for the original foul. Steve 71-66 Benedict. Robbins replaced Dixon as the Tigers were still gaining on Benedict. With 9 minutes left in the half, Jackson was fouled. The referee and the official called two consecutive fouls on him to put him out of the game. The score at this time was 76-73, SSC. With the game near its end, Steve Simmons of Benedict fouled Walton. But an argument came up at the official table. Savannah State College representative had five fouls for Simmons and the home team which is the official book had four so Shine remained in the game. At this time Tate and Walton were fouled by the Tigers. With four minutes left in the game Benedict got hot and tied SSC 82-82. At this time, Tate fouled out of the game which left only one minute in the game. In the game, Walton and Stephen Kelly, and then again, just like in the first half everything SSC did was wrong, as Benedict capitalized on SSC mistakes. The Tigers had more running, walking, dribbling violation in this one game called a nthem than they have had in the last ten games together.

Faculty Personality of Month

By Geraldine Lindsey

It has been said that teaching is a function of two variables—the subject taught and the pupil. In this imperfect world I would like to add a third variable—the teacher. It is very important that the impression made by the teacher's personality should be such as to emphasize the importance and dignity of the subject and its value as part of our cultural heritage.

Among our faculty we have such a teacher, who not only stands out because of her excellent work, but also because of her dynamic personality. The teacher whom I referred to is Mrs. Luetta Upshur.

Mrs. Upshur is an assistant professor in the Department of Languages and Literature and a Language Arts recipient of first place award for a short story from the College Language Association. A graduate of Fort Valley State College, 1948, she received the M.A. degree from Atlanta University, 1949. She also studied at the Breadloaf School of English (Middlebury College), Breadloaf, Vermont, in the summer of 1955.

She is a member of the Butler Memorial Presbyterian Church, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, advisor for dramatics and co-author of the choral drama which the Savannah State College verse choir presented at the Christmas Concert. She is the advisor for Kappa Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, and associate director of the Ninth Annual Press Institute. Having a keen interest in poetry, Mrs. Upshur has published several poems.

Mrs. Luetta C. Upshur, the Tiger's Roar staff wishes to congratulate you on being selected as "Faculty Personality of the Month."

All of the students are acquainted with the diminutive but dynamic Emmanuel A. Bertrand. Mr. Bertrand is a native of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. It is on the Islands where he received his elementary and high school education. At Hampton Institute, he received his B.S. degree.

Mr. Bertrand came to Savannah in July 1947. He served as chief accountant at Savannah State College until he was promoted to his present position—Comptroller.

Mr. Bertrand is married to the former Miss Ernestine Faucett. They have four sons with an age range from two to eleven—Edward, André, Etienne, and Edison.

Our forceful comptroller is a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., The Frank Collen Boys Club Board of Directors, and St. Benedict Catholic Church. Formerly he served on the West Broad Street YMCA Board of Directors and as chairman of the World Student Service Committee.

The controversy over the banning of Norman Thomas from speaking on the Lehigh University campus settled into an uneasy calm last month.

The only public comment came from Harvard history professor, Dr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., who visited the Lehigh area. Schlesinger said during an interview with local reporters, "All this must tickle Thomas. I imagine no one has thought of him as a menace for many a year. Not in 1960 anyhow. Probably, he's enjoying the whole thing."

Reports from the Lehigh campus indicate that there may be a reconsideration this spring on the University regulation granting the president power to approve or disapprove all guest speakers.

Rho Beta News

In the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., Rho Beta Chapter joined with thousands of Zetas all over the world. The observance was especially unique because all five of the founders are still alive.

The campus chapter had a Founders' Day dinner on Friday, January 15. On Saturday the sorors met with the city graduate chapter for a special ceremony. On Sunday afternoon the sorors were hostesses to the women of the campus at a Coffee Hour in Camilla Hubert Hall.

Plans are now being laid for the annual Girl-of-the-Year Contest. Please support the girl you prefer.

The sorors are especially proud of the following sorors: Soror Rachel Thomas, who made the Dean's List for the fall quarter; Archonlan Juanita Moon, soloist with the Savannah State College Choral Society when it sang with the Savannah Symphony on January 22, and Soror Ella W. Fisher who is featured in the current Crescent Magazine of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity as the "Zeta Star" of the Savannah Signas.

The chief warrant officer was particularly proud of the cleanliness of the ship's engine room. The enlisted men under him lacked his enthusiasm; they had to do the work.

One day a "white hat" had just finished putting what seemed to be the 99th coat of high-gloss enamel on the reduction gear housing. He was sitting admiring his handiwork when the chief appeared and demanded to know why he was losing.

FASHIONS

AMONG WOMEN

By Geraldine Lindsay

Color Highlights Day, Evening Silhouettes

Tunics, bloused tops, dolman sleeves, hobble skirts—whatever the silhouette, the common denominator in today's fashions is color.

Girls, if you are thinking of adding a few clothes to your wardrobe or having trouble deciding on matching the colors of the ones which you already have—then why not take a few suggestions? Try a teal blue costume and beads with orange hat, or maybe a green checked wool suit with green velvet overbouse. If you have a red suit, why not outline it in black fur or wool? For an even more vivid effect, try a crisp cocktail dress with massive jet jewelry.

If you are in need of a coat or ballgown—then consider an electric blue wool coat; and an apricot satin or turquoise faille ballgown and purple velvet, jewel banded.

Charcoal gray looks new for evening wear. The trend is toward apricot, crystal embroidered for evening, glistening in mohair for day.

A royal velvet costume with matching hat and shoes would be very stunning on any young lady.

Yes, girls, if you are considering colors, then think of purple tones—royal purple, violet, mauve, cerise, or maybe the browns—putty beige, taupe and tobacco molasses.

This column is proud to announce a contest to rite "best dressed campus co-ed" to be sponsored by the Tiger's Roar staff. Complete details will be announced in the very near future.

"This Is Jimmie Lang"

"Variety is the spice of life," says Jimmie Lang, disc jockey at radio station WSOX, 1230 on the dial. Jimmie is the famous "Baron of Bounce."

Better known to all record fans as "The Gator," Jimmie plays music to soothe the musical taste of the Rock 'n Rollers, the Beatles, the Jazz fanatics and any other conceivable classification.

He was radio announcer and disc jockey at radio station WDAF for two and one-half years, at WSGA for two years and has been working for the Fisher Broadcasting Company, WSOX, since August of 1959.

All filter cigarettes are divided into two parts, and...

"Weni, widi, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor speller) hail the discovery of Filter-Blend—light, mild tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking.

He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a complete filter cigarette, it must have Filter-Blend up front. And only Winston's got it!

That's why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it was offered gratis. In fact, history tells us he'd glower at the extended pack and sneer, "Eh tw, Brude!" In a stirring peroration to his legions, Caesar put it this way: "For the Numeral 1 filter cigarette—for the best-tasting filter cigarette—for the noblest filter cigarette of all—smoke Winston!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

P.S. to bachelors. If you're lucky enough to find a gal who'll keep you in Winstons, Caesar!

Prior to the opening of the play, Jason has returned from his voyages to Colchis where with the aid of Medea's sorcery he stole the Golden Fleece from the serpent-guarded cave. The princess of Colchis saved his life once again when she slew her brother who pursued them in their flight to Jason's Argo, anchored on the Black Sea shore. Jason returned victorious to Corinth and married Medea who bore him two sons. The "Medea" began several years later. Jason, driven by ambition, renounces Medea to wed Creusa, young daughter of Creon. In the heart of the abandoned barbarian wife, justice is fused to vengeance.

Testing and Guidance Play Important Role at Sol C. Johnson High School

A COOPERATIVE TEACHER TRAINING CENTER FOR SAVANNAH STATE COLLEGE

Education, like industry, has certain goals and standards of achievement. The people of any community can rightly ask at anytime, "What are the goals and aims of the teachers and our schools?" "What is Guidance?" "How does a Guidance Program aid in achieving teaching goals?"

The Chatham County Public Schools have no aims apart from the development of boys and girls. If you ask Sol C. Johnson Teachers, "What are you trying to do? What do you assume to be your basic asks? How does your Guidance Program function?" They would answer something like this:

"We are teaching boys and girls to become good citizens who think and act in a straight forward manner and who have good character and moral firmness."

The wide range of planned school activities provide the needed day to day experiences which will help students to practice good citizenship. In his participation the student practices critical thinking, realizing that the pulse beat of a great country is found only in an informed citizenry. Foundations for this kind of thinking will be found on every grade level at Sol C. Johnson.

The teachers are helping students to master the fundamental skills. The skills include reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling. Every citizen in a democracy must be able to read intelligently, speak correctly, write effectively and listen critically in order that he may direct his own thinking, control his own ideas and become a self directing individual, as well as a contributing member of society.

The curriculum includes electives such as Book Making, Homecrafts, Industrial Arts, French, Typing, Shorthand, Art, Music, Mechanical Drawing, Chemistry and Geometry. Electives are selected to help students to meet vocational goals, by other students as enrichment courses.

At Sol Johnson, it is felt that the sound guidance program evolves from the cooperative planning and effort of the entire school staff, the student body and the parents. The Guidance Program is a Guidance Committee. Special Services which the school provides for helping students in their school living; it is also designed to help them develop in the home living, also help them develop into well-adjusted citizens; it provides opportunities for helping students make a happy and satisfactory adjustment in the world of work.

These special services are information services. Testing services and counseling services are available. These services are carried out by a Guidance Committee; teachers are appointed by the principal.

Mrs. Melissa L. Miller, school counselor, serves as chairman of the Guidance Committee. Faculty members of the Committee are as follows: Orientation, Mrs. Sadie Steele; Cumulative Records, Mrs. Earline Beckett; Mrs. Christine Robinson, Mrs. Mary Ann.

Testing, Mrs. Thelma Stiles, Louis Young, Melvin Marion; Health Services, Alexander Hunt; Mrs. Dorothy Adams, Mrs. Nellie Jenkins; Leisure-time Activities, Mrs. Bertha Harris; Homeroom Guidance, Mrs. Blanche Miller, Fred Singleton; Study of Drop-outs, Mrs. Minnie Wallace.

Principal Alforreth Cheatham, and Assistant Principal Wade Simmons are constantly stressing that each student's achievement should be based on his highest capacity to learn. A testing program, based on individual ability and his accomplishments, must be an integral part of teaching. Only through this means can teachers plan effectively for each individual student.

A Discussion of Great Books Held

The recently organized Great Books Association Group considered Sophocles' Antigone at its third meeting on Wednesday night, February 24 at 8 p.m. in the Seminar Room of the College Library.

The Great Books Discussion Group is a project of the Great Books Foundation, a non-profit organization that encourages people to meet together and discuss great books. The group is locally sponsored by the Savannah State College Library as a part of its services to the Community.

The Great Books Foundation contends that, "The Great Books speak directly to every man, of himself and of his human concerns. Their voices are original, forceful, and clear. They have for generations been widely read by thoughtful men and have influenced their personal histories and the wider history of their recorded acts."

Persons interested in becoming members of the local Great Books Discussion Group may contact Mr. E. J. Josey, Savannah State College Librarian.

The University of Puerto Rico will sponsor the lectures and educational tours in San Juan and the Ministry of Education and Department of Social Welfare will jointly share in the direction of tour personnel in January.

Tour personnel will be limited to thirty. Early registration is essential.

SSC Holds Art Exhibition

The Savannah State College Library displayed an exhibition of sixty-three prints by the renowned American artist, Betty Wayne Parish of New York during the month of May. Miss Parish is a product of the Chicago Fine Arts Academy, The Julian Academy of Paris, France and the New School for Social Research of New York. She is a member of the Society of American Graphic Artists and the National Association of Women Artists. A winner of many prizes for her work, she was the recipient of the National Association of Women Artists award for the years 1939, 1948 and 1955. The Society of American Graphic Artists presented her an award in 1943. Her work has been displayed in the Birmingham Public Library, Syracuse University Library, New York Historical Society Library, the British Museum and the Royal Museum of Brussels.

The exhibition, on loan to the Savannah State College Library from the Grace Pickett Studio Guild, West Redding, Connecticut, was displayed in the Seminar Room of the College Library from May 8-20.

The public was invited to view the work of Miss Parish.

which they do better for themselves. We are putting a Federal Crutch under the arm of the poor. We are taking away the bootstraps which Americans once grasped firmly and pulled on to make something of themselves. We install in the American people a baleful desire to rely upon the Federal Government for everything."

I am sick and tired of hearing both the political parties in the United States say to the people: Look to Washington; forgetting what our forefathers said: 'Look to God; look to ourselves—we can do the job.'

"We are engaged in the destruction of our constitutional freedom. I have kept quiet long enough about these dangers..."

It would be a fine thing if the grass roots of glorious society would take it upon themselves to form committees for the purpose of defending the American Constitution and promote the great democratic program.

We should work, not as Americans, but as good, true men, who love their country well enough to unite to work for it and defend it, for this is Our America and this is My Kind Democracy.

Jazzville U.S.A.

By Alphons McGlean

The Meaning of the Blues

The Blues is as old as man. Every people have had some way of expressing their thoughts, and if they did not call it blues or use the same form that we now call blues, they nonetheless had some direct means of self-expression.

Even the word blues is much older than most of us realize.

We tend to think of it as something that has risen in the last 50 years, like the word jazz. But the old superstitious talked about the blue devils, the bad spirits that come over you when you are feeling low.

The music we call jazz is based on blues as a means of expression. Jazz could never have come into being without the blues, and it will never exist without the blues.

All art, of course, has been devoted to self-expression. But there is a significant difference between that which is produced by virtuosos and art that is produced by the people. It gives you the feeling and discipline to permit you to express yourself completely.

The blues was invented about 50 years ago by the American Negro in the New Orleans area. Since its advent many concepts have been formulated and we are presently familiar with JAZZ (Modern and Progressive).

Jazz Lab

Altoist Gigg Gryce is determined to have a standing group with a fresh sound. Often in the past the leader of small groups picked up for individual engagements. Gryce most recently fronted a quintet that featured six instruments.

The new Gryce group, however, features the leader on flute and alto; Richard Walling, trumpet and flugelhorn; Reggie Workman, bass (Workman can also play cello and guitar); Rick Wyands, piano; and Mickey Rorer, drums.

This new group has been playing dates in Manhattan, including Monday night sets at Birdland, the Cork 'n' Bib in the Village and the Turbo Village in Brooklyn.

New to this country, a new trumpeter-composer has dug in his roots. He is Dizzy Reece, who plays a related and modern horn in the Miles Davis kick.

Reece spent his first two weeks in the U. S. listening to other musicians in clubs and bars where there he began to let himself be heard, and formed his own group.

Appearing on his first dates were Hank Mobley, tenor; Milt Sealey, piano; Doug Watkins, bass; and Art Taylor, drums. Dizzy's efforts on wax are really worth a listen. We believe he is evidently off to a good start in what could turn out to be a rewarding year for Jazz.

J. J. Johnson for the fifth straight year has won the Best Reader's Poll for the leading trombonist in Modern Jazz.

New Sides Review

"GO"—Personnel includes Paul Chambers on bass; Cannonball Adderley, alto saxophone; Freddie Hubbard, trumpet; Wynton Kelly, piano; Jimmy Cobb, drums.

The physical make-up of this group is that of the Miles Davis Sextet of that time without John Coltrane, with Hubbard in place of Davis, and original drummer Jones since in for Nat Adderley, cornet. Tunes on this gig are "There is no Greater Love," "Awful Mean," "Just Friends," "Eyes on Me," and "Rhyme and Reason."

"The Swingsters"—Personnel includes Bennie Green, trombone; Gene Ammons, Frank Foster, Frank Wess, tenor saxophone; in for Nat Adderley, cornet; Tommy Flanagan, piano; Eddie Jones, bass; Al Heath, drums.

Spring Preview

By Alphons McGlean

We are now in the midst of the most colorful season of the year, "Spring." Spring is the season of changes. Winter's lingering chill is being chased away. May flowers are now making pleasant impressions. Along with nature fashions are changing too.

The new look in sport coats this season is the washable, Madras-type plaids, and feather-cord neckties. These are deftly cut with 3 buttons, natural shoulders, slender lapels and flapped pockets. True distinctive colors have been maneuvered to characterize the college man. Here you can get the distinction of individualized tailoring, expert styling, at surprising prices as low as $29.95.

All of us have used the expression, "Keep a Cool Head." It's now possible to do just that with the new "Raffia" straw hat. This hat is as light as you would like a straw, priced at $3.98. Made in Italy, it comes in five different colors: White, Blue, Black, Natural, and Tan. Why not get jazzy this Spring and break out with a cool straw?

Spring is the formal season. On campus there are semi-formal or formal. And last but not least the annual Junior-Senior Formal is coming. You are expected to dress formal. Psychologically you'll feel great in the romantic atmosphere you stimulate by wearing correct Spring fashions.

Behind the Scenes

By Leford Tobias

"Behind the Scenes" takes you for a visit with Mrs. Gertrude P. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson is identified with the nursing staff of Charity Hospital in Savannah. This very charming lady is a senior at Savannah State and a product of the local schools of Savannah. She received a certificate from the high school department of Georgia State Industrial College, now Savannah State. She is a member of First Bryan Baptist Church, located in Yamacraw Village. She is affiliated with the Eastern Star of the Prince Hall Jurisdiction of Georgia. Mrs. Johnson has a son, Louis H. Pratt, a product of Savannah State, now teaches at Georgia State High School in Darien, Georgia. She has served for fifteen years as a Licensed Practical Nurse since 1945.

The next stop during our romp behind the scenes was the "Wait A Minute, since it's lunch time, how would you like a lunch to eat? You would? Let's go to it, eh, Gertrude?"

"It is a sandwich or a coke or a shake you want, the ladies to see are Mrs. Susie M. Blake and Mrs. Mary Low at the College Center."

The College Center is open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and you can bet that you will be served with the best care and service that will keep you coming back day after day. These two charming ladies can convert a common pork sausage into a delicious and mouth watering sandwich, such as you've never seen before.

The busiest portion of each day for these ladies is the noon lunch hour. When the rush comes, they must keep on their toes because at times there will be as many as thirty people at the

In formal wear, there is a continuing trend to higher style. Color and luster in fabrics, unusual tailoring details, the jackets and patterned ties and cummerbunds provide a new and more colorful look."

To look your best, the new fashions in formal wear must fit properly—and be worn correctly. Jacket (white), Pants (black).

1. Jacket collar should hug neck and allow about 1/2 inch of shirt collar to show.

2. Trouser legs should hang straight in back; slightly above top of shoe.

3. If sleeves should be short enough to show about 1/2 inch of the cuffs of shirt and cuff links.

4. Never wear ankle shoes when you go formal. Ankle shoes high enough to conceal calf.

5. Pin the cummerbund in position with a safety pin to the shirt.

6. Wear a pocket handkerchief but see that it shows nearly, not bulging out of pocket.

Above are a few pointers on correct formal dress. Inattention to details can spoil your entire appearance. (The usual period for white formal is from May 1st to Labor Day.)

Dress Tips

1. Always untie knot in a tie after using or before hanging up. Knots left in ties tend to spoil the shape.

2. If sleeves clips on bowties become loose, the tension can be increased with a pair of pliers.

Dress Tips

(1) A suit has a better chance of recovering its shape when hung up. Everything is taken out of the pockets—even the breast pocket handkerchief.

(2) Try putting polish on your shoes at night and leave the shining until the next morning. The polish soaks into the leather, and prolongs its life.

(3) When wearing knit slims, try tucking the ends under your pants. This gives you a looking task and progressive.

Enjoy the new looks in leisure, dress and campus wear this coming year of exclusive styles. Make sure your selection is tailored for quality instead of quantity.

The author suggests to those who seek to excel in appearance wear the words: "Be clean," and "Be progressive." If you've got a good head on your shoulders for style... and a good eye for details, make it a point to read this column every issue.

Senior Beats His "Jinx"

Joe Sweet, senior, industrial education major, who has played on the Savannah State College basketball team for the past three years has finally conquered his "Jinx."

During Sweet's entire two years, the team he had reformed had never won a game, doing so, he became one of the most popular players on the team.

During a home game between the Savannah State and Florida Normal, Sweet beat his "Jinx" by scoring 3 points, which resulted in a standing ovation by a crowd of about 500 persons. He proved that "if at first you don't succeed, then try, try again."

Sweet is a member of the Gamma Chi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Incorporated, and his hobby is sports. He plans to become an instructor in Industrial Education upon graduating. He is known campus-wide for his friendly manner and willingness to help fellow students. Hats off to Joe Sweet!

My Kind of Democracy

By Leford Tobias

As we look upon the world situation, we become increasingly aware of an erosion, a crumbling of the principles upon which our forefathers founded this nation. We, as Americans, live our daily lives guided an supported by our dependence and reliance on certain eternal principles. These same principles were made an organic part of the foundation upon which our government was erected, and because of my objective view, I see signs of decay and weakening of the principles.

That we as Americans are united cannot be questioned; yet there are degrees of unity. We know that our hearts are one in support of freedom, truth, and brotherly love. To be alert means to take action as did our forefathers when danger threatened. Being vocal is asserting our God-given right. Clouded and vocal and we who can see more clearly must also be vocal in supporting the eternal values we love. We need our death knell by idly waiting for leaders to lead; each of us must be a leader.

A well-known and highly respected Senator recently said: "In the past 25 years Congress, the judicial branch, and the executive branch have followed the path of centralized government and the welfare state. We have said too long to the American people: You cannot do this yourself. Let the people who work the banks of the Potomac do it."

"We have poured in more people and more and more billions to let the people who work on the banks of the Potomac do for the American people those things

SSC Teaching Majors Do Student Teaching

According to Mrs. Thelma M. Harmon, Coordinator of Student Teaching at Savannah State College, forty-four elementary and secondary teaching majors were assigned to school districts in Chatham, Laurens, Wayne, Glynn, Ware, Liberty and McIntosh Counties to do student teaching for the Spring quarter.

Student teaching is the final phase of a sequence of professional experiences which are designed to promote pre-service teachers' understanding of the American school system, how children grow, develop and learn, and principles underlying good teaching. Evaluation of modern methods and materials to be used in teaching and providing constructive criticism for students to have frequent contact with children of various age levels and in many kinds of situations are important aspects of the professional sequence.

During a full quarter of student teaching, teaching majors at Savannah State College move from mere observers and part-time participants in classroom to the assumption of full-time guidance of pupils' learning activities. This development, of course, takes place under the direction and supervision of competent teachers.

The following is a list of the students, the schools in which they completed their intern work, and their critic teachers: Thomas Owens, Alfred E. Beach, Vernon Rhoney, Rose Ann Lanier, Alfred E. # $191,000 From Ford Foundation

Northampton, Mass. (I.P.) — Smith, Mount Holyoke and Amherst colleges and the University of Massachusetts have received collectively a grant of $191,000 from the Ford Foundation to make possible a joint program for the further development of non-Western studies on all four campuses. The institutions are neighboring ones and have a co-operative program among themselves.

The grant is to be used over a period of approximately four years and will bring to these institutions specialists from Africa, the Near East and South Asia as visiting professors to give both lectures and courses, and to advise on curricular development in these and allied fields.

Some of the grant will be spent to release time for present members of the four faculties for instructional in these areas; to strengthen library resources in these subjects; and to provide the necessary administrative expenses of a cooperative operation of this kind. The committee expects to complete necessary preliminary arrangements this semester so that a three year program may commence in the fall.

Alfred E. Beach, Richard Washington; Willie B. Lester, Center High, Mrs. Willie Creagh; Christine Welcome, Beach Junior High, Mrs. Louise Collier, Robert Bass, Sol C. Johnson, Mrs. Thelma Stiles; Grant E. Cooper, Oconee High, Roscoe Browne; and Allen Cooper, Risley High, Willie Bowden.

Concentrating on various aspects of the teaching situation such as Planning, Motivation, Discipline and other topics, the potential teachers are trying to find workable solutions to the many problems facing the teaching profession. At the last weekly seminar session held at Savannah State College, Thurnell Johnson, Rose Ann Lanier, Hosie Harris and Evelyn Gordon, discussed the problem of discipline. They agreed that discipline is a tremendous problem that cannot be worked out overnight.

According to the quartet, behavior is caused and it is the job of the teacher to search for causes rather than attempting to take short cut methods of applying immediate, and in many cases, useless punishments. Other groups will discuss similar problems at future seminars.

—THE EDITOR SPEAKS—Sherman Robertson, Editor-in-Chief of The Tiger's Roar, was the principal speaker for the Senior Class Day Exercises. He spoke on the topic, "What It Means to Be a Senior."

Sleep and Rest For Emotional Upset

Just fifteen minutes a night can spell the difference between a refreshing night's sleep or a day spent yawning, the February Reader's Digest reports. Enough nights without adequate sleep, it adds, can lead to severe emotional and mental damage.

Reporting on the results of recent scientific studies of the effects of sleep loss, Author Robert O'Brien quotes Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman, nation's foremost authority on sleep: "If we do not get enough sleep, we cannot be fully awake during the day." When not fully awake, we are not in our right minds, O'Brien adds.

How much sleep is enough? Says Dr. George S. Stevenson of the National Association for Mental Health, "All human beings need a minimum of six hours' sleep to be mentally healthy. Most people need more."

Scientists at Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Washington, D. C. have determined that a brain deprived of sleep will make any sacrifice to get it. After a few hours without sleep, the brain begins to "steal" fleeting seconds of slumber. As sleepless hours increase, the lapses become longer, perhaps three or four seconds. In a speeding automobile or on a complex job such lapses can spell disaster.

Most common result of too little sleep is irritability, O'Brien reports. Frustration may be a major cause of this snappiness, according to Dr. E. J. Murray, a Syracuse University psychologist. When hunger for sleep is frustrated, the effect is somewhat similar to snatching a juicy bone from a hungry dog.

If you are a chronic stay-up-later, the Digest warns you'd better not rely on that proverbial "one good night" to put you back in shape. Dr. and Mrs. Graydon L. Freeman, Northwestern University psychologists, found that at least two full nights and preferably more are necessary to bounce back from one four-hour night.

The article, "Maybe You Need More Sleep," is condensed from Farm Journal.

Scholarship Fund Provided For 36

Bridgeport, Conn. (I.P.) — A contribution of $79,800 from Charles Anderson Dana to provide full tuition scholarships for 36 students at the University of Bridgeport on a five year experimental basis was announced here recently by President James H. Halsey.

Twelve Dana scholars will be selected in June from sophomores in the present freshman class. These students will be selected in September, 1961 and 1962 will be selected in September, 1962. A total of 36 Dana Scholars will be attending at the University at that time.

Once selected the Dana Scholars will continue to receive scholarship assistance until they earn their baccalaureate degree. Dr. Halsey observed, providing that they continue to satisfy the University's academic requirements. The purpose of the Charles A. Dana scholarships is to identify and encourage students of academic promise who show potential traits of leadership in business, industry and the professions, and who are in need of financial assistance.

Students must have completed at least one year of study at the University and must plan to continue for the baccalaureate degree. "Dana Scholars may be selected by the University while Rhodes Scholars are to Oxford University," Dr. Halsey observed.

The Spotlight

By Yvonne McGlockton

An interesting personality is that of Willie B. Lester.

There is hardly a student attending Savannah State who does not know Lester. He plays an important role on this campus by giving much of his time and effort in service to the school and to his fellow schoolmates.

Lester has been a key figure in several organizations ever since he entered this institution in 1956. At present he is President of the YM.C.A. and the Senior Class, Superintendent of the College Sunday School, Vice President of the Social Science Club, Treasurer of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and a member of the Student Advisory Committee, and the College-wide English Improvement Committee.

He is a native of Jefferson, Georgia and a graduate of Union Institute of Athens, Georgia. Presently he is a senior majoring in Social Science and minoring in English. His ambition is to become a lawyer.

Lester, a young man noted for neatness in dress, can be very well described as the intelligent, polite, executive type.

Recently he was one of the two students selected by the College YM.C.A. to compete with students from other schools for an all expense paid trip to Russia this summer.

Like most well-rounded persons, Lester devotes some time to hobbies. As a pastime he enjoys movies and fictional books. From all indications you have a great future ahead, Lester. May you continue to be successful and always remember that the "Spotlight" is on You.

on the theme, "Toward Developing Academic Standards." Dr. Brown received his Master of Arts degree from Atlanta University and his doctor of Philosophy from the University of Chicago. He is a former teacher and principal. He was also president of Albany State College.

A very constructive and informative question and answer period followed Dr. Brown's presentation. Dr. Lawrence E. Boyd of Atlanta University served as chairman of the meeting. Serving as interpreters were Dr. B. Braxall of Morehouse College, Dean W. E. Blanchett of Fort Valley State College, Dr. C. L. Kish of Savannah State College, Dr. A. A. McPheters of Clark College, Mr. C. M. Richardson of Faine College, and Dr. Prince Wilson of Morris Brown College.

Faculty Personality Of The Month

By Geraldine Lindsey

This issue of the Tiger's Roar salutes Dr. Booker T. Griffith for his outstanding achievements and contributions to Savannah State College and community.

Dr. Griffith received his B.S. degree, M.S. degree and Ph.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh. At present, he is Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences here at Savannah State College.

Dr. Griffith holds membership in the West Broad Y.M.C.A.; Mu Phi Chapter, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc.; Beta Kappa Chi Scientific Society; Phi Beta Kappa; National Institute of Science; American Association for Advancement of Science; American Association of University Professors; and the American Association of Biology Teachers.

In recognition of his outstanding personality, Dr. Griffith, the "man of the year" award given by Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc., at Fort Valley State College, and the "man of the year" award given by Mu Phi Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity at Savannah State College, '52.

Dr. Griffith has contributed to the American Men of Science and the International Blue Book. His hobby is sports.

SPORTLITE

By Charles S. Lott

This edition of the Tiger's Roar brings to your attention Ira Jackson, one of the most valuable players on the Savannah State College Basketball Team. Jackson is a 6 foot 2 1/2 inch Sophomore, majoring in Health and Physical Education. He is a member of Crane Tech High School, Chicago, Illinois, where he was active in basketball, baseball and track.

In 1959, as a freshman, Jackson was voted to the all-conference team of the S.E.A.C. Indeed a more developed player this year, it is predicted that he will make the all-conference team again.

Jackson, a soft spoken individual, on and off the basketball court, has contributed much to the morale of his teammates. He has done so by exhibiting good sportsmanship and friendliness while associating with members of the student body and players of other teams.

Rarely does one find such an athlete that will keep "cool and calm" in situations that should require one to do otherwise. Jackson is an asset to Savannah State as a basketball player. His hobbies are dancing, golf, ping pong, reading and tennis.

Natural Science Grads Hold Key Jobs in Nation

Graduates from Savannah State College who prepared themselves in the area of the Natural Sciences are doing well in various jobs. Some are engaged in research work in health, some in industry, others have entered medical schools and are now practicing medicine, dentistry, or nursing; some are medical laboratory technicians; and still others are in the teaching profession.

With Dr. Booker T. Griffith serving as its director, the Division of Natural Sciences is ready to continue helping young people to prepare themselves for living. In natural science, one finds the department of mathematics and physics, headed by John B. Clemmons, and biology, which is also directed by Dr. Booker T. Griffith, Division Chairman.

As a yardstick for measuring the kind of graduates the Division is putting out, the three major departments have given the following samples of what some graduates are doing:

Chemistry Department. Miss Mae Champen, research biochemist, Sloan-Kettering Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.; James Thomas, chemist, U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C.; James Curtiss, chemist, Herty Foundation, Savannah, Georgia; Miss Gabe Chisholm, supervisor of Medical Technology, Chicago Hospital, Chicago, Illinois;

Mrs. Delores Perry Anderson, research assistant, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Bethesda, Maryland; Ransom Bell, research chemist, U. S. Department of Agriculture Research Service, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Daniel Pelete is doing petroleum research at the University of California; Cyrus Wright, U. S. Bureau of Chemistry, New York City; Jasper Green, analytical chemist, New York State Department of Agriculture.

Richard Moore studied chemistry at Yale University last year with the aid of a Danforth Foundation Scholarship. Savannah State was one of two Negro colleges who had a graduate to be awarded a Danforth Fellowship for 1959-60.

Biology Department. Alfonso Orr, Jr., research physiologist, New York State Department of Mental Hygiene and a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Fordham University, New York, N. Y.; James Denler, top ranking junior classman at Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tennessee.

Robinson, former instructor at Fort Valley State College and now teaching at Savannah State College; Miss Margaret C. Robinson, histologist, Norwalk Hospital, Norwalk, Connecticut. She is also vice president of the Norwalk chapter of the National Association

All filter cigarettes are divided into two parts, and...

"Weni, widi, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor speller) hail the discovery of Filter-Blend—light, mild tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking.

He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a complete filter cigarette, it must have Filter-Blend up front. And only Winston's got it!

That's why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it was offered gratis. In fact, history tells us he'd glower at the extended pack and sneer, "Et tu, Brute?"

In a stirring peroration to his legions, Caesar put it this way: "For the Numeral 1 filter cigarette—for the best-tasting filter cigarette—for the noblest filter cigarette of all—smoke Winston!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

SSC's SNEA Spotlights News

By Lena B. Thomas

Several members of the Student National Educational Association attended the annual State Meeting held on February 5-8, at Paine College in Augusta, Georgia. The delegation was given a very hearty welcome upon their arrival.

The meeting was informative, inspirational, and stimulating. Miss Rhodes, one of our SNEA members, was elected State President for the year 1960-61. She is the second person of the Savannah State College Family to hold such office. The college can again be proud of its SNEA members.

It is interesting to note that while the SSC delegation placed Miss Rhodes' name in the election pot, their group did not promote her for the office of president. The interviewing committee, being highly impressed with Cynthia during the preliminary conference, saw fit to voluntarily submit her name for the presidency rather than for one of the lesser offices as suggested by her college fellows.

The meeting was highlighted by a "Celebrities Banquet," at which time Mrs. Sadie D. Steele, Georgia State Teacher of the year 1959-60, gave the main address.

Persons attending the meeting were Misses Juanita Howard, President of the SSC SNEA Chapter, Vivian Sheffield, Nellie Sheiman, Lala Young, Pauline Jordan, Willie M. Ruth, Cynthia Rhodes, Mr. Willie B. Lester, Lloyd Hawkins, and our advisor, Mrs. Dorothy C. Hamilton.

By the way, did you note and read the pamphlets which were distributed during Religious Emphasis Week? That was the work of your Student National Education Association.

I hope this bit of news about our SNEA Chapter will encourage more of our students to become members and those who are members to become more active by attending meetings regularly.

Fashions

By Geraldine Y. Lindsey
"Spring's Short-Sleeves Assure Long Glove Success"

Positive proof of the importance of the eight button glove for spring was underlined for the consumer by retail advertisements in New York newspapers showing the new short, open-sleeved suits and coats.

This season, the bell sleeve, cropped to elbow length, came to the fashion scene, drawing the spotlight to the long glove. Wide open space left by these new cropped sleeves allows ample room for the graceful look of the long glove which can bring a wide expanse of color up the arm, or can be shirred gracefully, or elaborated with embroidery—all of these without producing a cluttered look.

The success of the eight-button length was confirmed in fall and holiday selling this past year. Its growing acceptance has brought it well on the way to classic status, rivaling the shortie appearing a ray prospect for spring sales.

In addition, the significance of color-neutralized in many cases—to accessorize the white and neutral colors reigning over the ready-to-wear scene, marks up a sharp point for the longer glove. It has an important fashion coordinating job to do this spring.

From a style standpoint the eight-button glove has never been so pretty. It is strewn with embroidery, lace and eyelets.

For fit, the longer version is elasticated at the wrist in pretty trapezoid bracelets, with even an elasticated top in pursuit of the smooth, slim arm.

GTEA Groups Meet on Campus

During the 42nd annual convention of the Georgia Teachers and Education Association, several departments of the Association met on the campus of Savannah State College.

The Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, meeting in Fowell Hall, based its discussions on the topic "Keeping Abreast with the Drastic Changes Which Are Affecting Today's Agriculture." F. H. Stone, retired Federal Extension Agent, led the discussion in an effort to stimulate greater interest among the extension agents and enlighten them further with their duties and responsibilities and to add to their general knowledge.

County and Home Agents from 15 counties attended the meeting. Augustus Hill, state agent for Negro Work, is president of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service.

LIBRARY SECTION

The Librarians section of the GTEA met in the College Library. Mrs. Helen Burnette, president of the Librarians, presided.

At the regular college assembly program in Melvindir Auditorium on Thursday, Miss Leontine Carroll, assistant professor of Library Science, School of Library Science, Atlanta University, delivered the main address. Miss Carroll, substituting for the originally scheduled speaker Dr. Virginia Lucy Jones, Dean, School of Library Service, Atlanta University, who was hospitalized recently, spoke from the topic "Challenges of Librarianship in the Space Age."

Miss Carroll is a graduate of Southern University where she received the A.B. degree, Atlanta University School of Library Service with the M.S.L.S., and has done further study at Western Reserve University.

Wells Discusses African Continent

By Virginia A. Mercer

A film, "The Rising New Africa," depicting the new and modern developments in Africa, many of the modern buildings, parts of the country-side, and portions of the ceremonies as some of Africa's countries gained their independence, highlighted the All-College Assembly Program on June 23, 1960. The well-traveled I. J. K. Wells, State Supervisor of Schools in the state of West Virginia, was the speaker for the occasion. He has traveled to every continent except Australia and has visited the continent of Africa seven times.

Mr. Wells talked briefly on the "Ten Basic Concepts of Africa," which all Americans should be informed of. Mr. Wells stated the Ten Basic Concepts as (1) Africa is extremely rich in natural resources such as oil, gold, diamonds, and coal. (2) Africa is the home of great races. ### Dr. Williams Speaks At Assembly Program

By Norman B. Elmore
Dr. Elson K. Williams, Director of Summer School, Co-ordinator of General Education, and Professor of Social Sciences at Savannah State College, addressed the college family at the All-College Assembly program June 30, 1960.

The speaker's address was entitled: "The Real Quality of Man." Dr. Williams stated that "we should dedicate ourselves to the service of humanity and strive to eradicate the exploitation of background nations by powerful and imperialistic governments." He closed his address by asking the student body to join the crusade against communism which is a malignant threat to freedom and world peace.

Dr. Williams was introduced by Rev. A. E. Peacock, college minister. The music for the occasion was under the direction of Dr. C. A. Braithwaite, chairman of the Fine Arts Department.

Other points brought out about the continent is that Africa is a beautiful place and does not have an unfit climate as many believe. It is a cultural continent, and not a continent of laziness. There were a number of African-made articles placed on exhibition during and after Assembly. They included articles made of Tony and other woods and materials native to the continent of Africa. After the Assembly, Mr. Wells entertained questions from the students concerning Africa.

Among the active participants in the workshop are in-service teachers from a cross section of Georgia. They are: Mrs. Alison, Atlanta; Mrs. Margaret Beard, Augusta; Mrs. Mildred Benyard, Savannah; Earl J. ## Message from Student Council President

Dear Fellow Students:

Significant factors of our day indicate that all around us changes are self-evident. The spirit of throwing out the old and welcoming the new and better is present here on our campus also. The general consensus of opinion echoes the cry that this is the year to have a student council that is really on the job.

This feeling represents a healthy attitude, for complacency has jeopardized its usefulness. Nothing new is ever experienced by this who are completely happy with the things that surround them.

Your student council can only be as strong as the student body it represents. And in like manner, your leaders can only help whenever they are acquainted with your needs. For many reasons, plans are now in progress for a permanent student council office. Regularly scheduled meetings of the entire student body are also in the making. None of these factors can be successful, however, without your loyal support. It is as a result of your support that I was chosen Student Council President. It is my earnest prayer that this same support that was previously shown will last throughout the school year and work to produce a record unequalled by any before and unattainable by any coming after.

Yours very sincerely,

STUDENT COUNCIL PRESIDENT

Message from Summer School Director

The Summer Quarter marks an articulate phase of the entire process of education at Savannah State College. It supplements and complements the experiences that are afforded during the regular school year. It enriches and invigorates the educational tone of the college. It provides for the immediate needs of the most diversified interests and talents.

The standards of scholarship for the Summer Quarter are comparable in all respects to those of the academic year. The quality and quantity of teaching and learning, the educational preparation of the faculty, and the regular student body parallel those of the academic year. In addition, the educational background of our in-service teachers (most of them have already attained a bachelor's degree and through the master's degree contribute substantially to an enriched atmosphere for teaching and learning.

The purpose of the Summer Quarter in state is the Savannah State College Bulletin:

1. To afford opportunities for teachers in service to complete degree requirements; renew, upgrade, reinitiate or convert their certificates; improve their professional status; and enrich their experience for personal growth.
2. To make it possible for students regularly enrolled to pursue their studies the year around, and consequently complete degree requirements in less than the normal period of four years;
3. To provide a program for entering students (freshmen) to begin their college work during the summer;
4. To institute special work-

The School Spirit at SSC

By Yvonne McGlockton

After attending this institution for the past three years, it is quite evident that one of the greatest needs of our college is school spirit. Here the students take little interest in participating in extra-curricular activities and as a result the school spirit is being par-

This poor school spirit may be due to a lack of stimulation. Many of the campus activities do not stimulate enough interest among the students. They merely exist from year to year and make no beneficial contribution to the school.

Poor school spirit can also be attributed to lazy students. In this category are those students who come to the institution with no intention of participating in anything that is not a requirement. Let's hope that none of our students fall in this category.

In the future let's try to improve the school spirit at this institution. Let's use more of our talents and skills for the benefit of the school. The school spirit is the life of the future. In order for Savannah State College to achieve the future, the school spirit must be improved.

Shops an projects varying according to demands of all of the interested and qualified persons concerned; and

5. To serve as a community college for all persons who are qualified to attend and are able to receive benefits from the college experience.

The administration and faculty should be concerned with the facilities of the college are designed to stimulate scholarship, to facilitate learning, and to provide the most beneficial experiences for all who attend Savannah State College during this quarter.

THE EDITOR'S DESK

The Editor Speaks

Prestige is largely a matter of feeling, suggestion, impression; and it depends primarily on the possession of leadership which each of us has acquired through the years. The fact of the matter is certain that all men have the quality of good leadership. It is though there is something in what we call a "natural gift of authority," which cannot be acquired; it comes from the inner-most being of some individuals and varies in each. The true leader, like the great artist, or singer is a man with inner propensity which can be strengthened by the exercise of his abilities.

Students in college have a great opportunity to show and develop their leadership and other outstanding abilities. It is up to us to evaluate ourselves as being to the open these special interests. The training we are now being exposed to will no doubt develop our individual leadership and prestige.

How To Be An Effective Leader:

1. Always have a pleasant but stern personality. Meet new people, never stop speaking to those you know.
2. Observe others carefully and make clear your objective as a leader.
3. Be able to cope with factors in any situation.
4. Insure yourself of self-confidence and determination to do a good job.
5. Always establish an atmosphere of calmness and alertness.
6. Influence men's minds through speech, and dress. Always create favorable impressions.

The above concepts are personal speculations each one should possess.

The responsibilities of a leader lies within one's self-determination.

Once the leader has been judged capable of adding the weight of his personality to the known factors of any situation, the ensuring hope and confidence will add immensely to the faith reposed in him by

Remember, to speak to the dilute one's thoughts, to give vent to one's ardor—in short, to dispel one's stream of consciousness action demands all of these plus concentration.

Strength of speech and inner determination will pave the way to greater heights of prestige and leadership.

Politics and World News

Miss Shirley D. Jones, junior: "One of the most important positions of the world is that of President of the United States. The next president should be able to accept responsibility in an intelligent manner, and he should further stress more racial equality. I sincerely feel that this man is Mr. Nixon."

Miss Mary D. Wilson, freshman:

"I will cast my vote for Kennedy because I feel that he has a bright outlook on the future as far as the United States is concerned. He has freely voiced his opinions on vital issues and he seems to be able to handle the situation that Mr. Eisenhower faced upon the responsibility of the United States."

Mrs. Rosa Lee James, senior:

"I am going to vote for Senator Kennedy, because he has succeeded in helping to solve the unsettled state of world affairs."

Miss Geraldine Spaulding, junior:

"In November, I will cast my vote for Senator John F. Kennedy, because he is an experienced leader who will channel the United States into an era of peace and security."

Miss Ruby Futch, sophomore:

"I am voting for Vice President Nixon, because I like the outlook of the Republican Party. I also feel that Mr. Nixon has the experience that it takes to carry on the responsibility of the President of the United States."

Library Presents Art Exhibition

Paintings by members of Professor Phillip Hampton's Water Color and Painting Classes are on display in the Seminar Room of the College Library.

The exhibition includes the works of three prominent art enthusiasts of the community, Mrs. Bertrand and Mrs. Pauline Sadie M. Jason, and Mrs. Mary B. McDew. These ladies have been studying Water Color under R. Hampton.

Works by Henry Balloon and Mrs. Roberta Polite, graduating seniors, and Carl W. Moore, a freshman are also on display.

Two abstract paintings by Mrs. Bertrand and Mrs. Polite were eye-catching. Mr. Balloon's painting is a semi-abstract gouache. Mrs. Jason has on display a gouache painting depicting a peaceful lake. A semi-abstract tempera by Mrs. McDew is a fascinating scene to view Carl W. Moore, a promising freshman, is represented by a life-like village scene in water color.

The Forthcoming National Election

By James J. DeVoe

Who are you going to vote for in November in the event that Richard Nixon and John F. Kennedy are the candidates of their respective parties? This question is very important in American political circles today. The Democratic candidate may be hindered by his age and religion, although he showed considerable strength at the Democratic National Convention by winning his party's nomination on the first ballot.

On the Republican angle, a vast majority of the people believe that Mr. Nixon is too conservative. They further stressed that his party was to blame to some extent for the failure of the Paris Summit Conference. So, one can plainly see that Mr. Nixon too has some hurdles to pass.

All in all, discussing the situation of the various candidates and their respective platforms will not help them, unless the American people go to the polls and vote in November. Talk is cheap; it's the vote that counts.

Student Opinions of the Forthcoming Presidential Election:

William Burton, senior:

"I am definitely for Kennedy. His religion and youth should not be a major factor in this election. Mr. Kennedy is the man who will do a splendid job in the White House."

Miss Roberta Davis, freshman:

"I am going to vote for the candidate who will stress strong civil rights for the Negro population."

Thomas Farlow, junior:

"I will vote for Mr. Nixon, because I want to be on the winning side."

National Sports

By Charles S. Tootle
For The First Time

For the first time in history it has been done. I refer to the recent triumph gained by the young master Floyd Patterson. The youngster who roamed the streets of New York City has gained international fame by recapturing the heavyweight title of the world in dethroning the "glamour boy," Ingemar Johansson, in the fifth round of their proposed fifteen rounder, June 20.

The youthful Patterson says that for the first time he feels like a real champ. "This is easily the most gratifying moment in my life. I never for a moment thought of losing, but to win in this way—it's just perfect. I can't tell you how happy I am," were the words Patterson spoke after his great victory.

When asked if he wanted to fight Patterson again, Johansson stared glassily and mumbled, "I don't know."

So down in history goes another record among the many which have been made by "Tan" stars.

Sets World Record at Trials
Also on our national scene we find that John Thomas of Boston University, during the Olympic trials held at Stanford, California, July 1 and 2, and 7, and 14, set a world record in the high-jump.

Thomas' jump of 7' 3 1/2" gave him a spot on the U. S. Olympic team that he will travel to Rome, Italy. When the announcement was made concerning the jump, the crowd of some 43,000 people rose to their feet and cheered him.

Some believed that Thomas, after a not-so-long-ago "freak" accident on an elevator would never again be able to jump. However, this determined kid, who is in his "teens," has proven that he can set many more records before the "chips" go down.

Thomas will be amidst but a few teen-agers who will venture with this mighty team that the United States will send abroad. During the trials, thirteen try-outs were held and one ended in 17 events by Thomas.

Can the United States sweep the meet in Rome? Let us wish them luck.

Campus Spotlight

By Yvonne McGlockton

The writer of this column takes pleasure in presenting in this edition two interesting personalities.

One of the personalities is Carolyn Vinson, a junior, who hails from Savannah, Georgia, and is a graduate of Alfred E. Beach High of this city.

In the fall of 1958, Carolyn enrolled at Savannah State College and immediately became one of the college's active students. She joined the creative dance group, college playhouse, college marching band as a majorette, and the women's ensemble. In her sophomore year she added to her already long list of activities, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Carolyn proves the fact that extra-curricular activities and scholarship go together. Every consecutive quarter since she has been at the college she has been on the honor roll.

Attractive and debonair, Carolyn is the happy-go-lucky type. Her yet peevish nature is not worrying. For enjoyment she has a variety of interests which include swimming, dancing, and reading.

At present she is majoring in Social Science with the ambition of becoming a social worker after she goes to graduate school.

Another interesting personality is that of Nathaniel Johnson,

Cooperative, courteous, and competent are three "Cs" which adequately describe Nathaniel. He is always willing to give a helping hand and he is highly efficient in his work.

Hailing from Savannah, Georgia, Nathaniel is a 1956 graduate of Woodville (Tompkins) High School of this city. Presently at Savannah State, he is a senior majoring in mathematics and minoring in physics. He is affiliated with several campus organizations such as Beta Kappa Chi National Scientific Honor Society, vice president; Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity (Dean of Pledges), Committee for Curriculum Improvement, and the Student Council (vice president).

His favorite dishes are roast chicken and fried shrimp. As a pastime, he enjoys golf and tennis. His foremost ambitions are to obtain a civil service position with the United States government, own a sports car, and marry Eleanor Johnson.

The writer of this column takes pride in adding these two outstanding personalities to the Spotlight. May your abilities and attitudes continue to be reflected among your associates.

Nearly 50,000 Foreign Students in U. S. Colleges

More foreign students in the United States during 1959-60 than ever before, the Institute of International Education reported in its annual survey released today. The 48,486 foreign students in American college classrooms this year continue to represent the largest foreign student population in the world.

Actually, however, this year's increase is the smallest rise in the last six years. In 1958-59, the increase of foreign students over the previous year was 8.8%, whereas this year the rise was only 2.6%. This may be an indication that the heavy influx of foreign students each year is leveling off.

On the other side of the two-way exchange, the traffic of American students going abroad increased a significant 34%. Though part of this increase is attributed to better polling, more and more young Americans are discovering the rewards of a foreign academic experience.

The movement of foreign faculty members who came to teach or do research and foreign doctors who served as interns and residents throughout our fifty states also accelerated this last year. The only decrease in any of the exchange categories was a 3.9% drop in the number of American faculty teaching or conducting research abroad.

Modern Art Is Acceptable?

By Theodore Smith

This is the first in a series of articles which will appear in the Tiger's Roar. The appreciation of art is generally not accepted as it should be. The purpose of this column is to offer new and old creations in art.

The author wishes to remind the reader that he is not an artist and these articles will present modern art from a non-technical point of view.

In order to generalize the idea of modern art, one must include the progressive types of writings and music of our times.

The phrase "Modern Art" is an image of a canvas covered with some arbitrary organization of lines and colors which at best confuses rather than clarifies the mind of the painter. Sometimes along with this impression there is a BEATED INDIVIDUAL called a BEATNIK, who receives credit for creating a masterpiece, often called a "mess."

Another impression of modern art might be a bar or a cafe at which the painters gather to exhibit their works to the interested public.

If anyone of these images is a true one, perhaps it might as well be considered all of these as the trend in art today. Art itself is the heart of a man who looks into the smallest expression of inner beliefs and truth and puts it on canvas in oil. It reaches out to touch the eye as well as human imagination.

Modern art is many things to many men in different places. It is a way of expression and pleasure. How do you feel toward modern art? I sincerely hope you will evaluate my thoughts on the subject and follow this column in future issue of the Tiger's Roar.

The sultan kept his harem several miles away from his palace, and each day he sent a trusted servant to fetch one of his harem. The sultan lived to be 21; the servant died at the age of 40.

The fastest moving object, next to a jet plane, is a nudist who spilled hot coffee in his lap.

"Look at the way these young people dress today!" snorted the judge at the bench. "Show to another judge standing next to him." "See that thing with a poodle haircut, blue jeans, and skirt hanging out? I can't even tell whether it's a boy or a girl."

The judge he was talking to coldly answered, "I can assure you it is a girl — she is my daughter."

"My apologies," mumbled the first judge, "I had no idea you were her father."

"I'm NOT," snapped the parent, "I'm her mother."

The salesman began knocking on the door. He knocked again and again but there was no answer.

"He's turned to the boy and said, 'I thought you said your mother was at home.'"

"She is," said the boy, "but I don't live here."

Jazzville U.S.A.

By Alphons McLean
Modern Trumpet Players

"What Miles Davis showed us," says Art Farmer, who has developed into one of the most warmly lyrical of modern jazz trumpet players, "was that you could play musically and get recognition without having a lot of a technique."

Before Davis, of course, there were other jazz trumpeters who played sharp, singing lines—among them Bix Beiderbecke, Joe Smith (who was particularly expressive behind Bessie Smith), and Frankie Newton. Another, who has survived and is as judiciously elegant as ever is Bobby Hackett. Farmer is impressed by Hackett's "fluidity and that full sound and feeling he always gets out of his horn." Miles Davis, who is more difficult to please than any critic, is also a long-term Hackett admirer. "He has such consistent taste," Miles said recently, "that he never gets tiresome."

Art Farmer meanwhile is the nominal leader of a brass-with-rythm section sextet in BRASS SHOUT (United Artists 4047, 5047 stereo). Benny Golson has written two originals and five other arrangements that are thoroughly idiomatic in their scoring for the three trumpets, two trombones, baritone horn, French horn, and tuba. Golson achieves a mellow brass sound in the ensemble passages with the tuba. Miles Davis and lower ranges in contrast to the leaping of the Stan Kenton and Maynard Ferguson brass sections. Out of Golson's subtly colored textures come several persuasive, thoughtful soloists besides Farmer. Among them are Curtis Fuller, trombonist and Julius Watkins, the only jazz player on French horn who doesn't sound as if he had strayed into the wrong studio.

In BRASS SHOUT, there are also two intense trumpet solos by Lee Morgan, a breezily self-confident twenty-one-year-old who is more in the explosive tradition of Dizzy Gillespie and Clifford Brown but is also growing in self-discipline. A characteristically crackling witty Morgan can be heard with Art Blakey and the Jazz Messengers.

Students Discuss New Library Standards

Members of the Library Science Class 302, School Library Administration and Organization, of Savannah State College presented an assimilated telethon on the new school library standards which were published in March by the American Library Association, in the all-college chapel program, Thursday, July 7. Focusing attention on the new set of standards for school library-service, Library Science students pointed out to their fellow summer school students that the school library at both elementary- and secondary-school levels, has a vital part to play in supporting and promoting the aims of the total school program.

These standards were developed by the American Association of School Librarians, working with representatives of twenty other educational organizations. They set forth the principles and goals of an effective library program and describe the basic requirements for its realization. Dr. Frances Henne, Associate Professor in the Columbia University Library School and Miss Ruth Ersted, State School Library Supervisor in Minnesota, who served as co-chairmen of the School Library Standards Committee of the American Association of School Librarians, succinctly depicted the standards as follows: "The primary purpose of the standards is to describe the school library resources and services needed to provide quality education for children and young people and to present guide lines for developing school library programs of this nature; the standards therefore focus on library programs that contribute directly and effectively to the achievement of the objectives of these schools. They must be considered in relation to the objectives of the schools and not in an isolated or artificial fashion as though they referred to a library program set apart from the school as a whole."

Students who appeared on the panel represented a wide variety of backgrounds. The following in-service teachers participated: Mrs. Albertha Vaughns, Savannah; Mrs. Jewell C. Robinson, Orange County, Florida; and Mrs. Lucy O. Solomon, Savannah. Two teacher-librarians who were enrolled and actively participated were Mrs. Carrie Maynor, Savannah County, and Mrs. Mattie Hicks, Liberty County. A public librarian in Pierce County, Florida, Mrs. Rachel Meeks, also served on the panel. Undergraduate students who participated on the program were Miss Vera Adkins and Miss Minnie Ruth Smith who are seniors. E. J. Joey, Librarian and Associate Professor, was the instructor of the course in School Library Administration and Organization.

SSC Students at New York Child Care Center

By Yvonne McClockton
Eleven of Savannah State College students have been employed with the New York Migrant Child Care program for the summer. They are Zadia Brown, Mattie Burton, Almarie Glover, Verdell Lambert, Drucilla Moore, Ella Marie Phillips, Virginia Norris, Ruby Sims, Marguerite Tiggs, and Vernita Wright.

These students will serve as directors, assistant directors, and group leaders at one of the twelve migrant centers which are sponsored by the state of New York in collaboration with the New York Growers and Processors Association.

The centers which are managed solely by college students, afford great opportunities for experience in planning and directing activities for children of migrant workers.

Last year four students from this institution worked with the program. Among them was Alice Knight, a June graduate, who served as director of one of the centers.

Senior Jason's Spanish Workshop

By Rachel S. Thomas
In-service teachers and regular students were given the opportunity to increase their Spanish speaking ability and learn new skills in the six weeks Spanish Workshop offered this summer. Many experiences were gained through the very capable leadership of Senior Howard Jason, Associate Professor of languages and literature.

The course began on June 15, 1960 with these principal purposes in mind: (1) to increase the student's competence in the language; (2) to acquaint him with methods and materials for teaching this course; (3) to give students insight into Spanish life and civilization; and (4) to point out to him the urgent need today for Americans to study foreign languages, in the hope that he will carry the message to his students and to the people in his community.

The course aimed to have the students speak, listen, and read, and write as much Spanish as possible. The methods employed were: (1) to have both teacher and students use Spanish as much as possible; (2) to make tape recordings of their own speech, replay the tapes and analyze their pronunciation; (3) to make a second writing to determine the improvements made; and (4) to practice reading assignments on which the students are asked questions to be answered either orally or in writing. Other techniques used were dictations, work on chalkboards, free compositions on subjects that had been discussed orally, lectures and films in which the students had opportunities to express their thoughts and opinions.

Sherman Robertson, former Editor of the TIGER'S ROAR, is greeted by the First Lady, Mrs. W. K. Payne, as he passed through the receiving line at the President's Reception for the Senior Class of June 1960. Looking on are Dr. W. K. Payne and Dean and Mrs. T. C. Meyers.

A three hour orientation period in the State Department office was given to the group by Dr. Charles Secretary of State. One of his duties is to give to official visitors a review of the political, social, economic and educational developments of Puerto Rico from 1959 to the present. Included in the group were an educational official from the Philippines and the Adult Education Director from India.

Student Body Sponsors Movies

By Bertha Kornegay
The Student Personnel at Savannah State College sponsored the movie, "China Gate," on July 12 at 8:00 P.M. in Melldrim Auditorium.

The film starring Nat "King" Cole along with Gene Barry and Angie Dickinson was loaded with suspenseful action about an Indo-China village, where Vietnamese soldiers and a group of Legionnaires soldiers join to stop an onslaught of Chinese Communists protecting it as a gateway to all China.

"Ties and Sympathy," starring Deborah Kerr along with John Kerr will be shown in Melldrim Auditorium on August 2, 1960.

The movie is the version of a recent stage success and the story of a shy, sensitive teenager in a boarding school who is falsely accused and the school-masters wife who alone understands and appreciates the terrible agony through which the boy is going and seeks to help him.

In-service teacher, Miss Justine Thomas, "59" reads the inscription on the monument on the Alpha's patio.

Informal lectures and question periods were given to the group by Dr. Luisa Stefani, present head of the Department of Home Economics and Dr. Robertson. The lectures informed the group about the on-going programs in social welfare betterment in public and private housing project developments, adult education programs and the Community Betterment Program or Aided Self Help under the Land Reform Bill.

On tour of the Virgin Islands, the group was welcomed by Cr. Andrew Preston, Commissioner of Education for the Virgin Islands.

Yvonne McGlockton "Miss Savannah State College"

Shown above is Miss Yvonne McGlockton who was selected by the students of Savannah State College to reign supreme as "Miss Savannah State College," 1960-61. ## Sherman Roberson Principal Speaker At Senior Class Day Exercises

The senior class of June, 1960, presented "Senior Class Day Exercises" in the All-College Assembly in Meldrim Auditorium. Sherman Roberson, a chemistry major, was the principal speaker. Mr. Roberson spoke on the topic, "What It Means To Be A Senior."

"Being a senior means stepping out into a world where the color lines are being erased and an individual will be judged on merit instead of pigmentation of skin. If we as seniors are to succeed upon departing from our beloved Alma Mater, then God Almighty must be our constant companion. As seniors, we are obligated to ourselves and God to fight for those things we feel are right, because if we do not, we will be dead even though we yet live." These are some excerpts from Mr. Roberson's speech.

Before graduation, Mr. Roberson was affiliated with the following organizations: Editor of the Tiger's Roar, Delta Eta

The Eighty-third Baccalaureate Services at Savannah State College was held at 5 P.M. Sunday, June 5, with the Baccalaureate Sermon being preached by the Rev. Edgar P. Quarterman, Pastor of Second Baptist Church, Savannah.

Rev. Quarterman spoke to the seventy-four graduates on "Five Avenues of Peace." He reminded them of the Baccalaureate Sermon that Christ preached to his Disciples, says, "... Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid for My peace I give to you. My peace I leave with you. It is the peace of God ... " Rev. Quarterman listed five avenues of peace: 1. Peace of Power; 2. Peace of Isolation; 3. Peace of Exhaustion; 4. Peace of Assimilation or Imitation; and 5. Inner Peace.

The program also included the Invocation by Rev. A. E. Peacock, College Minister; Presentation of the speaker, Dr. W. K. Payne, President of Savannah State College, and selections by the Choral Society under the direction of Dr. Coleridge A. Braithwaite.

TRINIDAD, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC: Mrs. Evelyn R. Terrell, director of the Division of Home Economics, speaks at a luncheon during the recent Family Life Tour of Caribbean Countries. Outstanding guests were: Dr. Amada Pittagua, Physician and President of the National Council of Women, Dominican Republic; Mrs. Bernardino, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the United Nations from the Dominican Republic; Mrs. Sanchez, Director of Teacher Education, Dominican Republic, plus other professional women of the country.

Wares From Caribbean Countries Exhibited at SSC

Mrs. Evelyn Terrell, instructor of the Family Life Course which toured and made a survey of contemporary family patterns of selected Caribbean Countries, has loaned various materials collected by members of the tour for display in the Seminar Room of the Savannah State College Library.

Among the items on display are Annual Report of the Department of Education of the Virgin Islands, University of Puerto Rico's report on a Summary of Public Housing and Urban Renewal Programs in Puerto Rico, several publications depicting public education in the Dominican Republic, a report of the Department of Labor and Social Welfare of Haiti, various reports from Jamaica, and several background studies of family life in the Caribbean area.

Examples of Adult Education arts and crafts projects of weaving from Jamaica are exhibited. These projects are indicative of the Caribbean program of adult education which is geared to making the people economically secure. Haitian records featuring Guy du Kosier, leading Haitian musician and his orchestra, may be seen. The ladies of the course could not resist returning to America without the famous Khush Khush perfume which may be viewed. Two outstanding examples of public school art graphically reveals the new interest in art as part of education in Haiti. Weaving craft from Haiti, and beads made from coffee beans and castor beans are included.

Fine needle work from Haiti delighted the ladies on tour, and excellent examples are on display. Industrial Art from the Dominican Republic makes for delightful viewing. A frond from a coconut tree in Puerto Rico is rather picturesque. Sisal fiber, a type of material for weaving mats, table runners, hats and bags, are shown in a variety of colors. Pillow cases on exhibition will show the intensiveness of creative art training in Home Economics in St. Thomas. Photographs of various activities which the members of the tour engaged indicate the busy schedule followed by them.

R. J. Martin Addresses the SSC Family at Assembly on July 21

By Virginia Mercer

R. J. Martin, principal of Ballard-Hudson High School, Macon, Georgia, and associate professor at Savannah State College during the summer session, was the speaker for the All-College Assembly, July 21, 1960.

"Significant changes in education and resulting changes for teachers in Georgia Schools" was the topic of his address. He spoke of the changes in educational requirements and the increase in salaries for teachers in Georgia. The number of children entering school each year continues to increase and at the same time the number of drop-outs in school continues to increase also. The primary reasons for the drop-outs, stated Mr. Martin, are inadequate curricula and unsatisfactory teacher-student relationship.

He concluded his address with these comments: "Everyone certified to teach is not qualified to teach and knowing how to teach is not knowing what to teach."

Mrs. Dorothy C. Hamilton, Savannah State College instructor, introduced Mr. Martin and Mrs. Lela W. Stone presided throughout the program. Music was furnished by Dr. C. A. Brathwaite, organist.

Mr. George Johnson of the Elementary Science Workshop,

Government Class Discusses Cuba

"What Can We Do To Improve the Relationship Between the United States and Cuba?" was the subject of a panel discussion presented by the members of the American Government Class during the All-College Assembly held August 4, 1960.

The panel members traced the history of Cuba from its beginning up to the present day. In tracing the history, pertinent facts related to the current conflict between Cuba and the United States were brought out.

After briefly discussing the history of Cuba, the panel pointed out some of the major issues of the present conflict which had not been brought out in their discussion of the country's history.

The final portion of the discussion was devoted to giving feasible solutions to end the conflict. At this time, several of the personal views of the panel members were given along with the views of authorities on the Cuban-American situation.

At the end of the discussion, members of the audience asked the panel members questions related to points brought out in the discussion.

Those participating on the panel were Gloria V. Byrd, moderator, William M. Bessent, Jonathan Haywood, Theodore E. Smith, and Helen Woods. The program was presided over by William Pompey.

"A World of Dreams" Homecoming Theme at Savannah State for 1960

On October 15, 1960, Savannah State College will hold its annual homecoming celebration.

According to Frank Thorpe, chairman of the homecoming committee and marshal for the parade, plans are being made for a gala homecoming celebration.

The theme for this year will be "A World of Dreams." This theme was selected from the long list of themes which were submitted because of its broadness and flexibility.

The celebration will begin with the parade which will leave the campus at 10 a.m. Participating in the parade will be student organizations that are registered on the campus, alumni associations throughout the state, and other organizations connected with the school. The bands will include local and visiting high school bands.

Quality and not quantity will be stressed this year according to the parade marshal. In an effort to make this the best homecoming parade ever presented, he is asking all who plan to participate to begin work on their decorations early and allow ample time to perfect them.

As usual trophies will be given to the first, second, third, and fourth place winners in the car, float, and band competition. A trophy will also be given for the best decorated building.

After the parade promptly at 2 p.m. the S.S.C. Tigers will play Morris College of Sumpter, S.C., on the S.S.C. Athletic Field.

Other activities of the day will include the National Alumni Meeting and the homecoming dance.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Today, it is important that many people be able to hit the "bull's eye." In all aspects of life now the need for accuracy is increasing far more rapidly than one suspects. That condition is evident when one considers the number of automobile accidents, the development of machines, directions for operating mechanical devices, and the great variety of instructions for doing or mending things. In many instances the success of the undertaking depends upon a degree of accuracy observed by the individuals in the performance.

Accuracy in performance is related to timing, speed, aims and objectives, and habits possessed by the individual in the last decade. The achievement in the mechanical world in the past decade have emphasized the necessity of accuracy at every stage of the development. Missiles and outer-space projects have dramatized this quality. At no other time in the history of mankind has there been greater demand for planning and following what has been planned.

In the colleges and universities of our country many students are apparently unmindful of the changes and significance of the changes that are in progress. This is reflected in the manner in which they live during their college careers. It is doubtful that many have plans that lead beyond the awarding of the baccalaureate degree. When it is possible to complete the college course in three calendar years rather than four academic years, the student saves time and arrives at his next point a year ahead of the traditional group. Many of his studies have been planned in terms of his proposed career, and his habits of study and achievement have been developed with full awareness of their role in life, the expected outcomes can be predicted to a considerable degree of accuracy.

Planning with accuracy is not to be thought of in terms of the natural sciences and mathematics only. The same habits of study and techniques are required for the successes which one desires in the humanities, social sciences, and the professions. All phases of living today require a similar approach. The relationships among the various fields of study require the balancing of all phases of our life into a unified thrust for the highest achievement of man, individually or collectively.

Message from Student Council President

Dear Fellow Students:

Several very well known clichés could be used to describe the enormous task that awaits our great attention. I am returning to school on Friday, September 23. One glance at our tentative schedule and you will agree that in order to accomplishing the task ahead of us we are going to have to work long and hard to reach our goals.

The most important item confronting the student body at large is the extensive preparations that are necessary for the Homecoming activities. Please do not be caught sleeping. The time factor is an element of great importance leading up to the Homecoming date. The Homecoming date has been set for Saturday, October 15, at 2:00 P.M. The events prior to this affair are equally as important as the affair itself. Therefore, the Coronation Ball and the bonfire must also be a success. The date for the Coronation Ball and the bonfire have been tentatively set for October 13 and 14 respectively. Another important deadline that needs your immediate attention is September 30. That is the last day for submitting the names of the queens and attendants for all student organizations. Please observe that this date is very close to the opening of school and because of this it would be wise for all organizations to submit the names of the persons who will represent them to the office of student personnel for clearance as soon as possible.

Although, we have not returned to the days of the pony express and other such obsolete ways of doing things, one must find it necessary to order materials and fashion items for queens and other things by mail. This condition should serve as a basis for your beginning your duties very early.

Here again are the dates that must be remembered:

September 30 — Last day for submitting the names of the

In Technology — Class Begins in Fall

Students entering the technical program this fall will begin classes at Savannah State College's new million dollar Technical Building.

The types of technical program offered to a Bachelor of Science degree in technology are as follows:

I. Automotive Technology

Auto Repairs, Auto Body Repair, Machine Shop Training.

II. Building Construction Technology—Building Trades

Electric, Plumbing, Surveying and Estimating, Mechanical and Architectural Drawing.

III. Electronic and Electrical Technology

Electric Repairs and Instruction, Communication Systems Repairs, Radio and TV Repairs and Installation.

The following fields offer a great opportunity for employment as technicians: Automotive Technology, Building Construction, Electric Power, Diesel, Chemical, Instrumentation, Conditioning, Aviation Electronics.

Today there is an urgent need for people with special skills and training to transmit education, ideas and discoveries into useful products and services. This is the role of the technician.

The technician is a special kind of person. In certain fields he assists in planning development work, estimating research work and is often called upon to perform jobs ranging from simple testing projects to tasks requiring a high degree of creative technical talent.

Economically technology increases productivity, sharpens competition, raises earning power and lowers prices. Technology is teaming up with other sciences to give America more goods and services and more jobs in the technical world.

Savannah State College will now be able to train more competent technicians than ever before to meet the demands of our community, nation, and world.

Timely Thoughts Of The Month

There are two very difficult things in the world. One is to make a name for oneself and the other is to keep it.

—Robert Schumann

If you lend a friend five dollars and you never see him again, it's worth it.

Strong reasons make strong actions.—Shakespeare.

The Congo Issue

For the past month, I have been observing the terror-induced uprisings in Leopoldville, Stanleyville, and other cities in the Congo. It seems logical to think that with their recently received independence from Belgium, the Congolese people would be installed with a strong feeling of security and national unity. But instead, they are a nation resorting to national disunity, educational incompetence, and political chaos, since the proclamation of their independence by Belgium on June 30, 1960.

To many of the natives of the Congo, the word freedom is a permit which gives them the right to exploit those who were once in power. They possess no sense of shame or responsibility. Some Congolese people think that their working days are over and that the maintenance of law and order is a thing of the past. They were being led into the ways of life enjoyed by civilized people and at the same time they were being exploited by their trainers, the Belgian people. Some of the native leaders saw what the white men were doing, and led revolts against them. The exploitation of the Congo by the white man is the main cause of the unrest which has terrorized the country since her emergence as an independent nation.

The Belgians must be chastized for giving the Congolese people full independence when they were not educationally and politically prepared to accept the responsibility of self-government. But, they cannot go back and take over again, because such action would only tend to rupture the situation and ignite a world crisis. Perhaps, the United Nations can guide the Congo to eventual unity and political success. The United Nations' forces have already restored law and order in many of the cities in the Congo and they have also begun the task of reorganizing the nation's administrative system. Without the United Nations' assistance the situation in the Congo would be desperate.

Solitude

By Charles H. Lee

Ah! Peace and quiet in my little domain
Let forever tranquility here remain.
Where with my soul I'll gladly speak
And give knowledge plenty for it to seek.

To think of man in all his moods
Of hate and love, cries and woes
And man's insatiable urge for power,
That makes him often an evil coward.

NATIONAL SPORTS

By Charles Toole

About this time of the year, in our free world, all eyes are usually turned toward that favorite past-time sport of baseball. Everyone usually follows the team of his choice, and what his favorite player is producing.

Thus far, the 1960 season has not been too much of an exception to previous baseball seasons. So far, the games have been played mainly because of the efforts of some outstanding players booming bats.

The National League has increased about the strength of its many hitters. Let us examine for a moment Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves. What's in a name? To some pitchers such as Roebuck, Gibson, and McGinnis, the name Aaron means a lot. It could mean the difference between a win and a loss in a ball game. As of July 23, Aaron has a blistering 20-game hitting streak as the Braves came within one and one-half games of the Sox's leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Aaron also had increased his runs batted-in by seven. On two successive days, he homered, one in each of the two games. The clamor into County Stadium's center bleachers to help defeat the St. Louis Cards 3-0.

Yes, what is a name? We all know that the name of our favorite player can make it and indeed Prester (Minnie) Minoso has made his name known throughout the U. S. and its native land. Minoso has won the Chicago White Sox's first place prize recently in the American League because of the bat of Minoso.

This Cuban outfielder has kept the Sox in the winning column throughout the year and recently batted in several key runs that enabled the White Sox to roll over the Yankees.

These are but a couple of our stars who will forever show that we are not the inferior race that we are claimed to be. They are but a few of our many stars who excel in their endeavors as ball players and Americans.

This issue, we salute these two fine ball players and all others of whom the world could not cite individually. May they continue to do as well as they have done.

Preview of Campus Athletics
This year with Homecoming being the 15th of October, and somewhat earlier than last year, the "Fighting Tigers" will have their work completely cut out for them when they return to campus September 1 to start drills.

The question is whether or not the 1960 team will be ready to take the record feat that early in the season.

Last year, the "Tigers" traveled to Morris College with returning lettermen: Captain Elijah Harris, John Strong, John Owens, B. C. Carswell, Eddie Bell and others and settled for a tie. The "Tigers" this year cannot overlook the fact that Morris has a strong team near Sophomore team. Neither can they overlook the fact that Savannah State will have about the same team that let Morris beat last year. However, there will be a few additions to both teams.

At this point it is very difficult to say who the victor of this year's Homecoming game will be, but why don't all of us help to make this be the year that everyone has been looking for a record? No one can lose, and we are aiming out and cheering your team to victory. Moral support is a vital factor in any sport.

FASHIONS AMONG WOMEN

By Geraldine Y. Lindsey

This fall all hats will be fashion items rather than fashion accessories and they are going to all heights to prove it.

This fall's surprise element with the height in hats is the new width which gives both brimmed and brimless varieties more increased proportions and more flattering outlines. The big hats will be round on the curve line with the bomb or bubble shape leading. Peaks will reach skyward spiral-like.

Isn't it bad that as soon as we get adjusted to the 1960's we are pushed back into the 1930's. For you who have taken your helmets up, you can haul them down again. Look forward to skirts being one to two inches longer than last year.

Yes, we will be off on a new style with this fall will mean a lot of return to the old. Besides skirts being longer, you can look to the revival of the sleek straight hair-dos, the hair-covered hats, the drop-round coats, and the loosely-fitted silhouette. The four major silhouettes will be: the figure eight, full through the bust and hips and narrow at the waist; the bloused look loosely jacketed around the midsection and gathered tightly over the hips; the diamond, tightly through the shoulders area and tapered to a narrow hem; and the fitted sheath.

Above all, look forward also to the wrap-around coat. Coats will not only be clutched together at the front to keep out the winter breezes, but they also will have huge, fur-trimmed collars wrapped high and close about the neck.

"I simply can't stand my husband's nasty disposition," wept the young bride. "Why, he's made me so jittery that I'm losing weight."

"Then why don't you leave him?" asked her aunt.

"Oh, I'm going to," the bride assured her. "I'm just waiting until he gets me down to 120 pounds."

"I'm not wealthy and I don't have a yacht and convertible like Joe Smith," apologized the suitor, "but, darling, I love you."
"And I love you, too," replied the girl, "but tell me more about Joe."

Said the clerk to the couple requesting a marriage license: "I'm sorry, but a license can't be issued only when the form is properly filled out."

"That's ridiculous!" snapped the groom-to-be. "I can marry her regardless of what she looks like!"

"Mommy," asked the child, "why doesn't daddy have hair on his head?"

"Daddy thinks a great deal, dear."

"Why do you have so much hair on your head, Mommy?"

MODERN ART

By Theodore Smith

In this issue, I have decided to feature one of Spain's most prominent artists. He is the famous Senor Pablo Ruiz Picasso. He received his artistic training at the Academy in Barcelona and traveled throughout the world exhibiting his art.

If you are planning a trip to Cleveland, Ohio in the immediate future visit the Museum of Art and see his painting "La Vie," a work sentimental in subject and treatment. Also at the Art Institute in Chicago, one can view his "Family of Saltimbanques." Those of you who may travel South of the Border following summer school may observe Picasso's beautiful murals on the wall of the University of Mexico. Such beautiful murals as the "Guernica," painted in 1937 for the Spanish Pavilion at the Paris exposition, can be seen there.

For a very good look at Senor Picasso and his contributions to modern art, read Picasso's "Fifty Years of His Art," by Alfred H. Barr, Jr. Museum of Modern Art 1946.

Next issue we will discuss a contemporary English writer, Colin Wilson.

Ghostwriting Found Illegal

Students who utilize a ghost writer to prepare research papers or theses are guilty of plagiarism. Dr. Samuel Mack Wilson, chairman of Temple University's Academic Discipline Committee has also stated that the committee will spell out more explicitly the varying offenses which are considered plagiarism under the Uniform Code.

"A student who turns in on his own a paper written by someone else will be punished for plagiarism even though the works had not been previously published," Dr. Wilson said. The Uniform Code contains a section which enumerates the regulations on plagiarism but does not illustrate the form which plagiarism can take, Dr. Wilson explained.

"Previously, the general definition of plagiarism as the pre-

Campus Spotlight

By Yvonne McGlockton

The writer who said "Music hath charm" must have had in mind a person who sings like Juanita Moon. This young lady's lyric soprano voice has greatly helped to make her a charming person.

A native of Savannah, Juanita is a graduate of the Alfred E. Beach High School of this city. At present she is a junior at this institution majoring in music.

Juanita's extra-curricular activities include Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, The Yearbook Staff, the campus cultural activities on campus, the women's ensemble and the chorus.

During her spare time she enjoys dancing, swimming, archery, and tennis. Her ambition is to become a concert artist and she has already begun work on this ambition by recently giving her own concert.

Faculty Personality Of the Month

By Mary C. Rosebud

An interesting personality is that of Dr. Calvin L. Kiah.

This issue of the Tiger's Roar salutes Dr. Kiah for his outstanding achievements and contributions to Savannah State College and community.

Dr. Kiah was born, reared, and partially educated in the state of Maryland. He received his A.B. degree from Morgan State College, and his MA and E.D. degrees from Columbia University.

While in college Dr. Kiah was a very brilliant and outstanding student. He participated in many different co-curricular activities. During the years 1930-31, he played quarterback on the championship football team.

Jazzville U.S.A.

By Alphonso McLean

A Tribute to the Immortal Charlie Parker

One of our greatest chapters in Jazz came to a close on Saturday, March 12, 1955 when Charlie Parker passed away.

Charlie "The Bird" Parker was born in Kansas City, August 29, 1920. He began his instrumental training with the baritone saxophone in his school band and played with orchestras of Harlem Leonard and Lawrence Keyes.

In 1942 he joined Jazz McShann with whom he came to New York. New York is sometimes called the Jazz City of the world. It was there that Charlie began to dig his roots in modern jazz. After he left the McShann group he went around that a new swinging Alto Sax man was on the scene from Kansas City. It was there "The Bird" teamed up with Kenny Clark and Thelonious Monk at Minton's and Clark's uptown house. Later he blew with Earl Hines's Orchestra which featured Dizzy Gillespie, Benny Harris, and Billy Eckstine. Now Charlie was gaining greater insight of other musicians and how they played.

During the years 1944-1945 Charlie began to compose his own tunes such as: Chasing the Bird, Milestones, Bluebird, Bird Gets the Worm, Romance With Out Pineson, Mannaduke, Half Nelson, Sipping At Bells, Red Cross and many others. Featured with "The Bird" on later sides were some of the great musicians: Miles Davis, trumpet; Tommy Potter, bass; Max Roach, drums; Bud Powell, piano; Dizzy Gillespie, trumpet and piano; John Lewis, piano; Curley Russell, bass and others. It did not take long for the Jazz world to find out about the new giant on Alto Sax. Parker's improvisations and interpretations created one of the greatest transitions in Jazz.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

By William Pompey

Heyward S. Anderson, Chairman of the Division of Business, related that a probable eight seniors will receive degrees in August from the department. Ten persons received degrees at the June commencement exercises were awarded degrees in Business Education and five were awarded degrees in Business Administration.

There will be an estimated forty baccalaureates last term who are expected to return as seniors in September, thus there will probably be an increase in the June and August 1961 graduating classes.

Health and Physical Education Dept. Presents Colorful Assembly Program

The Savannah State College All-College Assembly on July 28, 1960, was presented by the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, under the direction of Dr. Raymond W. Hopson, Chairman and Mrs. Ella W. Fisher, Instructor.

The department used as its theme: "Using the Body as an Instrument of Expression." In sports, social and square dances were employed to carry out the above theme.

Badminton played by Misses Margaret Dawson and Essie Sheffield began the performance. The game was followed by the dance, "Honolulu Baby." For this dance the ladies were attired in very colorful and authentic Hawaiian Muu Muis while the men were dressed in white short sleeve shirts, white duck pants and sported a decorative red handkerchief from their back pockets.

Between this dance, the audience enjoyed a lively game of shuffleboard played by Marion Dingle and William Hall. Then the dance, "Texas Star," was executed. Here again the young ladies were colorfully attired. They had made a quick change and were wearing various color crinoline paper skirts, white blouses, white socks, gym shoes and leis.

84th Baccalaureate Services at SSC

The Eighty-four Baccalaureate Services of Savannah State College were presented in Meldrum Auditorium Sunday, August 14, 1960 at 5:00 P.M.

Fifty-nine expected graduates heard the Baccalaureate sermon delivered by Rev. Joshua A. Reddick, pastor of Palm Methodist Church of this city.

Speaking on the subject "Man Cannot Live by Bread Alone," Rev. Reddick informed the graduates that a person who has something to offer the world will find a pattern already cut out for him, but he cautioned the graduates that they must not merely fall into the pattern, but must make a contribution. It's up to the individual to fit, cited the Methodist Minister.

Rev. Reddick asked the graduates several questions. One question: "What will you do with the opportunities that are before you?" was examined and thoroughly dissected by the Savannah Minister.

In closing, the Minister warned the graduates that all people have limitations, but each person must learn to accept himself for what he is and not for what others think of him.

"We have three selves," according to the Minister, the real self, the preferred self and the ideal self.

Music was sponsored by the Savannah State College Summer Chorus under the direction of Dr. C. A. Brattilwaite, and the Women's Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Florence Harrington.

President William K. Payne invited all to attend the Commencement Exercises Wednesday, August 17 at Meldrum Auditorium at 11:00 A.M. when Dr. Walter N. Ridley, President of Elizabeth City State Teachers College, Elizabeth City, North Carolina, will deliver the address.

Ben Ingersoll, college registrar, has released figures to show that the Savannah State College Fall Quarter enrollment has increased 60% over last year. The total college enrollment is the largest in the history of this institution which was founded in 1890.

The freshman enrollment for the Fall Quarter, 1959, was 233 as compared with 412 for this year, an increase of 60%. During the 1959 Fall Quarter, 637 upper-classmen returned to the campus. This year 714 upper-classmen returned for an increase of 12%. The total college enrollment of 1,126 for the 1960 Fall Quarter is an increase of 15.18% over the Fall Quarter, 1959, figure of 890.

The increase in the enrollment has resulted in crowded dormitories and other facilities on campus.

The overcrowded situation is especially noticeable during the chapel hour at which time a large portion of the student body is left without seats in the auditorium.

This is a sign of progress, and the Savannah State College family is happy to know that it is growing. However, it is hoped that in the near future, the college facilities will be enlarged to meet the college's growing needs.

Newman Club News

By Norman B. Elmore

It is important in these days to identify oneself with a particular club or group. First of all this gives an individual a sense of togetherness. Membership in the Newman Club identifies one with the Catholic Church. Although the Newman Club was formed for Catholic students who are attending college, any interested persons who wish to join the group may do so, providing they have some interest in the general program of the club.

The primary function of the Newman Club is to promote knowledge of the Faith and to foster Catholic devotion. All of us should strive to broaden our scope of knowledge. The Newman Club seeks to do this by whatever means possible in its program of speakers, discussions, library sessions, and classes.

SSC Ties Ft. Valley 12-12 in Columbus

Lead by senior halfback John Strong, the Savannah State Tigers fought the favored Fort Valley State Wildcats to a 12 to 12 tie in the spectacular Columbus Classic, Saturday, October 8, in Columbus, Georgia. Strong gained some 165 yards rushing and played an excellent defensive game. An estimated crowd of 5,000 was on hand for this evenly fought battle.

Richard Anderson and James Bowers, two of SSC's starters, a halfback and guard respectively, were not among the starters.

First Quarter

SSC won the toss and John Edwards kicked to James Allen, who returned 20 yards to his 25. On the first play Ulysses Marshall ran off tackle for a gain of 6 yards to their own 31 yard line. On the next play Allen went off tackle for some 65 yards and the first TD of the game, putting the Wildcats out front 6 to 0. The conversion attempt was no good.

Ralph Troutman kicked to John Strong, who returned 34 yards to his 45. Wilson picked up 8 yards on two plays up the middle and on the third play Strong went off guard for a gain of 45 yards to the 3 yard line. On the next play, Frank Tompkins went over guard for the score. The conversion attempt failed and the score was tied 6 to 6 as the period ended some two minutes later. Score: Fort Valley State 6, Savannah State 6.

Second Quarter

The Wildcats scored in the opening two minutes of the second quarter on a 25 yard pass from quarterback Ralph Troutman to Allen putting the Wildcats out front 12 to 6 after the conversion attempt failed. Both teams lost 60 yards each on penalties in this quarter and when the whistle blew to end the half, the Wildcats was leading by a score of 12 to 6.

Third Quarter

Penalties Hurt Tigers: The Tigers' offense was stopped three times by penalties, but nevertheless, the Tigers moved for four first downs to their 41, after which Bobbins punted to Fort Valley's 5.

Tigers Tie Score: Strong carried three successive times for gains of 5, 20, and 35 yards placing the ball on the Wildcats' 3 yard line. The first attempt for the TD failed but on the next play, fullback George Sims went off guard for the score, the conversion attempt again failed, and the score stood at Fort Valley State 12, Savannah State 12.

Fourth Quarter

Both teams threatened, only to have their offense stopped by each others fine defense.

Then came the game's most spectacular play. Nelson's loss intended for McGraw, was picked off by Allen who used every trick in the book in an attempt to break away only to be stopped by the last man, John Strong. The Tigers took over on downs. Nelson attempted three passes, completing one to McGraw for 36 yards only to have the clock run out.

On the first of November the Savannah State College basketball team will officially start drills for the 1960-61 basketball season. The Tigers will be out to duplicate their 1959-60 season when they won the district 6 NAIA championship by whipping Florida A. & M. and Morris Brown in the district playoff. The Tigers journeyed to Kansas City, Missouri in March, 1960, where they won their first national tournament game by beating Willamette of Oregon by 18 points. The team lost their second game to the tourney champions, Southwest Texas State, by a margin of ten points.

From President of the Student Council

Dear Fellow Students:

Many significant changes that are of world-wide importance are evident even here on our campus. The trend towards the pursuit of education has favorably shown itself in our enrollment figures for the Fall Quarter 1960-61 school year. It is indeed a pleasure to welcome you and solicit your support throughout the school year to the program and activities of your student council.

Several matters of importance awaited our return to school. Among them and of primary importance was homecoming. All groups and organizations are to be commended for the fine spirit of cooperation shown toward working to the Homecoming deadline. Along the same lines, the members of the Student Council are indeed worthy of praise for the splendid jobs that they have done and are still doing to further the progress of the task we are undertaking.

In a few weeks from now you will be hearing directly from your Council asking for your assistance in an activity sponsored by us. If you have ever had the desire to be of some help to this organization, this opportunity will surely present itself. We are sincerely hoping that you will heed this call individually and collectively.

To the alumni and friends of the college who are here visiting with us for homecoming, on behalf of the student body it gives me great pleasure to welcome you "home" again. It is our sincerest hope that your stay will be a pleasant one, and the memories will be lasting ones.

Sincerely yours,

Student Council

CASTRO

What actually is behind the Castro regime? Is it on the verge for the ultimate collapse? Is it destined for further recognition among the great nations. The acquisition of some of our factories and mills by the Cubans has proven to us that they want everything except the improvement of relationship.

Where do we go from here? Are we going to let a brat of a nephew confiscate properties worth $800,000,000, while we sit back and relax on our morals, or are we going to give him the spanking he so justly deserves.

The roll Castro played during his short stay (should be brawl) at the U.N. meeting two weeks ago shows he needs a course in diplomacy. He is like the Cuban, new thank goodness! and still blabbing forth, as usual, about U.S. policies here, there, and everywhere.

Mr. Castro—my question to you is: where do you go from here, if anywhere?

Mr. Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union, now 68, after announcing that he would lead the Russian delegates to the United Nations—left the western world in somewhat of a turmoil. Now that he has arrived, its concern has been justified.

Not only do we have him to help deter world peace, but he brought or asked some of his bosom buddies to concrete the idea. Josip Tito, dictator of Yugoslavia, 68, and independent Communist (he does not take orders from Moscow, but is still a Communist), Mr. Gamal Nassir of Egypt, 42, president of the

The half-time show featured the 360 Infantry Scout Dog Platoon from Fort Benning and the fabulous SSC 80 pieces fast marching, high stepping band in a show dedicated to the Medical Profession.

The majorettes danced the Madison while the band played "Fever." The band and majorettes also exhibited their fast stepping skills to several other songs. Bands from SSC and PVSC played their respective alma mater and were loudly applauded by the crowd of spectators.

United Arab Republic (U.A.R.) is here also to let everyone know he is still biding his desire to become leader of the Arab World. Fidel Castro, Premier (Dictator) of Cuba, 33, responded eagerly, when asked by Khrushchev to come to the Assembly meeting. These are but a few of the men who are Communist or pro-Communist here at the U.N. trying to impair world peace by non-sensical elaboration and constant criticism of the western world. Apparently they are not for a reason, a very good reason, but what reason?

Our Electoral System

By Gladys Lambert

As the time approaches for the presidential election in November, we do not yet have a critical look at the effectiveness of our present system for electing the president. Our Constitution provides that the president and vice president shall not be elected directly by the voters, but by electors who themselves are elected by the voters of the States.

Each state has as many electors as the total number of its senators and representatives in Congress. For the 1960 presidential election the Electoral College will consist of 537 electors.

There have been occasions when the Electoral College failed to elect a president. One such occasion was the election of 1800 in which the Republican candidates for president and vice president, Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr respectively, each received the same number of electoral votes and each had the needed majority of electoral votes.

States with a large number of electoral votes have an unfair advantage of power over states with a small number of votes. Presidential candidates tend to concentrate their campaign efforts on states with a large number of electoral votes. The three electoral votes of Nevada

THE EDITOR'S DESK

This issue of The Tiger's Roar presents to the Savannah State College campus a publication somewhat different from those produced on the campus last year.

The Tiger's Roar aims to be: to express student voice and opinion, print news of our campus life and world affairs, compete and excel among other college newspapers and announce important information to the Savannah State College family.

Publishing a student newspaper is a job that requires the cooperation of all student organizations on the campus. News is made every minute of the day. It is the job of the journalist or reporter of the organization to collect news and recreate it on paper. Deadlines are very important and should be kept.

The Tiger's Roar is scheduled to publish news of the campus. We do not support your student newspaper 100 per cent. O.K.?

Literary Section

Though our major emphasis is journalistic, we acknowledge our obligation to provide an outlet for those who desire to express their creative impulses and thoughts, through the writing of essays, short stories, poetry, and fiction.

Our literary section will include such writings as stated in the above paragraph.

Letter to the Editor

Although we are primarily interested in reaction to our publication, we welcome letters treating any serious, outspoken, provocative or even humorous, subject. Mail all letters to the Editor of The Tiger's Roar, P. O. Box 333, Savannah State College.

A World of Dreams

By Phillip Hampton

The dream, a product of dreamers, is a mysterious condition without substance, a nebulous fantasy of another world separated from reality by a silver of shadow and, with apologies to Byron: (dreams) "make us what we were not."

The profundity and the sundry nature of the world which we know could have been born in a dream. The fantasy that is dreamt today may indeed become the real and sincere of tomorrow. One man's caprice may yet be a prelude to entities that could never been yesterday's dream.

The dream is a catalyst which provides the platform for beauty through poetry and song, to change serenity to science, to uncover the unexplored and to forge the destinies of other men.

Discover if you will, a Columbus, a Newton, a da Vinci, a Moses, or a you. Observe a dream and the future will be in it, a canvas upon which you may paint or a propellant to a moon, a plan for peace, or a new deodorant. Dream and you will capture A WORLD OF DREAMS.

are rather insignificant to a candidate compared with the forty-five of New York.

There have been occasions, though not many, when electors have violated their pledge to vote for their party's candidate. In the election of 1876, William Plumer, a New Hampshire elector, voted for John Quincy Adams, in spite of the fact that James Moore was the party's presidential candidate. Plumer explained his action by saying that he wanted to bring Adams to the attention of political leaders. Not many years later, done to an elector who violates his pledge because the authors of the Constitution gave electors the right of independent choice.

President's Message

Savannah State College is glad to observe Annual Homecoming each year. The greeting of alumni, former students, and interested friends from one of the highlights of the academic year. Since it comes in the Fall, it furnishes inspiration and drive to reach higher standards and new achievements.

As we greet our alumni, new acquaintances, and friends of long standing, we are conscious of two vital groups. On the one hand, student always something to see; while on the other hand, there is something to feel. Each year friends and visitors returning to the College are able to see a number of additions to and improvements in the physical plant. The College is continuing to upgrade its physical facilities and to construct new facilities in the light of present day needs and programs.

Everyone who experiences homecoming understands that there is something to feel. In most instances it is not possible to touch it with the body. This group of items is communicated through the academic atmosphere and tone of the institution. One discovers this as he moves among the students, faculty, staff, and members of the college community. This feeling is an index to the developments which are taking place in the teaching and learning activities developed in the institution. The recognition of homecoming standards, provides the other side of the picture which one sees on the physical side. The historical view of Savannah State College, which observes its 70th Anniversary this year, indicates that the College has continued to grow in strength and service to the youth of this State. It is desirable to have some time of celebration, a moment of thought may be given to the things seen and felt.

Along with greetings to the Savannah State College alumni, we extend greetings to our visitors from Morris College. The long record of fine relationship in college sports has brought to the attention of Morris College, heightens our enjoyment of this occasion. The football teams representing the two colleges will furnish a contest which contributes toward the high aims and ideals of each institution. When the shot is fired for the end of the game, we wish to say that the contest was a display of the finest quality of sportsmanship.

Signed, W. K. PAYNE,

President

My Kind of Democracy

By William Hagins

"These are times that try men's souls," wrote Thomas Paine in 1776, but the words are just as applicable today as they were in 1776. Today, the United States is one of the leaders in an ideological struggle. Soviet Russia and her satellites have captured the facile freedom upon which America was founded and which most of the Western nations have come to accept.

The cold war is affecting international relations and is threatening world peace. In our country, there is also a war going on between the white man and the Negro. The United States could seize the propaganda initiative by insisting upon one thing, that the Negro is given his rights.

This problem is two-fold. First of all, racial strife within the United States would be eliminating the white man versus the Negro—thus making America a truly democratic. And secondly, the uncommitted nations of the world would be drawn to the American camp in this ideological struggle for the minds and souls of men.

Both of these cold wars—Communism versus Democracy and the White man versus the Negro—have been waging for a long time. The little people of the world are sick and tired of this jungle-like struggle.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

What has happened to the SCHOOL SPIRIT at Savannah State? I feel this is important because without spirit there can be but very little motivation of any kind on campus. We need to give moral support to some of our teams to victory. It is obvious to see that we, as college students, do not attend pep rallies, cheer our team or other things of that nature that give our players a feeling of well being.

I love my college, maybe it's because I came here some years ago when the upperclassman made the freshman walk around the campus with his pants on the wrong side for a week. After it was over I respected upperclassman and participated in every activity the student body sponsored.

Why can't we, as students in the largest Negro state college in Georgia, get out and push our teams and act united like the other colleges?

Mr. Editor, I not only want to cite the conditions that now exist, but to plead to those who read this letter, to turn over a new leaf, and exhibit that vital element, "SCHOOL SPIRIT."

Yours truly,

Kharn A. Collier

Personality of the Month — Faculty

By Mary C. Rosebud

The faculty personality may be considered one of the most significant columns in The Tiger's Roar because it gives the students an opportunity to know a little of the personal background of the faculty. This month the writer takes great pleasure in presenting to you another interesting personality, that of Miss Marcelle E. Rhodriquez.

Miss Rhodriquez received the Bachelor of Science Degree from Florida A and M University with a major in Commercial Science. As a student at Florida A and M, Miss Rhodriquez was an active participant in the Business Guild, the Dormitory Council, Beta Alpha Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Society, and Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society. She was also a full-time work student. Miss Rhodriquez graduated from Florida A and M with Greater Distinction.

Following graduation she accepted a position as secretary in the Department of Personnel at Jackson College, Jackson, Mississippi. While at Jackson, she served as co-sponsor of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society and chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Society. She was one of the persons instrumental in establishing a chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Society at Jacksonville College.

Miss Rhodriquez received her Master of Science Degree in Counseling and Guidance with a minor in Business Education from Indiana University. Upon completion of this work, she joined the staff of Savannah State College in September, 1957. At that time she was an instructor in the Division of Business and Counselor for Women in Camilla Hubert Hall. Here at Savannah State College, she sponsors the Camilla Hubert Hall Dormitory Council and Delta Nu Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Society. In addition to this, she works with Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society and is a member of La Treidre Chaise Social Club, Savannah Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Society, and St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

Miss Rhodriquez holds membership in the following professional organizations: The American Personnel and Guidance Association, The American College Personnel Association, and The Georgia Teacher Education Association.

Her hobbies are reading, bridge, television, and traveling. She has seen most of the United States and many foreign countries. Her travels abroad include Jamaica, Europe, and the European tour taken by Miss Rhodriquez, the summer of 1959, included England, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy (Venice, Florence, Rome, Pisa), and Paris, France.

Since Miss Rhodriquez has been at Savannah State College, she has contributed greatly to the aims and goals of the college and the community. The writer of this column takes great pride in presenting Miss Marcelle E. Rhodriquez as the faculty personality of the month.

Campus Spotlight

By Yvonne McCluckton

Toledo Riley

Campus Toledo, a regular feature of the Tiger's Roar, pays tribute to distinguished students who through their scholarship, service, loyalty, and attitudes have merited this tribute.

This being the homecoming edition, the writer of this column presents as one of the two personalities spotlighted, one who plays an important role in our homecoming celebration. The person is Toledo A. Riley, head majorette in the band.

Toledo hails from Atlanta, Georgia and is a graduate of Price High of that city.

In the fall of 1958, she enrolled at Savannah State and immediately became head majorette in the band. In distinction seldom given to a freshman, her high stepping and superb twirling probably merited her this distinction.

Toledo's extra-curricular activities in addition to the band include the Creative Dance Group, Camilla Hubert Hall Dormitory Council (treasurer), Physical Education Club and Delta Sigma Theta Society.

Poised and debonair, she is the nonchalant type. She never seems to let the rush and excitement of the day affect her in any manner.

When it comes to favorite foods she enjoys all fruits. Proof of this was seen during the interview at which time she ate an apple and a banana. Hobby-wise she enjoys sewing, swimming, and dancing. Presently she is a junior majoring in physical education with the ambition of becoming a physical therapist.

Nathian Mario Kight

Another interesting personality is that of Nathian Mario Kight. "Courteous, comical, and cooperative," are three "Cs" personified in Kight. His pleasing personality and a warm friendly smile are among the many qualities which cause him to rate high in popularity on the campus.

Hailing from Folkston, Georgia, Kight is presently a senior, majoring in biology and minoring in chemistry.

During his college career he has been affiliated with several organizations. Among them are the Pan-Hellenic Council (treasurer), Student Council (business manager), Omega Psi Phi Fraternity (vice hostess), Alpha Kappa Mu Tutorial System, and the College Track Team.

Kight likes all types of sports. Dancing and swimming also rate high on his list of favorite pastimes. His favorite dish is steak. Concerning his philosophy of life, he says, "Laugh and the world laughs with you."

After graduation he plans to devote himself entirely to becoming a doctor.

The writer is proud to add these two promising young persons to this column. May you always remember that the Spotlight is on you.

Fashions For Women

By Geraldine Lindsey

"A Fur Collar Adds Elegance To Winter Fashion Ensemble". I do not have to stress the importance of fur trim—just look through any fashion magazine or newspaper, and you will see suits and coats galore with fabulous fur collars and prices to match.

If you have an old fur piece, too worn in spots to make repairing worthwhile and too good in large patches to discard, why not use it to advantage?

Working with fur can be tricky, but it can be done if you are only making a trim of sort. Here are some hints—how to make to make a collar—a job almost anyone can do.

Make a pattern of the whole collar out of heavy wrapping paper, leaving out the seam allowance. A half collar pattern to be cut on the fold cannot be used, because fur cannot be cut when folded.

Lay the fur out flat, hair side down, on a board and tack to board at each corner with a push pin. Place pattern on fur and pin through fur and board with push pin. Trace outline of pattern on skin. Cut through skin only, with a sharp razor blade, being careful not to cut the hair.

After the collar is cut and pieced together to fit the pattern, make it stronger by padding. Sew cotton wadding or lambs wool lightly to the skin with tailors' lasting. Now, holding the skin side toward you, sew twice tape to outer edge of collar with overhand stitch; then turn tape over to skin and sew to padding with catch-stitch.

If the collar is fur on both sides, make each side in the same way, and then slip stitch together. If the collar is to be attached to a coat or jacket, slip stitch fur collar to the collar of the finished garment. Then, with small stitches, sew along center of collar, catching the padding in the fur collar. So remember, if you have an old fur, or one small spotted leopard skin, there is no better way to use it than to make a luxurious collar.

Men's Fashions

By Eddie Bryant, Jr.

Why Wear Pants? Slacks, as we know them today, are the result of man's desire to hide certain unpleasant features about his legs. Lion cloths might never have left fashion if it weren't for bumpy knees. Silk tights could still be used for their tendency to accentuate the rear. The early Romans, for instance, regarded any trousers as barbarous; then, along came the Roman Emperor Justinian who was the first man to wear trousers. They were called affairs called "bosa," and resembled "tights." They clicked, and man hasn't looked the same since.

Today's fashions open our eyes to the new Grape tones. Hues from dark red to purple Concord are high fashion colors, that lend richness to the neutral colors, particularly gray. Grape in a tie or pocket square, in a sport shirt or sweater, adds freshness and eclect to your wardrobe.

In suits, Grape provides a subtle flavoring, adds a royal richness to fine worsteds. For shoes, Vintage Brown is the new color—a deep rich brown with a slight undertone of dark red chianti.

Modern Art

By Theodore Smith

"To walk with kings and not lose the common touch," could easily characterize Modern Art's spotlight artist for this issue. Here we refer to the young author of The Outside, Mr. Colin Wilson.

After the Second World War many war-imposed changes continued to show progress. Among these were those literary shifts which marked the entrance of the "Beat Writers."

Mr. Wilson was born in Leicesters, England, June 28, 1931, where he received his education. He became a laboratory assistant at Gateway School after completing his education. He later served in the British Air Force.

It was in 1954 after a series of odd jobs, such as that of being a tax collector, when he decided that he must write his first major work was The Outsides. This was the beginning of a series of successful novels.

Some of his other successful novels are Religion and The Rebel, which was created with great anticipation, and The Age of Defeat, 1959, which received an inspiring welcome. For a thorough unearthing of this

Miss SSC

By Charles H. Lee, Jr.

The budding rose kisses her cheeks;
Each morning she rises from a peaceful sleep.
Beauty reigns in stately might,
And Miss S.S.C. is always a lovely sight.

To be in her presence is such rare pleasure;
That friendship with her is a golden treasure.

To the one that holds this lovely heart;

Be thankful for the flight of Cupid's dart.

Her heart is full of warmth and charm;

The guardian angel protects her from harm.

Yvonne, surely, you grow fairer by the hour;

Dedicated to our Queen, Miss S.S.C., Yvonne McCluckton.

You know I'm yours to have and hold.

To adore, caress and love

So please stop pretending;

Respond to Cupid's shoving.

My eyes sparkle when you are near.

I thrill whenever you pass.

Let's declare we're lovers now.

Lovers that will last.

I guess I've been too forward,

Oh, many a thousand times;

But in the end, I hope to hear,

Those wedding bells chime.

Footsteps

By Charles Lee

Shuffling along he treads there.

Lost in despair and mortal fear.

A wanderlust of frightful horror,

Dreading each new tomorrow.

Church bells may peal loud and bold.

His soul remains damp and cold.

He has resigned himself to the living dead.

And nature his epitaph has read.

Where he is going he doesn't know.

Life is truly his dreadful foe.

And beneath a tree he would slowly pass.

SCAT and STEP Tests Administered

Dr. Paul L. Taylor, SSC's testing and guidance specialist, administered six types of tests to 10 new freshmen. Students were given the SCAT (School and College Ability Tests), Iowa Silent Reading Tests, California Short-Form Test of Mental Maturity, California Test of Personality, Occupational Interest Inventory, STEP (Sequel Tests of Educational Progress), Reading and Writing Tests and STEP Social Studies, Science and Mathematics Tests.

The Scholastic Aptitude Test (Readmission Examination) was given to students who have been on academic probation.

In explaining the aims and objectives of the tests, Dr. Taylor pointed out some pertinent information. The SCAT (School and College Ability Tests) helps teachers, counselors, and students assess the student's capacity to undertake work of the next higher school level and is useful in determining the relative academic speed the student is likely to achieve in his next step up the educational ladder.

The Iowa Silent Reading Tests are used to measure skills in

The Curriculum at Savannah State

The formal instructional program of Savannah State College comprises the general curriculum, areas of major and minor concentration, and terminal curricula. The Division of Humanities includes Department of English, Department of Fine Arts, and Department of Modern Languages; The Division of Natural Sciences includes Department of Biology, Department of Chemistry, Department of Mathematics and Physics; The Division of Social Sciences.

The California Short-Form Test of Mental Maturity retains most of the valuable features of the longer parent instrument but meets requirements for a shorter test.

The California Test of Personality helps to identify and reveal the status of certain highly important components in personality and social adjustment often referred to as "intangibles." It is designed to provide significant evidences of the personal and social adjustment of individual age groups, and to provide assistance in guidance.

Occupational Interest Inventory is devised as an aid in the vocational counseling of college students by providing helpful information on individual aptitudes and potentialities.

Basketball Drills to Begin

Last year the Tigers had a squad dominated by sophomore players. The 1960-61 Tigers will add a few new faces. One of them is Henry Jackson, a graduate of Crane Technical High School of Chicago, Illinois. Jackson is the brother of Ira Jackson. While at Crane, Jackson averaged 30 points per game and was the top rebounder on the team. Henry definitely will be a great help to the team this year. The other is Johnny Mathis. Mathis dropped at Peabody High in Eastman, Georgia, where he averaged 25 points per game in his last year. He will be the tallest man on the squad, standing 6 feet, 5 inches.

The squad lost only one member of the 1959-60 team and will have only one senior on the 1960-61 team. Returning from last year are the entire first team and four members of the second team. Returning lettermen are: Redell Walton, high scorer for the past two years, 6'1", 185 lbs.; Ira Jackson, the second leading scorer and number one rebounder on the team for the past two years; Stephen Kelly, the best defensive player; and the leading ball handler; Willie Tate, the best all-around player on the squad. He dribbles, passes, and rebounds well. The Dixie State College team, which is ranked 10th of the team and number two man in assists.

The Tigers basketball team is looking forward to another successful season on the hardwood floor. Last year's team compiled the best record ever by a Savannah State College basketball team, winning 29 games and losing only three.

So join your favorite colleague and yell THE TIGERS to another big year!

STEP (Sequel Tests of Educational Progress) are achievement tests which measure critical skills and understandings in application of learning academic work. It provides a program aimed at the central goal of the development of the student's ability to use his acquired knowledge.

SSC Students May Apply For Danforth Fellowship

The Danforth Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the tenth class (1961) of the Danforth Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter a graduate school in September, 1961, for their first year of graduate study. The Foundation welcomes applicants from the fields of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate curriculum.

President William K. Payne has named C. V. Clay, chairman, Department of Chemistry, as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Graduate Fellows or not to exceed three candidates for these 1961 fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" between the Danforth Graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. The maximum amount granted for single Fellows is $1,500 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married Fellows, $2,000 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $500 for each child. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry only one scholarship appointment, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrently with the Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship. If a man receives a Danforth Appointment, together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without charge, until these other relationships are completed.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching to be held at Camp Minnawica in Michigan next September, 1961. The qualifications of the candidates are listed in the announcement from the Foundation: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and capable of independent thinking serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

THE TIGER'S ROAR FORUM A COLUMN OF OPINION

Student Opinions

By Annette Kennedy

With the beginning of the '60-'61 school year, the students at Savannah State College are primarily concerned with progress. Progress of course, being the most important aspect of any good institution. This article shall deal with a cross section of opinions on what can be done to make Savannah State College a more progressive and suitable place to lead a well-rounded college life.

William Hagins, junior, Savannah, Georgia. "I think the intramural program should be suited to meet the needs of all students so that more students will be able to take an active part in these affairs."

Jewel Williams, freshman, Savannah, Georgia. "I feel that there should be more faculty assistance in helping students arrange their schedules so that some students will not have such long breaks between classes such as from 8:30 until 2:30."

Ophelia Wilson, freshman, Savannah, Georgia. "I think more opportunities should be provided for young ladies, such as tennis and archery."

Donnie Cooper, senior, Metter, Georgia. "I feel that the condition of the football field should be improved so that during rainy weather it won't be so difficult getting to and from the field."

Ann Moffitt, junior, Metter, Georgia. "I think that the school spirit at Savannah State is lacking in many ways and I feel it needs tremendous improvement."

Emily Snipe, unclassified, Savannah, Georgia. "I feel that there should be more social activities so that the dormitory and city students will have a closer relationship."

Luvania Harris, senior, Savannah, Georgia. "I think that something should be done about the way the courses are offered so that once a year courses won't come in conflict with each other."

Marguerite Tiggs, senior, Savannah, Georgia. "Activities should be planned so that the beginning of the year won't be overcrowded, leaving the spring quarter without anything to do."

Kharl Collier, senior, Savannah, Georgia. "School spirit should begin at the gate."

Warren Robinson, senior, Savannah, Georgia. "I stress a more dense Instructor-Student relationship."

Mildred Gissentanner, senior, Savannah, Georgia. "I think that if outside personalities such as, Thurgood Marshall and Lois Tews was brought to the campus, it would create school spirit and a lot of other things that we need around here. It would definitely help in the area of stimulating an interest in cultural activities."

Foreign Impressions

By Norman B. Elmore

Miss Alberta Boston, Assistant Professor, Division of Business Administration vacationed eight weeks in Newberry, Berkshire, England, with her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Wilson. Newberry is located approximately 60 miles to the south of London.

Among the historic places Miss Boston visited were Buckingham Palace, the new and old U. S. Embassies; the Statue of Roosevelt; Piccadilly Circus, which is the Times Square of London; Fleet Street, which is the London newspaper center; and Saint Paul's Cathedral.

One day while on a shopping spree in London, Miss Boston witnessed the breath-taking changing of the guards ceremony in front of Buckingham Palace. She also had the pleasure of sitting in beautiful Westminster Abbey.

While sightseeing in Edinburgh, Scotland, Miss Boston visited historic Edinburgh Castle, the birthplace of James I of England and the seat of his mother, Mary Queen of Scots. She also visited Margaret's Chapel which is also located in Edinburgh Castle.

Miss Boston reports that she thoroughly enjoyed her trip to historic England. She found the Britons to be very cordial. She further stated that it was an enjoyable sight to see elderly people cycling to and from their places of employment. Miss Boston was particularly impressed with the British people's love for flowers and cattle. She stated that the quaint little houses and scenic countryside of dear old England will always bring back many entertaining memories.

Tiger's Roar Staff Faces New Challenges For Coming Year

With the advent of a new academic year, the student newspaper will be confronted with many problems. The cost of printing has increased tremendously; therefore, careful planning must be made to cut ends here and there. Competition of other college publications is also a challenge to better The Tiger's Roar.

The staff of The Tiger's Roar is under the leadership of Alfonso McLean, Editor-in-Chief.

McLean is a senior, majoring in Business Administration and minoring in Economics. Offices held by McLean are as follows: vice president of the freshman class, president of the sophomore class, chairman of the junior class, president of the Business Club, vice chairman of the social committee for the 13th Annual Merit's Festival. He currently holds office as vice president of Delta Eta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., treasurer of the senior class and committee on assembly.

Miss Yvonne McGlockton, "Miss Savannah State College" 1960-61, was appointed as associate editor. Miss McGlockton is a senior majoring in English.

Author Calls Castro

Communism's Sole Cheer

Despite pessimists' cries that America's world position is degenerating, in actuality the free world has far more to cheer about than the Communists, asserts an article in the October Reader's Digest.

Says author Edwin L. Dale, Jr.: "If I were sitting in the Kremlin and plotting domination of the world, I should be more tempted to write an alarmist article than I am here. I am now sitting. Fidel Castro would be nearly the only balm to my troubled soul."

In contrast to this single triumph of communism, Dale marshals an impressive list of free-world victories to back up his contention that "the state of the world is not really so bad."

Among them: The government of India has cooled noticeably toward its neighbor, Red China. This perceptible shift away from China took its most tangible form last month when for the first time in several years, India declined to sponsor a bill to admit Red China into the United Nations. Burma and Malaya, once hotbeds of Communist activity, have wipped out nearly all Communist revolutionaries.

will follow freedom's path rather than that of totalitarianism. With the possible exception of Guinea, not one new African state has shown a desire to become part of the Communist bloc.

For these and many other reasons described in this article, author Dale believes that the chances of war are remote, and even less are the chances of foreseeable Soviet superiority over the United States. His article, "The State of the Free World," is condensed from the Yale Review.

Student Union Building Being Constructed

The main floor of Hill Hall (the old library) is presently being converted into a new student union building. The new union building will be ultra-modern and will include special game rooms, student council office, a larger book store and a larger cafeteria area. This building is to be completed early this winter. Due to the sharp increase in enrollment, it will be an asset to Savannah State College.

Share a Grin

By James J. DeVoe
Little Evelyn had been given a ring as a birthday present, but, much to her disappointment, not one of the guests at dinner noticed it. Finally, unable to withstand their obtuseness or indifference, she exclaimed:

"Oh, dear, I'm so warm in my new ring!"

A beggar, whose face had been a familiar one in the streets for several years, applied one day to one of the frequent benefactors for employment.

"So you're going to work, eh?" said the person applied to.

"Yes, I'm tired of begging."

"Why? Doesn't it pay?"

"No, sir. The milk of human kindness is so watered these days it won't declare any dividends."

Golden Editor of Tiger Yearbook

Editors for the Tiger Yearbook, as announced by Prince Jackson, advisor to the publication, are: William Golden, editor-in-chief; Virginia Mercer, associate editor; Ira Snelson, layout editor; advertising managers, Mary Rosebud and Christine White; feature editors, Julia Habersham and Yvonne McGlockton; sports editor, Alphonso McLean; Greek editor, Eleanor Johnson; department editor, Evelyn Janel Thomas; faculty and staff editor, Loretta Miller; index editor, Christine White; photo editor, Norman Elmore; organization editor, Carolyn Campbell.

The advisor also announced the increase in the price of the 1960-61 yearbook to $5.00 instead of the $3.75 used in previous years.

He stated that the increase will result in a bigger and better yearbook.

The staff is working hard to sell 1,000 or more copies of the yearbook to the student body. Why not stop by the Public Relations Office in Melndrim Hall and pay your $1.00 deposit on the yearbook? By doing this you will help them to reach their goal.

President's Message

During the past decade, colleges in this section of the country have become increasingly aware of the effectiveness of their educational programs. This tendency has emphasized the need to use instruments to determine the preparedness of individuals to participate in programs leading to increased opportunities and privileges.

The large increase in scholarship programs and financial aid to students attending college has made it necessary to develop objective methods for selecting applicants. The tendency to use objective methods for selection has been employed in industry and government for many years. The extension of the selective process may be expected to spread to the majority of programs requiring a college education as a basis for consideration. In our own state, all high school graduates expecting to enter any of the undergraduate units of the University System of Georgia are required to submit, prior to admission—as a part of their requirements the scores on the College Entrance Examination Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test. This program which has been followed for the past thirty years will be continued.

The temporary measures provided during the first years of the program will be discontinued. In the past, some of the colleges have been permitted to administer the examinations after freshmen had arrived on the college campus. Beginning in the Fall of 1961, freshmen students will be admitted only if they have already taken the College Board examinations. It is to be expected that the purpose and objective for such examinations will be utilized to provide better educational opportunities for students who enter college.

After fear which many students have for examination is probably due to a lack of familiarity with the tests and the function which they serve. Increased opportunity to take tests and to understand how they are used will remove much of the fear and dread. When students realize that examinations are used almost as much outside of college as they are during the college years, they will understand that these instruments are becoming increasingly useful in all aspects of our economy. Students who are unable to work to their best advantage on examinations and tests will discover that the opportunity for employment in industry, the professions—including teaching, and government services will be limited.

Every test should be considered an opportunity for the student to learn something about his thoroughness in the field, and his ability to take the test in a manner that is most advantageous to him. Many of the tests taken by students in college are returned to them after they have been scored or corrected. The serious student studies these tests when they are returned in order that he may discover why he was successful or unsuccessful on various items. This type of reaction to test materials can be expected to enhance one's ability to perform well on the examinations. Effective techniques for taking examinations are necessary for effective performances, it must be emphasized that they are not a substitute for thoroughness in study and learning.

In the decade of the '60s, examinations may be expected to become standard procedure for scholarships, loans, admission to various local, state, and federal government positions, and a great group of semi-professional occupations. Every college student is acquainted with the fact that for a number of years such examinations have been required for applicants to schools of medicine, dentistry, law, pharmacy, nursing, engineering, for teaching positions, graduate school, and government government positions. Examinations are a part of the age in which we live, and those reluctant to prepare in terms of time will be limited in their choices.

The Tiger's Roar Exchange Near the 100 Mark

By E. ma Sue McCrocy

The Tiger's Roar is nearing the hundred mark for the exchanging of newspapers with other colleges and universities.

Of course, this is by no means the beginning mark for the exchange of newspapers. It dates back to the late 1940s. The world is getting smaller and smaller. Despite the mileage, we find no obstacle in knowing about activities at Ft. Keese, Xavier, Indiana, U. Prairie View, and other schools.

Could we possibly afford not to correspond with the world congested with news? News! News! It is somewhat interesting to note that the editor stresses variety in the Tiger's Roar which seems to be motivated by the exchange program.

Would it not be "something else" if each college and university had a copy of your ideas and articles? The students of the world have been thinking about it. Meanwhile, our "hats off" to all corresponding editors.

Importance of the College Newspaper

By James C. Matthews

The college newspaper plays an important role in college life. You may not know it, but colleges are represented to the outside world by student publications. The college newspaper does not only represent the college in the outside world, but it also serves as an outlet for informing students of the activities that have taken place on and off campus which concern them.

The college newspaper, an instrument of mass communication on campus. It is a publication by which the students may speak or voice their conceptions through editorial articles, feature stories, poems, etc. This also raises the question of freedom of the student publication versus control. The college newspaper represents the student body and gives them a chance to debate and test experimental thoughts, emotions, and beliefs. A free college newspaper gives self-expression of the outstanding moments on campus. It has many motives of expression and is as multifarious as human emotion.

The college newspaper does not only have a local campus value, but a professional value also. For many colleges are judged by their student publications. So important are student publications, it can be concluded that a college newspaper holds the major spotlight of student expression in college life.

How Much Do You Know About U. S. Presidents?

1. Who was the youngest man to be elected President?
2. What is the President's salary?
3. What state has contributed the greatest number of Presidents?
4. What President never went to school?

Election Over—What Now?

By James Devoe

There are many dissatisfied individuals following a presidential election. Many of the dissatisfied individuals have such reactions and are shocked when they find out after the election that the expected support for their candidate really did not exist.

The defeated candidates along with their aides and many supporters are hurt and feel positive that they have been rendered a grave injustice. It is truly amazing to see, after presidential elections, the host of people who are virtually ignorant of the fact that justice is the only thing that can come to light after an election. When most candidates lose an election many of them pacify themselves by blaming the election to the winning candidate on procedures of how they conducted the elections. Excuses are petty; it takes a good man to accept defeat and look forward to victory in future elections.

One must admit that it is not easy to accept defeat and that the man who can master defeat and take it in his stride is very very. Because of the usual after-election hostilities, election officials are amazed when the election is held and there are no accusations made.

One would imagine that it is an individual's prerogative to suspect everyone when the most revered and sought after position is at stake. When one can never find it in himself to trust another person or group of persons, he is not to be trusted. When one wishes to have faith in himself, he must first of all have faith in others.

The vast majority of us fail to recognize the fact that the masses do not select leaders. Leaders, such as the President of the U. S., for the most part, emerge into eminence and the populace merely put them in office by nominating them and casting their votes.

The election is over, and Victory has once more been declared by the winning party in conjunction with the members of the party which he represents. The winners are jubilant, and the losers are sad. If there were mistakes made they cannot be erased until the next election year rolls around, or if the elector turned to the high winds of his office he may be impeached. The only sane solution for the unhappy minority is to accept the obvious fact that the election is over and admit that ballots, not complaints, win elections.

Technical Science Building Aids in Building Floats

Many favorable comments were made concerning Homecoming. One was, this year's Homecoming parade showed tremendous improvement over previous years. Much of this improvement was due to the fact that the new technical building was used in the building of the floats. Last year, the majority of the decorating was done outdoors. Damp weather and dim lighting slowed down the production of the builders and decorators. This year, approximately 15 cars and floats were being constructed at the same time with the aid of the new technical building in the new building. Students also had ample time to begin preparing materials, thus better floats and cars were produced.

The Tiger's Roar Staff congratulates all the student organizations who helped make the Annual Homecoming celebration one that will be long remembered here. SS

Pan-Hellenic Coffee Lift — Good Gesture

The coffee and doughnut lift sponsored by the Greek-letter fraternities and sororities October 14, was indeed a good gesture.

This year's lift was sponsored by the Pan Hellenic Council, Eddie Bryant. Each person working on a car or float was given a doughnut and a cup of coffee. The coffee not only served as a lift but a bridge builder to unity among the Greek-letter organizations.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Much is being said around the campus about the development of the individual as a whole; physically, mentally, emotionally, and socially. I must admit that the word "development" is being used in the new technical building. I wonder if this thought has occurred to those in authority who are able to establish a better social program for the students who live on campus.

Our recreational center is open six nights a week for only a few hours. It closes at 10 p.m. in addition to being open a small length of time, it does not provide adequate entertainment. No planned activities are set up and the recreation center is the regular routine throughout the year. At the center, week after week we play cards, dance and watch television daily except on Sundays when the center is closed and the students are left entirely out-of-doors socially.

I feel that we need more wholesome recreational and social activities to correct the present lag in the social aspect of our campus life, and it is my sincere hope that soon we will have these activities.

Sincerely,
Julia E. Cheely

TO THOSE WHO MADE IT POSSIBLE:

Echoes of praise have been coming our way through the President's Office, various committees, and other agencies expressing pleasure at the very fine spirit extended by the staff, students, alumni, and administration toward those who visited us for the 1960 Homecoming activities.

Since the activities brought so much praise and enjoyment, the committee extended to the staff, students, alumni, and administration toward those who visited us for the 1960 Homecoming activities.

The parade, football game, half-time activities, dance, and the service rendered by the staff to the enjoyment of the public and indicated a fine spirit of co-operation, teamwork, and high degree of quality and taste.

We express our appreciation and request your cooperation in the future.

Sincerely yours,
James Devoe, Chairman
Frank D. Tharpe, General Chairman

Savannah State Cagers to Vie in Ga. Invitational Basketball

Tigers Defeat Morris College At Homecoming

The Savannah State College Tigers piled up their biggest point margin for the 1960 campaign by turning back Morris College Hornets 22 to 6 before a partisan homecoming crowd of approximately 2,000 fans on the Savannah State College football field.

The Tigers were unable to score in the first quarter but came back in the second quarter to score two touchdowns and a two point conversion and lead the Hornets 14 to 6 at halftime.

The Tigers marched 60 yards or their first touchdown with the climax coming on a 30 yard pass from quarterback Nelson to halfback John Strong. Frank Tompkins went around end for the two point conversion. The second touchdown came on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Nelson to end Fred Carter. The conversion attempt was no good. The Hornets held the Tigers scoreless in the third quarter but the Tigers came back to climax their scoring when Nelson again completed another fine 20-yard pass to halfback Harold Cleveland. A pass from quarterback Nelson to halfback Frank Tompkins was good for the two point conversion, making the final score SSC 22, Morris College 6.

Halfbacks Strong, Tompkins, Cleveland and Davis were the leading ground gainers. Quarterback Dennis Nelson had his best day in passing, completing 8 of 12 passes for 180 yards.

The outstanding linemen were Ben Spann, Eddie Bell, Floyd Walker, Fred Carter and a host of others.

Tigers Lose Three Games in a Row

The predominantly freshman football Tigers dropped the last three games.

The first one to Benedict College 67 to 6, the second to Albany State College 19 to 0 and the third at Alabama State College 30 to 0.

Benedict 67 to 6
In the game between the Tigers and Benedict College, the Tigers drew first blood with a 86 yard drive that placed them out front with a six-point lead in just three minutes of the first quarter.

The Tigers held that lead for the entire first quarter and actually out played Benedict the first quarter, only to have the powerful Benedict squad come from behind in the second quarter to score some 35 points and lead by a score of 35 to 6 as the first half ended.

From the time the whistle blew to start the second half until the final gun sounded the Benedict squad was in complete command, scoring some 32 more points making the final score 67 to 6.

Albany 19-0
Albany's Melt Bostic and Ed Nelson provided a two-man offensive show for the unbeaten and unscored upon Albany State College as the ASC Rams unscathed SSC's Tigers 19-0.

Albany co-captain Bostic returned Ben Edwards game opening kick-off 80 yards for the first score and received a 31-yard pass from quarterback Art Gamble for another Bostic, a 205 pounder who is used at any backfield position and at end, sped through the entire Tiger defense for the first touchdown.

A 22-yard field goal in the third quarter was nullified by an offside penalty.

Nelson, a reserve Ram fullback and kicking specialist, fell on the ball in the end zone in the fourth period after Tiger John Strong made an attempt for Nelson's kickoff. Nelson also kicked the extra point for the final score.

End Fred Carter and Linebacker Robert Leonard were outstanding defensively for the Tigers.

Alabama State College 32, SSC 0
Alabama's halfback Washington Craig scored four touchdowns and a two-point conversion to lead Alabama State to a 32-0 victory over the Tigers.

The lost was the fourth for the Tigers against one win and one tie.

Craig started the scoring with a five-yard run after halfback David Wheatley returned a punt to the Tiger six-yard line. Alabama scored in the second quarter on an eight-yard pass from quarterback Steve Jefferson to end Bobby Carr. Carr ran the point.

The Tigers' defense, sparked by end Fred Carter, tackle Eddie Bell and line-backer Robert Leonard, turned back several drives in the quarter, but fell apart in the fourth. Craig hit paydirt three times in the final ten minutes of the game, with a 55-yard punt return in the remaining two minutes capping the scoring. The other runs were for 10 and 12 yards.

The Savannah State College basketball team will journey to Atlanta to compete in the Georgia Invitational basketball tournament December 1, 2, 3. The Tigers played in the G.I.T. in 1955 and won it by defeating Morris Brown College in the final game—incidentally, this was the first G.I.T. held.

Matching shots with the Tigers in the big three-day hardwood classic will be teams from Dillard University, New Orleans, La.; Jackson College, Jackson, Miss.; Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C.; Morris Brown College, Atlanta; Prairie View A & M College, Prairie View, Texas; Tennessee A & I State University, Nashville, Tenn.; and Winston-Salem Teachers College, Winston-Salem, N. C.

This annual pre-season contest is sponsored by Atlanta's Extra Point Club, Hubert M. Jackson, president, and the competing quints were selected on the basis of the outstanding records compiled in their respective conferences last season.

The final selections, recommended by the Tournament Committee and approved by the Club, were based on the following won-loss records:

Dillard, 23-3; Jackson, 22-4; Johnson C. Smith, 18-4; Morris Brown, 22-6; Prairie View, 21-5; Savannah State, 28-6; Tennessee State, 27-4; and Winston-Salem, 19-5.

Defending GIT champions are the Prairie View Panthers, who upset the Grambling College Tigers, 84-79 in the champion finals last year. In the consolation tion finals, Kentucky State defeated Clark, 63-46 and North Carolina A & T won over Bethune-Cookman, 84-58.

Previous GIT champions are as follows:

1956—Morehouse College
1957—Florida A & M University
1958—Tennessee A & I State University
1959—Tennessee A & I State University

The Tigers are rated "very high" and are given a good chance to win the tournament. Experience will not be lacking on the team.

The entire first team will be probable starters again this year. All of the players on the team have improved and will see action this season. The team began training November 1, and will be in top condition for the GIT.

Redell Walton, Ira Jackson, Willie Tate, Stephen Kelly, and Captain James Dixon, are the starting five from last season who SSC's chances will be riding on in the GIT.

This is the third year the SSC five have played together. Their only problem seems to be in finding a top reserve to fill the shoes of Robert Robbins who graduated last season. They may have their problem solved if Paul Thompson or Johnny Mathis can find themselves on the court. A lot will be expected from Alphonse McLean, the only senior on the team.

Since becoming a Tiger in 1957 John has been a standout in the halfback slot. He's a full-fledged threat to go the distance on any offensive play, whether he is flanked out for a pass or in tight for a trip into or around the line.

Elijah has been Captain of the Tigers for the past three years and is known throughout the SEAC as one of its finest wide men. He's expected to continue to chop down rivals with devastating blocks and snare vital passes. McGraw, a former Serviceman, was a member of the 1957 Tiger basketball squad.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NAW, THAT ISN'T HIS LETTER SWEATER—THAT'S HIS GRATE AVERAGE."

Quick and powerful, Bell has been a three-year standout in a powerful Tiger line. One of the SEAC's outstanding blockers, Eddie is equally at home providing pass protection or charging down field to knock out secondary defenders; he is also equally good on defense.

Quarterbacks Dennis Nelson and Bobby Dunbar shake hands as they agree on the game tactics of the season.

Library Exhibits Foreign Literature

Foreign Science Literature is read by Yvonne McGlockton, Deloris Clark (center) and Juanita Quinn (right).

The National Science Foundation has loaned an exhibit to the Savannah State College Library which emphasized Foreign Science Literature. The exhibit was designed to acquaint United States scientists and technologists with Foreign Science Literature which is currently being translated into English.

The exhibit was a fold-up book translated Russian scientific and technical journals now available to American scientists. These journals are representative of leading Soviet journals in the following broad disciplines: Agriculture, Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Earth Sciences, Engineering and Technology, Mathematics, Medicine, Physics and Social Sciences. The exhibit also provided information on translation depository libraries in the United States and bibliographic periodicals which list and abstract new accessions and translated Russian literature.

The Tiger's Roar Forum: A Column of Opinion

By Annette Kennedy

As a result of this article of student opinions and other articles which appeared in the last issue of the Tiger's Roar, some pertinent questions have been raised concerning the present status of the "school spirit."

This issue's article shall be devoted to student opinions concerning the school spirit at Savannah State College.

To the question, "Do you feel that the school spirit at SSC is deficient in any respect so as to become an area of basic concern?" the following replies were given.

Virginia Mercer—senior, Metter—"Yes, it is my opinion that there is something wrong with our school spirit. Take for example the present year book situation. Juniors were requested to take pictures at a designated date and only a minority have done so. To me this indicated a lack of school spirit and I feel we all need to closely analyze ourselves for this deficiency."

Delores Clarke—sophomore, Savannah—"Yes, I do think that it should become an area of basic concern. The students do not take a sincere interest and pride in the activities on campus or their studies."

Willie Williams—senior, Savannah—"Yes, there is definitely a deficiency. What little display of school spirit that is shown is immediately forgotten, such as the pep rallies in the gym which are attended by a few."

Bernice Pinkney—junior, Savannah—"Yes, it has reached a low enough ebb to become of basic concern. It is especially evident in the lack of pride of the campus and activities, especially sports."

Ruby Mitchell—advanced junior, Beaufort, S. C.—"Yes, it is very deficient. The students do not have enough interest in the intellectual phase of college life."

Carolyn Vinson—junior, Savannah—"I feel that if the students would only support the functions of the school wholeheartedly, the deficiency which is so very evident, would soon be eliminated."

Nathan Marko Right—senior—"This is not something that has just developed. This deficiency has been in existence for a period of time. Frankly, I think more to remedy this condition should be initiated immediately."

Phyllis Singfield—senior, Augusta—"Of course it should be of basic concern. What the students lack is a get up and go attitude."

Janetta Quinn—junior, Savannah—"It should have been an area of basic concern long ago. I for one, shall certainly check myself for any negligence on my part, and I hope other students will do likewise."

POET'S CORNER

A Lesson Well-Learned

By "Gem"

Of all the times to unlived,
I had to pick this year,
I know if my heart had but one choice,
To me it wouldn't be near.
Some folks think they're very smart;
They haven't a worldly care.
But little do they realize
That they, too, must pay a fare.
My fare, I hope, is now paid,
My share of woe, I've had.
I've now realized that breaking hearts
Is a dangerous fad.

Circumstance

By Charles H. Lee

Tonight as the wind beats against my window pane,
And nature plays havoc with her storage of rain,
I wonder why I am such a pompous fool.
To be used as some casual implement or tool.
Yet I am happy in such a primeval state,
I am resigned to my mortal fate.
Caught in the midst of chance
I am.
Willing to let love die like a sacrificed lamb.

"Wonder"

By Eddie W. Bryant, Jr.

Did you ever stop to wonder
About the things you see,
The things that God made for man
And the things he made them to be.

He made a man from dirt and clay
Gave him a soul so he could pray
Made him legs to guide his way
And gave him vision from day to day

The wonders of this world, and all you see,
God made them for you, and made them for me.

The Heart

By "Gem"

The heart is but a tiny organ,
Too much it cannot bear;
It, too, must be fondled;
It mustn't even know fear.

If fear should but ever appear,
The heart will never be the same,
For a heart once made wild,
Can never again be tame.

What Is Probation?

By Verdelle Lambert

During the last fourteen days in November, the pledges of the various Greek letter organizations at Savannah State College will go through the final phase of their pledging—probation. The initiation probation of each sorority and fraternity, however, does not exceed seven days.

All of the Greek letter organizations on our campus have open as well as closed probation. When the members of a sorority or fraternity meet privately with their probates (during the seven days period) this is known as "closed probation." When the probates demonstrate before the public, this is known as "open probation."

Interestingly enough, this period, on some campuses, is referred to as "hell week." No such term has been dedicated to this week at Savannah State College; essentially though, it is a "fun week," for the spectators as well as the probates.

The following information has been compiled in order to familiarize the student body to the general probation customs and procedures of the various Greek letter organizations.

Probates of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority are called barbarians. Their colors are red and white. They perform the "duck walk." The sorority has five pledges.

Probates of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity are called dogs. They wear a dog collar and carry a shield and a sword. They are known as the "marching dogs." The fraternity has twelve pledges.

Probates of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority are called barbarians. Their colors are blue and white. They perform the "Z" step. The sorority has nine pledges.

Probates of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity are called dogs. They perform the "Kappa March." The fraternity has four pledges.

Probates of Alpha Kappa Sorority are called worms. Their colors are pink and green and their walk is called "Worming." The sorority has seven pledges.

Probates of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity are called dogs. They carry black and gold bricks and seven books to represent the seven founders of the fraternity. They march to the "Alpha Cadence." The fraternity has thirteen pledges.

Probates of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority are called barbarians. Their colors are royal blue and gold and they carry umbrellas. The sorority has three pledges.

Probates of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity are called dogs. The fraternity has no pledges.

Men's Fashions

By Eddie W. Bryant, Jr.

Winter Is Here

Winter time is here, so let's bring out the heavy ones. With our men's storm coats and hats, the son, a purple velvet carcoat with leather pocket flaps would be ideal to wear. Or if you prefer the tall slim look, try the new slacks with the continental silhouette. A lower collar, tapered sleeves, and a short length.

For those who prefer knitwear, knitting machines have harmed many tricks. Now with your knitted Mori Sahl sweater, striped in Chianti and Concord, you can carry along a knitted jacket for a quick change or even the knitted topcoat with that slim look. An inner lining of man-made pile adds much to the comfort, little to the poundage.

For those who prefer a wool topper, the softness of a woolen pullover sweater, gold, olive or gray, would swing together with your gray slim tight slacks.

A knitted sports coat, or knitted red blazer, would be credited for dates or for any dresser sports occasion.

ALPHA'S FLOAT WINS FIRST PLACE: Miss Annette Kennedy, Alpha's Sweetheart, glides along as "The Queen of Dreams" in the Homecoming parade. This creation won first prize in the float competition.

SECOND PLACE FLOAT, "CINDERELLA": The division of Technical Sciences float, "Cinderella," won the judges' decision for the second place trophy in the annual Homecoming parade. Miss Margaret Tiggs reigned as "Miss Technical Sciences."

Campus Spotlight

By Yvonne McGlockton

Juanita Quinn, junior, social science major

David Bodison, senior, business administration major

Campus Spotlight, a regular feature of The Tiger's Roar, pays tribute to distinguished students who through their scholarship, service, loyalty and attitudes have merited this tribute.

In this edition, the Spotlight salutes one junior and one senior, Juanita Quinn and David Bodison, for their noteworthy contributions to campus life here at Savannah State College.

Juanita, a native of Savannah is a junior majoring in social science and maintains above a "B" average cumulatively.

"Juani" as she is called by many of her associates, is affiliated with several campus organizations. Among these are: Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority (assistant dean of pledges); the Tiger Yearbook staff, the college playhouse and the Social Science Club. Recently, she was one of the 16 students on this campus elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities for 1960-61." Her ambition is to become a juvenile delinquent case worker after she does graduate work in the field of Sociology.

Hobby-wise, she enjoys sewing, cooking, reading and listening to music. Juanita states her philosophy in life thus: "confidence in myself, faith in mankind and God, for the perpetuation of a better society."

Bodison, also a native of Savannah, is a senior majoring in business administration. He states that receiving a scholarship from Omega Psi Phi Fraternity greatly influenced him to come to college.

Presently, his campus affiliations include the Entrepreneur (editor-in-chief), Business Club, Tiger's Roar staff (typist) and Business Manager of the senior class.

David is the type of individual who does not stand out because of honors, achievements, etc. Instead, he stands out because of his willingness to work, cooperative attitude, and ability to get along with his fellowman.

His leisure time is spent fishing, hunting, and reading. Chinese chop suey, and Mexican hot tamales are his favorite foods. His ambition is to become a general accountant. Bodison's philosophy is a simple one—"anything worth having is worth working for."

The writer of this column is proud to add these two personalities to the Spotlight roster. May you continue to be the outstanding persons that your schoolmates and teachers have found you to be.

FINE SPIRIT EXHIBITED AT HOMECOMING; COLORFUL PARADE, FOOTBALL FEATURED

Campus Representative for Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation Named

Mr. Hans Rosenhaupt, National Director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has, through the office of Dr. W. K. Payne, President of Savannah State College, appointed Dr. N. V. McCullough as campus representative for the Foundation. The Foundation offers fellowships for graduate study for those students who are majoring in the humanities or social studies.

Applicants must have a B or better average and are urged to confer college teaching as a career. There is no mandate that the student must engage in college teaching upon completion of his graduate study, but it is hoped that he would consider the prospect of doing so. Thus, the foundation seeks to interest the most capable undergraduates in college teaching careers in the humanities or social science.

Since American institutions of higher learning, like the public schools, will need many more capable instructors and professors, the Foundation desires to encourage young Americans to enter the fields of the humanities and social science, especially since there are already adequate fellowships, grants and grants-in-aid for study and work in the sciences.

The day is over but the memory lingers on. In the hearts of the Savannah State College family and its friends lingers many memories of the 1960 Homecoming activities. Many words of praise have been received from various sources expressing pleasure at the fine spirit exhibited by all.

The activities of Homecoming day began with a colorful parade through the city of Savannah, followed by the football game on Savannah State College Athletic Field where the State Tigers clashed with the Morris College team and came out victorious with a score of 22-6.

The half-time activities were superb. President W. K. Payne, the Savannah State College Student Council president, "Miss SSC" and her court, "Miss Morris" and her court, "Miss National Alumni" and her court all took part in the activities. "Miss Morris" extended greetings from Morris College. "Miss Alumni" expressed her appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her, and "Miss SSC" welcomed all.

The half-time activities were culminated with a beautiful performance, "Dreamboat," by the Savannah State College band.

The day's activities ended with a dance in Wilcox gymnasium with Mr. Samuel Gill and the Savannah State Collegiate rendering the music. The gym was beautifully decorated in keeping with the general Homecoming theme, "A World of Dreams."

Winners of trophies and cups for floats and cars decorated and participating in the parade were: In the float division, first place, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity; second place, Technical Science Division, and third place, Physical Education Majors. In the car division, first place, Social Science Department; second place, Sophomore Class, and third place Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. Congratulations to these departments, classes and organizations.

Start planning now to make 1961 Homecoming even more successful than 1960 was.

Christmas Concert Thrills Large Audience

Meteorological Forum Held

In keeping with the rapid developments of this space age, Savannah State College is enriching its scientific program through workshops, lectures, consultants, and conferences. A special conference on meteorology was held at Savannah State on December 1 and 2. Dr. R. T. Griffith, chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences, was conference director.

In cooperation with the American Meteorological Society, the Division of Natural Sciences presented Dr. Robert T. Duquet, assistant professor of meteorology at Pennsylvania State University.

A public meeting was held on Thursday, December 1, at 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room 206 of the new Technical Science Center. All science teachers in the area and other interested persons were invited to take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about our atmosphere and its phenomena and also job opportunities in the field of meteorology.

On Friday at 12:00 noon, in Meldrum Auditorium, Dr. Duquet addressed the student body at the weekly assembly.

A Canadian citizen, born at Sherbrooke, Quebec, Dr. Duquet attended Loyola High School and Loyola College in Montreal, obtaining from Loyola a B.S. degree in Physics in 1950. He attended McGill University and the University of Toronto, and was granted by the latter a M.A. degree in Meteorology in 1952. Dr. Duquet has served as a forecaster at Corval Airport in Montreal and at the United Airport, Newfoundland.

He came to the United States (on an immigration visa) in 1953 to study for a Ph.D. degree in Meteorology at New York University and was employed as a Research Assistant until July 1958. On July 1, 1958, he was employed by Pennsylvania State University as an Assistant Professor of Meteorology. He applied for American citizenship in October of 1960.

Dr. Duquet is a member of the American Meteorological Society, the Royal Meteorological Society of England, the American Geophysical Union and Sigma Xi.

Librarian Visits Congress Library

E. J. Jesty, Savannah State College Librarian, visited the Gifts and Exchange Division of the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., December 15 through 17, to select books from their duplicate collection.

These books were made available to libraries of educational and research throughout the United States.

Librarians obtained access to these materials through the courtesy of a United States Senator and Congressman from their respective states.

Many of these books and monographs are discarded from the Library of Congress Collection, the Copyright Office (which is housed in the Library of Congress), and other Federal Libraries.

Books published by American and foreign publishers, as well as government documents, are included in the duplicate collection.

Many libraries throughout the United States take advantage of this service.

Alpha Kappa Mu Elects Boseman, Mercer

Kyle C. Boseman, president of the Student Council, and Virginia Mercer, both seniors at SSC, were elected to regional offices of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honorary Society's Region V at a one-day meeting held at York Valley State College on November 4.

Region V is composed of ten chapters representing colleges in Georgia and South Carolina. Seven of the chapters were represented at the meeting. They were Savannah State, Port Valley, Albany State, Benedict, Paine, Clark, and Morris Brown.

The next regional meeting of the honor society will be held at Savannah State College on the first Friday in December, 1961.

Others attending the meeting from Alpha Nu Chapter were Dr. Elson K. Williams, regional director of Region V and advisor to Alpha Nu Chapter; Mrs. Margaret C. Robinson; Yvonne McGlockton, president of Alpha Nu Chapter; and Gladys Lambert.

At the convention Gladys Lambert gave the only original contribution, which was the result of a survey taken among the students of Savannah State College to obtain their attitude toward the candidates in the November presidential election.

Library Science Courses Aid Georgia School Libraries

The inauguration of the Library Science courses at Savannah State College during the 1960 summer school session is a shot-in-the-arm for school libraries of Georgia and the nation, because of the serious shortage of trained school library personnel. The program is designed to provide four basic courses amounting to twenty quarter hours as required by the State Department of Education. The four courses will provide the future teacher-librarian with knowledge of the important day-to-day operations and concerns of the school library, the fundamentals of cataloging and classification, and the importance of book selection and reference service.

Library Science 301, School Library Administration and Organization, and Library Science 302, Cataloging and Classification, are junior level courses; Library Science 401, School Library Materials, and Library Science 402, Basic Reference Sources, will be offered as senior level courses. Each course is so designed that it will be independent of the other and will not require a prerequisite. All qualified juniors and seniors in elementary education, sec-

Savannah State College on the first Friday in December, 1961.

Others attending the meeting from Alpha Nu Chapter were Dr. Elson K. Williams, regional director of Region V and advisor to Alpha Nu Chapter; Mrs. Margaret C. Robinson; Yvonne McGlockton, president of Alpha Nu Chapter; and Gladys Lambert.

At the convention Gladys Lambert gave the only original contribution, which was the result of a survey taken among the students of Savannah State College to obtain their attitude toward the candidates in the November presidential election.

On Sunday evening, December 11 at 6 p.m. the Department of Fine Arts presented the Annual Christmas Concert in Meldrum Auditorium here at Savannah State College. The public was invited to attend. The Choral Society's renditions held the audience spellbound.

This year the presentation was devoted to excerpts from George F. Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," and featured approximately 110 voices. They represented the combined Choral Society (College Choir and Concert Choir), the Men's Glee Club, faculty members, alumni, and community leaders in various fields. James Thompson, Jr., a member of the Department of Fine Arts' Faculty, was at the organ. The student accompanist was Rose Marie Overstreet, a sophomore from Sylvania and a major in Music.

Soloists were as follows: Juanita Moon, soprano, a junior from Savannah, and a voice major; Mildred Ellison, contralto, an alumna and public school teacher in the local system; Anna Pelton, tenor, and local government worker; James Weldon Johnson, tenor, a freshman from Sylvania, and a major in voice; and Launey Roberts, Jr., bass, an alumna and local school teacher. Coleridge A. Braithwaite, chairman of the Department of Fine Arts, was conductor.

The Choral Society's performance is one that will never be forgotten. The solos and arias, as well as the choruses, were very skillfully delivered. Congratulations to Dr. Braithwaite, his staff, and the members of the Choral Society for their very laudable performances.

30 Honored at Convocation

On November 17, thirty students were honored at the annual Honors Day Convocation held at the college for maintaining an average of "B" or higher during three quarters of the school year 1959-60. Dean T. C. Meyers presided and centered his address on the theme "Honors for the Present Crisis." In his address Dean Meyers stated that radical changes are taking place in all areas of human life. Man today has won a larger measure of freedom and opportunity, but, in large, opportunity of the masses is largely concealed. Once a peak has been attained, the masses tend to lapse back into a state of complacency.

The speaker continued his address by saying that today, the world is full of opportunities. We need to develop attitudes and skills to equip ourselves for the changes in social and economic life. Each person has a need to develop his individual talent. Everyone does not have the same aptitudes. Success lies in strength of character and in the ability to perform various tasks.

Panel, Skit Presented

The Mary McLeod Bethune Chapter of the Student National Educational Association presented two programs during American Education Week. They were a panel discussion and an original skit entitled "The Verdict is Yours."

"The Verdict is Yours" was an original skit in which a school system was on trial for failing to strengthen the schools for the 60's. The setting was a courtroom, Any Town, U. S. A. The time was 1965. It was presented during the regular assembly program Thursday, Week A, 1960. The skit was presented by the SNEA and Regional Sponsor of SNEA-FTA for Region 11 of the GTEA.

«Carmen» Proves Most Entertaining

Savannah State students, faculty, and interested citizens were members of the largest audience which enjoyed the National Opera Company's presentation of Melina and Haley's version of George Bizet's musical arrangement of "Carmen."

Carmen, the tempestuous gypsy, was portrayed by Patricia Fraher. John Turner played Don Jose.

David Goodling, with his marvelous fingering, accompanied the artists on the piano. The opera was sung in English. The adaptation was by Ruth and Thomas Martin. Sets were by Jeff Miller and William Pugh. John Miller was production manager and Ken Martin was stage manager. John Newfield was stage director.

The National Opera Company was incorporated under the name of the National Grass Roots Foundation. It was founded by A. J. Fletcher, lawyer and businessman, of Raleigh, North Carolina. The company is a non-profit, non-stock organization. It is supported, in part, by private subscriptions.

Since 1952, the Company has performed for more colleges and universities than all of the traveling grand opera companies in the United States combined.

A Portrait of the Division of Technical Sciences... Expanded Program at SSC

The great lack of manpower on all industrial fronts create new dimensions of training power. These new dimensions will require new dimensions of courage, flexibility, enthusiasm, initiative, imagination, and leadership.

The division of technical sciences has as a general objective: To provide for its students experiences that will aid them in earning a living in an occupation in which success is dependent largely upon technical information and understanding of the laws of science and technology as applied to research, design, production, distribution, and service. To attain this objective and to fulfill more useful ones for the various areas the following curricula are offered within the division: Automotive technology, building construction technology, electronics and electrical technology. Home economics, industrial arts and industrial education are also included in this division's program at Savannah State College.

While the expanded program in technology is really in its infancy, it should be noted that Savannah State College has, for a long time, offered training in industrial and industrial arts education, and also home economics.

What implication does this expansion have for the College, for the students, and for society? Part of all, it means that Savannah State College has made another step toward implementing her basic philosophy. She has recognized the national need for tapping America's most valuable resource, thereby contributing to technological developments of this nation. For the students future in technology must be rewarding if ability, training, and application are comparable to the demands of today's social order. It is a foregone conclusion that the demand has long surpassed the supply of technicians, and with the rapid advancements in technology in present day society, the gap is becoming increasingly wide. A portrait of America's industrial future is dictated by technicians who are utilized in twenty-six per cent of our workers which are twenty-nine per cent.

A rewarding future lies ahead for the qualified technician which Savannah State College is developing. The cry of the lack of technicians in our industrial society can be heard far and wide. Industrial research indicates that this great manpower shortage is not due so much in regards to quantity, but, rather quality, the number is important, but this problem must be approached carefully, preserving quality in the same perspective with quality. Recognizing this, the staff of the division of technical sciences and the College as a whole are trying to develop a program that will be commensurate with standards on a national level. With this approach, and with a fair degree of success, society will benefit greatly from the program offered here at the College.

What is a Technician? A technician is a worker on a level between the skilled tradesman and the professional engineer. His technical skills enable him to perform many of the duties formerly assigned to the graduate engineer. Technicians design the machines, compute the cost, write the specifications, organize the production, and test the finished product.

The technology program offered at Savannah State College leads to a bachelor of science degree in the following areas of specialization: Automotive technology, where job opportunities are available in more specific areas including general auto repairs, auto body painting and auto machine shop; building construction technology, which includes masonry, plumbing, surveying and estimating, mechanical and architectural drafting; electronics and electrical technology which includes electric repairs and installation, communication system repairs, radio and television repairs. These are but some of the jobs that persons might be qualified to fulfill as a result of having successfully completed the prescribed course of study pertinent to the job classification. Training in small business operation and procedures are included in all of the technical areas.

Home economics, an old area of concentration at Savannah State College, but recently a part of the Division's expanded program, provides persons with experiences that may qualify them to fill numerous jobs in industry. A few industries utilizing home economics graduates are textile and clothing, food and food service, food processing, and home furnishings.

Education: A Necessity in a Democracy

By Lorenzo McNeal

One of our most important human inheritances in a democracy is the citizen's right to an education. Often it is acknowledged and admitted that democracy is not an easy form of government. It is difficult to work properly for it. It depends upon the character and intelligence of its citizens. It takes character to be honest about our earnings when we make out our income tax returns. It also requires intelligence to make true and accurate reports. Unless people are basically intelligent as the result of a reasonable education, it is impossible for them to make their contributions to democracy wisely and advantageously. Every citizen has the right to receive the kind of education and moral discipline which will enable him to develop into a reliable and trustworthy citizen.

"Because education is of vital importance in a democracy," one tends to ask this question: "How important are our public schools in a democracy?" They seek to work properly for it. They wish one can learn democracy by living it. They stress character, intelligence, and integrity. These are three necessities which help citizens to take an active part in a democratic way of life.

Democracy is endangered without the integrity and concern for the common good that Christ makes possible in the human heart. The word "integrity" is important. It means honesty, purity, and uprightness. All of these qualities are inherent in a sound education. Democracy needs informed citizens if the government of the people, for the people, and by the people is to remain as a reality. The educated citizen is able to perform his duties in the most beneficial and harmonious way of living together cooperatively as God intended.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We have read with interest your very fine editions of the Savannah student newspaper. The Tiger's Roar is certainly to be considered the best college newspaper in this state, and certainly one of the best in the nation. Your journalistic efforts are commendable, and it is our hope that you will continue to publish a paper such as you have done.

Very sincerely,

F. W. RENDLER II,

Don't Use Big Words!

Don't use big words. "In promulgating your esoteric citations or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and naive, philosophical, or psychological observations of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversations and communications possess a clarified consciousness, a common comprehension, consistency, and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flaccid garrulity, jargon babblement, and adinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity. Do not accommodate or thrasonical bombast."

"In other words talk plainly, briefly, naturally, sensibly, truthfully, purely. Don't use big words. Confine your remarks to plain talk; say what you mean; put what you say, and avoid big words."

Politics and World News

By James Devore

Clark Gable, handsome 59-year-old king of the movies, died peacefully of a heart attack at the Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, Wednesday night, November 16. It is indeed pathetic to know that he died four months prior to the birth of his first child.

His fifth wife, Kay, rushed to his bedside but arrived moments too late. Mrs. Gable, who also suffers from a heart condition, was placed under the care of a physician. The movie world will miss a great actor, who was a man and a gentleman.

An article written by the writer recently concerning the conditions prevailing in Cuba, stated that the only solution (at that time) was recognition of her status. Since that time, conditions have worsened to the extent that President Eisenhower had to rush U. S. warships to Central America to aid revolt-threatened Guatemala and Nicaragua against any Communist-led attack. The reason for this action by the president was due to the charges made by Guatemala and Nicaragua against Cuba, against Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro. They charged him with helping the rebels to revolt.

The United States' action in sending help to the Caribbean area can be attributed to the fact that they hope to put the same type of surveillance there that in the Panama Straits. Another reason is to give clear admonition to Mr. Castro that further effort on his part to bring about a revolt will be harshly dealt with.

A group of New Orleans, Louisiana, lawmakers has placed President John F. Kennedy in a delicate position in that they want him to speak out on his position on federal-enforced integration of schools in Louisiana, as well as in the rest of the South.

They (the lawmakers) met Sunday, November 20, with Clark Clifford, Washington, D. C. attorney and one of Kennedy's "leading advisers." Mr. Clark acted as Mr. Kennedy's representative since Mr. Kennedy was not there. Any decision Mr. Kennedy makes will play a very important part in his coming administration. He is now under strenuous pressure because of the stand taken for integration during his campaign. The decision he makes, pro or con, will play a part in or not the voters can be assured of other promises he has made.

President-elect Kennedy, at his first press conference following his election to the Presidency of the United States, named Andrew T. Young as his first cabinet member.

Mr. Hatcher, who has been active in Democratic National and State politics since 1950, took a leave of absence from his job as Assistant Labor Commissioner of California to take part in the Kennedy campaign.

College Emphasis on Religion

meetings each morning, religious programs during the weekdays and church and Sunday School on Sunday.

This year as the Religious Education Week celebration approaches, it is hoped that the majority of the students at this institution will fulfill their religious responsibility by taking part in some part of the celebration, not only on Sunday, but also during the weekly religious activities.

By doing this they will truly let their religion be represented, that they may see their good work and glory God, our Father, which is in Heaven.

Each year at this institution, as is the custom at many institutions of this type, a week is set aside for coming to grips with religion. For one week members of the student body and faculty attend prayer

What Does Christmas Mean to You?

As the Christmas season approaches the thought that each year more people are turning away from the true meaning of Christmas enters the minds of many.

Christmas to the "small fry" in the United States means Santa Claus, while in France it means Saint Nicholas, or in England it means Father Christmas. In spite of the fact that Santa is called by different names to parties and nations, the meaning is basically the same thing. To them he is a symbol of good tidings. They believe that if they make a special effort to be good as the Christmas season approaches, on Christmas eve Santa will come and fill their stockings with many of the things they have wanted. It is in this way that the Christmas season is quite appropriate for children, but what about adults and the meaning of Christmas to them? Well surprising as it may seem, to many adults the meaning of Christmas is not as good as a child's meaning.

Often adults tend to think of Christmas solely as a time for having lots of fun and giving and getting things and being merry, or for some it is considered as a time for giving gifts with the idea of receiving gifts in return; still others consider it as a time for decorating houses extensively, in an effort to outshine neighbors.

One cannot say that leaving out the true meaning of Christmas is strictly a fault of the present generation because this trend has been developing long before the present generation came into existence. However, the present generation is not doing its part in helping to preserve the original meaning of Christmas.

The question of how the present generation can do its part to help restore the original meaning of Christmas probably comes to mind. The answer to this question is an obvious one. The present generation can help to restore the original meaning of Christmas by differentiating it as a holiday for adults and children by representing Christ-like characteristics, by remembering the less fortunate, and giving for the spirit of giving and not for the purpose of receiving; and finally by linking Christ with Christmas, remembering that it is one of the most sacred times of the year.

On November 22, the marching, singing, worming, ducking, and all other phases of probation came to an end, leaving many with the belief that the fall probation of 1960 was one of the liveliest in the history of our college.

The spirit exhibited by all of the groups on probation was at an all-time high. The various groups of young ladies tried to out sing and out dance each other, while the various groups of young men tried to out sing and out march each other. At times the competition became so great that a bystander had a tough time deciding which group was presenting the best or funniest show.

Although a large portion of probation was spent in provoking laughter, the entire period did not consist entirely of fun making. There were times when constructive things were done by the probates. For instance, the Kappa Dogs spent a portion of their time picking up litter on our campus, while the Alpha Dogs spent a portion of their time painting the benches in the Alpha's patio.

For many of the probates, probation was a hard struggle. At times it looked as though some of them would not endure the struggle. However, all of them lasted to the end, and as a result, there are forty-one (41) new "Greeks" on our campus.

Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority—Mary Kelly, senior, Liberty County.

When care is pressing you down a bit
Rest, if you must—but don't you quit.

Campus Spotlight

By Yvonne McClockton

Campus Spotlight, a regular feature of The Tiger's Roar, provides information on distinguished students who, through their scholarship, service, talents and attitudes, have merited this tribute.

Charles Toole

Shirley Terry

In this edition, the Spotlight casts its rays upon two outstanding students, Shirley Jean Terry and Charles Toole.

Shirley, a quiet, soft-spoken, and friendly young lady, hails from Dawson, Georgia, and is a graduate of Carver High of that city. While enrolled here at the College, she has participated in several phases of campus life, however, her most noteworthy contribution to campus life is in the role of pianist for the College Singing School. This position she has held for three years. Her other campus activities are Zeta Phi Beta chapter, the Y.W.C.A. Alpha Kappa Mu Tutorial System (tutor in mathematics), and the college band.

Being, as she puts it, a "regular girl," Shirley dislikes people who are very moody. Her pet peeve is "for people to fail to complete statements, or make a statement which leaves one hanging in the air." Her hobby is music, and she enjoys listening to all types of music, from rock 'n' roll to symphonic music.

Shirley plans to complete her requirements for a B.S. degree in mathematics here at SSC in 1962. Afterwards she hopes to become a mathematics instructor in a public high school.

Her life was simple, and the elements so mixed in him, that people might find up and say to all the world, "This was a man!" —Shirley Terry

In the two-page lines one can find the key to the personality of Charles Toole. Charles, neat and debonair, has been a source of inspiration to many students, and an asset to the school. Hailing from Columbus, he is a graduate of Alfred E. Beach High School of this city. Currently, he is doing student teaching at St. John's High School of this city. Prior to going on the field, he had labored with several campus organizations, such as the Student and P.A. Fraternity, Pan-Hellenic Council, Tiger's Roar, and the Social Science Club.

Charles may be elusive, sports-dancing, and reading. He displays his love for sports by serving as a student manager for the college football team. His philosophy of life is a simple one—"It can be done." Ambition-wise he hopes to enter social work after completing the requirement for a B.S. degree in social science.

The New Look

With the passing of the Continental style, America is beginning to feel the influence of the New London Line. Unlike America's traditional natural-looking coat, the body is narrow—the jacket moves gracefully at the waist. The coat is designed to accentuate the figure in the waist.

Because the Continental is essential because the waist is applied to lines, not slightly. From the top of the head, the lines are longer, draped and flared. The trousers, which in all current silhouettes are tapered slim, are the most important topcoat is designed to be a LEAN SILHOUETTE. The elements of a lower collar, slightly shorter length and tapered sleeves, a trimmer neckline has been achieved in the new London flared.

Trousers and slacks go hand-in-hand with the new fashion with new leather. Our latest fashions in shoes are furnished olive with pointed-toe true browns with higher front, or shimmer black with higher heels.

So, let us look at our trim silhouettes, narrower, brimmed hats. For men on their way up, authoritative fashions are here for you, in colors of gray, brown, green, tan, or shiny brown, that cater to a man's sense of individuality.

"Elegant Coats in Winter White"

Just a few seasons back, the white coat for winter was a costly luxury that few women could afford. However, this winter, it's for everyone. It can serve as a second coat in your wardrobe, because it can be used for evening wear, and it lends to traveling from one climate to another.

Beautifully cut from pure wool, the white coat provides a dramatic background for accessories. It can be sparked with color or worn with white gloves, a white chiffon scarf, a white mink or a fake fur hat.

Cut in lightweight wool is soft fleece or a nearly weightless hopsack, the winter white coat can be of service from November to April. It is meant to be a working part of a wardrobe rather than a luxury to be worn a few times, then set aside. Generally, the styling for these winter white coats is simple and pure of line. Often they are trimmed and bound in white satin, a tiny touch to heighten the dazzling effect of the white.

A good many women are going to have an immediate feeling that the winter white coat will present constant cleaning problems. Actually, this should not be so if it is used as a second coat in a winter wardrobe.

The Tiger's Roar Forum:
A Column of Opinion

By Annette Kennedy

Much concern has been given to the status of the social life here at Savannah State College. Therefore, this article of opinions shall be concentrated on views expressed by several students here at our institution in regards to social life.

Question: What are your viewpoints concerning the social life here at SSC?

Replies

Dora Myles, junior, Savannah—"The social life on this campus needs much improvement. It will take the effort of the people in authority as well as the students to cope with this problem."

Jean Quarlesman, senior, Walthamville—"The social life on this campus should be improved. It seems to be in a state of depression. If we as students could find out where the fault lies, maybe we could correct it."

Julia Cheely, junior, Warrenton—"I think the recreational activities are very inadequate and not well planned. There are not enough activities after classes are over and during the weekends."

Bertha Korngay, senior, Hazlehurst—"The center is absolutely too small for the number of students on the campus, and the equipment in the center is limited and not up-to-date. Since the center does play a large part in our social life, I feel that is the main reason why social interest is lagging."

Marjorie Howell, freshman, Lumber City—"I have fulfilled my social desires. However, I feel that the social activities on campus can be improved."

Theresa Lewis, freshman, Madison—"I think the social life at SSC is well planned. The school offers a number of activities for students with different tastes."

Abraham Johnson, junior, Savannah—"I think the social life could really be improved, especially the recreational aspect. There are not enough sports for girls and non-sports students."

Kenneth Alexander, junior, Savannah—"The social life definitely needs improvement. The activities should be so planned as to bring about a closer relationship among the students and a feeling of school spirit."

Percy Harden, sophomore, Savannah—"The social activities are adequately planned, however, the students do not show enough interest in participating in these activities."

Betty Jean Nunnally, sophomore, Statesboro—"The social life could be improved upon in the area of cultural activities. I do not feel that there are enough activities of this nature taking place on campus."

IF

By Eddie Bryant

If I could master words and give them all to you,
In such a way you would understand that all my love is true

If my lips could only speak of the many things my eyes see
And tell them all to you, my love you would know how much you mean to me.

If the moon and stars would cease to shine
And all this world lose sight
With you in my arms, my loving darling, forever there would be light.
If my love could only be measured or spread out before your heart.

Then and only then, perhaps you would say that our love would never part

Fear not, you are the subject of Faculty Personality

Of the Month

DR. N. V. McCULLOUGH

The faculty personality is a monthly feature of the Tiger's Roar; it pays tribute to the teachers of this institution for their outstanding contributions and services to the students and the college. This month it is more than a pleasure for the writer of this column to have the opportunity to reveal to you a small portion of another one of our instructors' personalities. Dr. Norman V. McCullough.

Dr. McCullough was born, reared, and partially educated in Youngstown, Ohio. He attended Covington Elementary School, Hayes Junior High School, and Rayen High School in that city. He served almost three years in the U. S. Navy after which he matriculated at the Ohio State University. While at Ohio State Dr. McCullough was a very outstanding student and exhibited high scholastic ability. In 1949, he earned the B.A. and B.S. degrees; being one of the few to earn two degrees at one commencement, also indicated his outstanding abilities. The following year at the same institution, he earned the M.A. degree. All of his college work is in English, except for a major in speech and the B.S. in Education. His doctoral study was done at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio; and the Ph.D. degree was awarded to him in September 1957. The subject of his dissertation is "The Morphology of John Bunyan, Including Observations on Syntax, Grammar, and Style With Special Reference to the 1611 King James Bible."

Dr. McCullough has had limitless experiences. He taught English at State Teachers College, Elizabeth City, North Carolina, for two years, and was chairman of the Division of Humanities at Lane College, Jackson, Tennessee, for three years. He also served as professor of English and Speech at Lane College for one year.

He has published two books, The Other Side of Hell and Letters On the Beach.

Dr. McCullough holds membership in many outstanding organizations, such as the National Council of Teachers of English, the Modern Language Association and other professional organizations. He is an honorary member of the International Mark Twain Society and several regional literary societies. He is also a member of Beta Sigma Tau Fraternity.

At present Dr. McCullough is professor of English and chairman of the Department of Languages and Literature at Savannah State College.

Since 1958, when he was appointed to this position, he has done much to enrich the lives of many. As previously stated, it is more than a pleasure to present this outstanding personality to you.

Strong Stars As SSC Tramples Paine College Lions, 30-6

Mercury-heeled John Strong ending 30-6 victory over winless Paine College before a Thanksgiving afternoon crowd of some 1,500 fans at the SSC athletic field.

Strong, a 180-pound senior right halfback, streaked 61 and five yards for the first half touchdowns that broke the backs of the invading Lions. He totaled 104 yards on 12 carries and added a two-point conversion to his day's work.

The victory completed the campaign of Coach Richard Washington's Tigers with a record of three victories, five defeats and a tie. Paine lost all seven of its battles.

Strong's sprinting, a 64 yard pass play from Harold Cleveland to Henry Saunders, and a trio of two-point conversions gave Savannah State a 24-0 halftime lead that was too much for the undermanned Lions.

Paine came back after the intermission and drove 65 yards to its touchdown, Charlie Pryor scoring from the six.

Then SSC bounced back, hammering 74 yards in six plays for the final score. Fullback Robert Leonard started the led the SSC Tigers to a season Paine College before a Thanksgiving afternoon crowd of some 1,500 fans at the SSC athletic field.

After a penalty, John Edwards dashed 34 yards to the two. Two plays later, Leonard plunged for the touchdown.

Strong shared starring honors with Leonard, freshman halfback Tommy Davis, and quarterback Cleveland. Leonard collected a pair of two-point conversions in addition to his touchdown, and totaled 70 yards in 10 carries.

Davis added 76 yards in seven trips. Cleveland completed three of four passes for 112 yards. Another fullback, John Edwards, picked up 48 yards in two runs.

SSC easily dominated the first half, netting 236 yards while holding the visitors from Augusta to two on the ground and 75 in the air. Paine added only 19 ground yards in the second half, totaling 21 for the day.

Losing three fumbles spoiled the Tiger's chances of piling up more points in the second half

SSC Cagers to Compete In New Orleans Tourney

✓According to Coach Ted Wright, SSC Cagers coach, the SSC cagers are to compete in the New Orleans tourney where the Crescent City Sports fans will witness three spectacular sporting events during the final week of December.

On December 26-27 at Xavier Gym in New Orleans, the 11th Annual Pelican State Basketball Classic will be staged with four Titans of the cage world participating: Savannah State, Fort Valley State, Southern and Grambling.

Grambling, the two-time Southwestern Conference Champion and the NAIA District VI-B Champions last season is paced by two NAIA All Americans, Red Tippitt and Charles Mardnet. Southern is sparked by a brilliant scoring tandem of Bond and Thomas. The Southern Jaguars have four of last season's five starters returning. Last season in the first round of the NAIA District VI-B Championships, Southern dumped Dillard from the competition and advanced to the finals, losing to Fred Hobdy's great Grambling giant. Fort Valley State of the SIAC is coached by James Hawkins, former Xavier coach and their starting five includes Eddie Andrews and Walter Wilson, two ex-Gold Rush and St. Augustine High players. Savannah State is the defending champion in District VI-A of the NAIA and coached by Ted Wright, who developed "Sweetwater" Clifton, Leroy "Red" Rhodes, James "Whimpy" Hall, "Blotto" Croder and the great "Ambassadors" while at Xavier. Savannah last season went to the NAIA Championships in Kansas City and lost to Southwest Texas, the eventual champion, after a hectic struggle. Last season Savannah State moved down Morris Brown and Florida A and M's zealous Rattlers. This year Savannah State has all five starters returning.

SSC Tigers Upset Clark College, 6-0

The SSC Tigers upset a powerful Clark College squad, 6-0, with the only score as a result of a blocked punt.

In the first quarter the Clark College Panthers penetrated deep into the Tiger's territory three times only to be stopped by a powerful Tiger defensive wall. The third time the Panthers penetrated into the Tiger's territory, the Panthers went for broke trying their powerful fullback, Curtis Cockett, on all four plays from scrimmage, and even then, their best power man was unable to gain anyone than one-half yard against the powerful Tiger goal line stance.

The second quarter saw the Tiger's daredevil end, Fred Carter, deflect a Panther punt, knocking it in the air where end William Robins caught the ball and raced some 17 yards to paydirt for the only score of the game.

The quarter ended in a fine display of defensive abilities and as the half ended, the score stood at 6-0 in SSC's favor.

In the third quarter both teams threatened deep in each others territory a number of times only to be stopped by each others defense. Also in the third quarter, the Panthers blocked a punt deep in the Tiger's territory only to lose the ball on a fumble recovered by Robert Leonard.

The fourth and final quarter also was a show of defensive power, with each team threatening at least once.

The outstanding performers for the Tigers were as follows: Fullback Robert Leonard, who only last week was hurt in the game between the Tigers and Alabama State College and was believed to be out for the rest of the season but after working on his ailments during the week was able to play and display his very fine defensive ability. Sharing the lead honors with Leonard was Fred Carter who also displayed his fine defensive ability.

Other outstanding players were Wendell McIntosh, Eddie "The Great" Bell, Tommy Davis, John Strong, Harold Cleveland, Elijah McGraw, and Johnny McHellen, and Bobby Dunbar.

During the half-time intermission the bands of Savannah State College and Clark College presented the greatest half-time performance put on by two colleges ever to be seen in this area. The Savannah State College Band is under the direction of Bandmaster Samuel Gill. The Bandmaster of the Clark College Band is Dr. Wayman Carver.

Winston-Salem had a height average of 6' 4" compared to SSC's 6' 2" average.

The Savannah State Tigers were paced by Ira Jackson and Willie Tate with 20 points. Redell Walton and Captain James Dixon pitched in scoring 14 and 10 respectively.

"HONORABLE DEAN WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT THIS BUSINESS OF YOUR SETTING UP YOUR OWN ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS."

Concert Presented For Jazz Fans

A crowd of approximately 200 modern jazz fans were entertained by the original piano stylings of Argo recording artist, Jack Wilson, and his trio at the jazz concert presented November 10, in Meldrim Auditorium by the Student Government Association of Savannah State College.

An added attraction of the evening was the crowning of Lottie Shellman as "Miss Jazz Festival" during the intermission. Lottie, a sophomore from McIntosh, won out over four other contestants in a money theme contest for the title. Other competing for the title were Elise Bryant, senior; Mildred Harrison, freshman, and Shirley Parris, junior, all of Savannah.

The concert opened with an original by Lindard, "The Preacher," made famous by Jimmie Smith. Other tunes played were "Shadows in Paradise," "I'll Never Stop Loving You," "Satin Doll," "Autumn Leaves," "Speak Low," "Blue in the Face," "Time."

"Passion Flower," "Cute," and many other jazz hits.

Appearing with the Jack Wilson Trio were Elbert Woods, on bass, and Bob Sumowski, on drums. Woods, a former Tennessee A & I student, has played with Wynon Kelley, pianist, and with Miles Davis. Sumowski is a former member of the Les Elgart band.

Wilson can be heard on Argo recording label with the Richard Evans Trio and on five LP's with Dinah Washington. He has made appearances at top night spots in Chicago, such as The Black Orchid.

Commenting on the size of the audience, Wilson stated "I'd rather play for a small group who appreciates modern jazz, than to a large audience that is noisy and distracting."

Immediately following the concert a reception was held in the College Center. "Miss Jazz Festival," Lottie Shellman, and the Wilson Trio formed a reception line to greet students who praised the concert highly.

Association of Women Students Hold Meeting on November 16th

Miss Lauree E. Davis, Dean of Women at Savannah State College, met with the college female population in a special assembly Wednesday, November 16, in Meldrim Auditorium, for the purpose of discussing the Association of Women Students.

Miss Davis explained that the Association of Women Students is a service group dedicated to cultivating an attitude toward preparing women to govern themselves throughout their college careers, and thereby increase their ability and desire to fulfill the role of educated and competent women in a democratic society to the highest degree of social, physical, intellectual, and spiritual achievement.

At the meeting a nominating committee was elected by the women students to nominate candidates for officers of the Association of Women Students. One representative from each class was selected for the committee. Nora Williams, Fresh-

All women of Savannah State College are members of the Association of Women Students. The governing body, however, consists of the elected officers, a representative from each class and one from each of the female organizations on the campus.

After the business portion of the meeting, some young ladies modeled some of the unbecoming fashions and Miss Davis discussed some interesting factors concerning dress on the campus and proper grooming.

In her discussion she stated that some of the campus fads are being taken to their extremes such as the short dresses, and the short and tight skirts. She reminded the young ladies that "The purpose of style is to sell goods, but before buying them one should know what style is best suited to her particular figure and personality."

Faculty-Staff Talent Show Presented

A record-breaking crowd packed Meldrim Auditorium Friday night, December 2, at 8:00 o'clock to attend one of the most spectacular programs of the season. The Faculty-Staff Talent Show, presented by Camilla Hubert Hall Dormitory Council, The Rockettes—a female faculty staff chorus line—thrilled the audience. The chorus line consisted of two numbers—"Country Garden" and "Winter Wonderland." If the thunderous ovation received by Joan Gordon and Albertina Boston is any indication of their appeal, it might be said that they were both very much in the "spotlight." Whether to the melodious strains of "Jazz," as sung by Dr. Gordon, or to the comical rendition of a symphony, as played by Miss Boston, everyone will readily agree that both performers captured the audience.

Martha Avery and Arthur Brentson were both captivating in a profound dramatic presentation of Paul Lawrence Dunbar's "In the Morning." No less enthralling was Geraldine Abernathy's very amusing interpretation of "Angelina Johnson," also by Paul Lawrence Dunbar.

More on the classical side may be attributed the renditions by Eloane Josey, William Bowens, and Madeline Harrison Dixon. Mr. Josey's electrifying performance of "Choral" and "Priore a Notre-Dame," taken from SUITE GOTTHIQUE by Leon Boellman.

Participants in the chorus line (The Rockettes) were Misses Albertina Boston, Althea Morton, Marcelle Rodriguez and Mercedes Ernestine Bertrand, Beatrice Hardwick, Emma Taylor, and Armiee Sanderson.

Cynthia Rhodes Attends Conference

Cynthia Rhodes, senior elementary education major of Savannah, attended the Southern Regional Planning meeting of the National Foundation for the March of Dimes Campaign, November 17 through 19, at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Approximately 200 voluntary workers, representing 18 states, attended the Conference at Tuskegee to map out plans for the "1961 March of Dimes Campaign."

Miss Rhodes was appointed chairman of the Chatham County Teen-Agers March of Dimes by Mrs. Theima Wright, adviser for the local Teen-Agers Against Polio organization.

Pre-Thanksgiving Services Held; Hardwick Speaker

Under the direction of Rev. A. E. Peacock, college minister, the pre-Thanksgiving Services were held at 10:00 a.m. in Meldrim Auditorium, Sunday, November 20, with Clifford Hardwick III, delivering the address.

Mr. Hardwick is a 1959 graduate of Savannah State. President of Beta Phi Lambda chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, and an instructor at Alfred E. Beach High School. He received his M.S. degree at the University of Pittsburgh and was awarded a National Science Fellowship last summer to study Radiation Biology at Howard University, Washington, D. C.

An added attraction was the choral society's rendition of "Psalm 150" by Cesar Franck and "A City Called Heaven," arranged by Colledge A. Braithwaite, which featured Lawrence Wilson, '64, tenor. The choral society is under the direction of Dr. Braithwaite, James Thompson, Jr., instructor in Fine Arts, accompanied at the organ.

The public was invited to attend the services. Among the organizations present in a body were the Shriners, Masons, Eastern Stars, Daughters of Isis, Elks, American Legionnaires, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, the Alphabettes, the 1960 Debutantes and others.

However, many of the favorite classics are now available for use in the library. Works by Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Debussy, Haydn, and Mozart are included in the collection, and for the approaching Yule tide season, the library's music room offers excerpts from Handel's Messiah.

Library Opens Music Room

The Savannah State College Library Staff, as part of its observance of National Book Week (November 13-19), announced the official opening of the library music room for listening purposes.

The music room features a combination high-fidelity record player and tape recording machine. The machine is so equipped that individuals or a group may listen to recorded music. The player has individual earphones, which make it possible for one to listen without disturbing the other occupants of the room. Instructions for operating the machine will be given by members of the library

Winter Quarter Enrollment Gains Over Last Year

Tradition wise, the Winter Quarter attendance decreases considerably due to the departure of many of the Fall Quarter students, but it is a different situation this time. Mr. Ben Ingersoll, college Registrar, proudly announces:

"In comparing the Fall Quarter total of 1,076 students, one should be proud because of the small number of dropouts in comparison with other years." However, Mr. Ingersoll warns that there is still room for improvement.

Statistics show, also, that the Winter Quarter, one year ago, yielded only 912 students (555 women and 357 men) to compare with this year's overwhelming Winter Quarter total of 1,076 students (624 women and 452 men).

This is a sign of progress, and the Savannah State College Family is happy to know that it is growing.

Art Instructor's Paintings Are Published in Book

The paintings and drawings of Phillip J. Hampton, assistant professor of fine arts at Savannah State College, provide in part a contribution to the latest literary work of Cedric Dover of Brentford, Middlesex, England. This very recent publication is entitled, American Negro Art. American Negro Art is profusely illustrated with the works of Negro artists from various eras of this nation's history. It is immediately evident that the author has been very effective in communicating to the world the significant contribution of Negro artists. It is expected that American Negro Art will satisfy the hunger of those who might have suspected that the Negro artist is more than an obscure contributor to the culture of America, hence providing a more complete appreciation of the profundity of art.

President W. K. Payne Delivers Initial Vesper Address of 1961

Sees Need of Improvement in Education, Culture, Family Life and General Living Habits

"We face a new year with new problems, new ideas, and new situations," said Dr. W. K. Payne, president of Savannah State College, as he made his initial vesper address on January 8, at 6 p.m. He spoke on the topic, "A LOOK TOWARD THE NEW YEAR."

Dr. Payne emphasized the great need of improvement in family life, education, culture, and general habits of living. He stated, "today we are expecting the coming forces to bring a solution to the problems of our present world. Our main concern is, how we can develop people to live in the universe which we have created through modern technology."

"We, as students of today, should take on a new role of conquering the problems in language, civilization and diplomacy that confronts us in the new year," he said.

The famed speaker closed his address by urging the Savannah State College Family to look through crystal clear glasses and face reality.

What Factors Develop Maturity and Responsibility in College Students?

On every college campus, one finds students who vary considerably in the degree of maturity and the exercise of responsibility. These variations exist among students of the senior college level as well as among those on the junior level. Many factors contribute to the formation and development of these characteristics. Certainly early schooling in the elementary and secondary periods contributes to the development of these characteristics. One of the phases of schooling, however, the influence of the home environment, and particularly the role of the parents in the development of the child, is expected to be expected that these characteristics will be developed at a more rapid rate as changes take place in our country.

The active participation of youth in the running of our local, state, and national affairs requires that these characteristics be developed. The critical role in educational programs. Maturity and responsibility do not develop and grow like subject matter in one of the organized disciplines. They are more likely to flourish in the participation of an situation which provides students with opportunities to develop them. In some colleges, one finds students who are able to make mature judgments, assume leadership responsibilities, and act on a high level of self-direction.

One of the other forms of effective education, effort must be made to develop these characteristics. In general students who are able to develop these characteristics are more likely to be successful in their studies. To utilize this atmosphere and environment, we must plan effectively to do more of the things that will develop self-direction and maturity.

If the goal and main objectives of the college are to be realized, these students of students must plan to become self-directive, responsible, and capable of assuming responsibility. This statement assumes that students have accepted the understanding that they must educate themselves rather than rely upon their teachers for the entire educational situation. For improvement, willingness to assume responsibility and group responsibility, and the ability to make decisions, stand alone on the basis of facts, and the ability to express and substantiate one's point of view represent the activities which contribute to the development of these characteristics. Effective results can be achieved in the development of these characteristics if maturity and responsibility are present in these areas.

Signed W K Payne, President

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL

Dear Fellow Students:

The winter quarter begins, it is my sincere hope that it will be a very agreeable one for each of you. I would also like to extend a word of welcome to those new students who entered Savannah State College for the first time this quarter. Sincere congratulations to you on becoming members of the college family, and an open invitation awaits each of you to come in and participate with your student government at any time.

The first winter quarter meeting of the Student Council was held on January 11, at 7:00 p.m., in the faculty lounge of the Technical Science Building. Every member of the council was present, and a very interesting business session was held. Many projects are being undertaken by the council and because of this we are in direct need of fellow students to come in and offer their services. Immediate attention must be given to our chapel program which will be presented during Religious Emphasis Week. Any persons interested in working with the council in this undertaking should see either Mr. Eleanor Johnson or Norman B. Elmore.

Although representatives to the council are officially sent from each class, we are very anxious to have anyone who desires to do so, come into our meeting and bring grievances, problems, comments, or perhaps just to visit. Whatever your reason may be, please feel free to come at any time.

Many, many thanks to those of you who are actively supporting your council. Please continue to do so and try to persuade others to do the same as you have and are doing. The following is a letter to our fabulous basketball team upon their return from New Orleans. We can truly be proud of our team and show our loyalty and support by 100 per cent attendance at all of the home games.

GEORGIA INTEGRATION CRISIS

Students at the University of Georgia should extend a welcome hand to the two Negroes who have broken the segregation barrier at the University. This statement was made by Mr. Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution. Mr. McGill continued "that an act such as this would shut the mouths of slander in Moscow, in Peking, in Cuba, and in all the centers where the Ugly Southerners have been of so much assistance to the communistic attack on American principles." He went on to say that students at the university have a God-sent opportunity to do a service for the South which we all live. Destiny has even then an opportunity to erase the picture of the Ugly Southerner so starkly and disturbingly shown to the nation and to the world at Little Rock and New Orleans.

Mr. McGill's statements were made in reference to a federal judge ruling that the all-white University of Georgia must let down its segregation barriers and admit two Negro applicants Federal Judge, W. A. Battle, in handing down the decision, said the two Negro applicants, Charles Hunter and Hamilton E. Holmes, both of Atlanta, are fully qualified for admission to the state university and would have been admitted except for their race.

IS AMERICA STRONG OR WEAK?

It is this for all Americans to realize that the day of inevitability is here. Trying to delay the progress of any segment of our society is, in itself, a blow to the progress that our great country has made. America cannot be strong in one section and weak in another. We, as Americans, are at the threshold of a very important decision—whether or not we want to retain our leadership of world power and only if we do. Being the leaders in industry and in respectability. The decision is ours, and only we can make it. To do so, it will take the cooperation of every single, wonderful, mindful American existing in this great land. I know my decision, —what is yours?

UNVEILS MURAL: Mr. Philip Hampton, SSC's art instructor unveils mural he painted in the Home Economics building.

Art Instructor's Paintings Published

A gouache painting entitled, "Young Girls of Savannah" on the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gwinn, shows a scene taken from the railroad trestle at Gwynnett Street, Savannah.

This painting was produced in finely handled forms of greens, yellow and vermilion. At the time the artist was making the initial sketch, two young girls walked by. There was little alternative but to enhance the composition further with the spontaneity of young girls. The finished work could have had no other name. This was a prize winning painting in an Atlanta exhibit a few years ago.

On the front page of "The Muralist" section, Hampton's rationale for a mural is used as a decorative introduction to this section. The sketch shown was a preparatory drawing for the mural which now hangs in the Home Economics Building on the campus.

Another work is "The Harbinger," a five foot oil painting which was developed over a two year period. "The Harbinger" presents an expressive approach and is done in warm colors, yellows and white with accents of blue. To the artist this painting seems to impart a feeling of warmth and vibrating serenity.

The figure in this painting is a girl with a bird and a cat. The artist is reluctant to make verbal descriptions of his work, for it is felt that art is a form of universal communication which says many things at any time to as many individuals. Hence, what a work reveals to one need not communicate the same message to another. The viewer therefore, being the interpreter, must make efforts to absorb for himself, if he can, the message that words could never convey. For the artist believes that all things have their limitations where words leave off visual art begins.

New Equipment Aids Training in Business

At the beginning of the winter quarter the Division of Business installed new clerical equipment to increase efficiency. The Division has long been known to turn out top students. Approximately 87 per cent of SSC's clerical staff is composed of business majors from the college. For this reason and several others that can be cited, the department made modern equipment to produce better trained business students.

H. E. Anderson, chairman of the division, commenting stated, "today's education is a modern education, made so by modern equipment." The new equipment will be used to aid the students in type writing, bookkeeping and office machine course.

There is still an urgent need for additional machines, in the Division, but until this action is taken, the educational process moves forward.

Life

By Charles H. Lee
Life is but a passing flower.
Controlled supreme by his great power.

It grows and soars in all its splendor,
Measured truly by deeds it renders.

It reigns in all the climes and
In wind and rain or freezing sleet.

It prints on the pages of time,
To the tune of war, women, and wine.

Count the minutes of each day
You love,
And the things truly to life you gave.

For it is like the burning candle,
And soon turns to ashes over your mantle.

AKA's Present Assembly Program

Gamma Upsilon chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority presented its annual All-College assembly program on Thursday, January 12.

"Go Down Death" was done with speakers, a verse choir, and a chorus. The speakers were Bessie Samuels, Henrietta Meeks, and Virginia A. Mercer. All sorors composed the choir and chorus. Throughout the presentation various Negro spirituals were sung. The sorors composed the chorus for the spirituals.

How to Understand Women

How can men avoid entangling alliances with the fairer sex? This has been the 64-dollar question since the creation of man.

In our modern society today, the ever changing, unexplainable, puzzling, motive of a woman cannot successfully be figured out. The solving of this problem has been attempted by some of the greatest men of the world.

The poet Olway wrote, "O woman! lovely woman! Nature made thee to temper man; we had been brutes without you. Angels are paired fit, to look like you; there is in you all that we believe of heaven—amazing brightness, purity, and truth eternal joy, and everlasting love."

There are many others like Olway who have tried to explain, "How to Understand Women."

Gib Supple, Ad Director of Shulton, has compiled clues to making a smash hit with Her ... and Her ... and Her.

I know what to say. Most women resent the condescending "little woman" appellation. If you compliment her on her knowledge of batting averages or the international situation, don't sound as if it's a miracle that she knows these things. Virtually every woman likes to be proud of her man's intellect, so profit from the example of a gent who was famous for being among other things—his ability to converse on any topic. His name Giovanni Giacomo Casanova.

Gladys Lambert

Campus Spotlight, a regular feature of THE TIGER'S ROAR, pays tribute to distinguished students who through their scholarship, service, loyalty and attitudes have merited this tribute.

In this edition the Spotlight salutes one senior and one junior — Gladys Lambert and Richard Mondell Coger.

Nert and petti, Gladys is a native Savannahian and a graduate of Alfred E. Beach High School of this city.

Gladys, a 1960-61 "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" honoree, was the 1960 recipient of the "Mantle of Athena" (mantle given to the woman in the junior class with the highest scholastic average).

She is currently a senior, majoring in social science and minoring in English, and is affiliated with several campus activities. Among them are the Student National Education Association, the Social Science Club (reporter), the Committee on General Education, Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society (treasurer), and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority (financial secretary).

She is a typical young lady who stands out among other women. Intelligent, soft-spoken, and friendly, she makes people feel content being around her.

Like most well-rounded persons, she enjoys hobbies. Currently her hobbies include collecting classical records, playing badminton, and reading.

Her "net peevs" and philosophy are similar. She dislikes hearing people make time-consuming statements and she believes that "the wise man thinks before speaking."

Gladys is a senior majoring in social science, with the ambition to go on to graduate school and becoming a social worker.

"Knowing thyself," says Richard Coger, "is the key to success."

It means that each individual should be aware of his own limitations.

Richard, a 1958 graduate of Jasper High School of Ridgeland, south Carolina, can be described with the following three "Cs": cooperative, competent, and courteous. He is always willing to give a helping hand, offer far beyond the line of duty, and is highly efficient in his work.

Coger, the highest ranking industrial education major at the college, proves the fact that "extra-curricular activities and scholarship go together." In his two years stay at this institution, he has participated extensively in campus activities.

Presently he is active in the Crescent Club of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity (president), the Committee on Student Activities, Technical Science Club, Business Club, Student National Education Association, and the Interest Group of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society. In addition, although he is not a member of the Student Government Association, he has attended every meeting of the Association since last September, and has diligently worked with the group in all of its activities.

Coger enjoys writing poetry, going to the movies, and participating in fencing matches. This past summer, on a chapel program presented by the Physical Education Department, he displayed his fencing ability by defeating his opponent in a fencing match.

After graduating he plans to attend graduate school. His ambition is to become a manager of a construction company.

FASHIONS FOR THE NEW YEAR

By Eddie W. Bryant, Jr.

The new sheep skin coat that will be seen this year will be the luxurious peltskin coat with the shawl collar, wool lining, black toggle buttons, and pocket and sleeve tabs. Also new is the reversible all weather outercoat. It has thick wale corduroy on one side and a warm, bright will blanket plaid on the other. If worn on the corduroy side, the plaid shows up at the shawl collar.

For many, it will be the compact coat. We can't promise that it will solve your parking problems—but, this shorter, swaggy coat offers uncompromising design and tailoring in the silhouette line.

For the changing man, watch for the increasing line of styles from London: like the grey and brown checked topcoat, with classic raglan-sleeves, bicolour, slash vents, and center vent, or the glen-plaid English worsted suit with slightly wail-up shoulders and deep side vents. The sleeves are set-in in front and raglan in back. This coat also has bicolour, flapped chest pocket, and olive wool linings.

The popularity of olive-tone suits has inspired consumers to desire a new shoe color, Burnished Olive—A plain toe, with perforations at the border of the vamp, or a moccasin design, not quite as high, with a strapover instep and elastic side vents.

Club and Campus men who continue to like the easy, unaffected look of traditional country coats should have a good idea about the cut of their clothes. The shoulders must be natural, the waist unexpressed, and the jacket falling in straight hanging lines. The Villageur, a newly designed type of outer coat, that will be seen on campus this year. It has removable hood and woven togas, and Continental knee length styling, in colors of brown, olive gray and black.

"No Radical Changes Due in Silhouette or Hem Length"

By Geraldine Lindsey

If this year turns out to be a fashion shocker, no one will be more surprised than the men and women who manufacture, buy and sell women's clothes.

One reason why women's fashions will continue to move in the same direction they took in 1960 is because of the business outlook. Until the economists and the new administration decide which way the American economy is going, the people who earn their bread and butter from selling women's clothes are tempted to be cautious. Business is neither good enough nor bad enough to justify a radical change of silhouette.

Based on a conviction that this year will represent evolution from its immediate past, here are some educated guesses about fashion for this year:

No startling silhouettes. Just a continuation of styles that are shaped simply and conservatively, creeping slightly closer to the body yet still maintaining a wide distance from the plastered long Advance runner from Paris for Spring is the bias cut—just another version of this fitted look.

The color both continues stimulating women to the highest standards of individuality and discretion. The timid soul who ventures into a pink suit for the first time will then dare to contrast it with a turquoise or grass green hat. Navy blue stockings may be the companion to a white dress.

Pieces of clothes will stay up and say will hemlines. Hairdressers will go on bobbing hair. This year's short haircuts will continue to be puffy but it will be more romantic, with waves and curls added.

The skirt will make a comeback as women tire of pants. Long skirts will claim the affection of trousered hostesses. But the culotte — a hybrid that draws a conservative to daring—will endure as a classic.

Anything suit manufacturers will push modesty with covered up styles, but women who have attempted the Bikini will remain loyal to bared midriff.

Dreams

By Charles H Lee

You are like the night mist, Stealing by my heart on the feet of fog

To caress me and fill me with joy.

While heavenly dreams surround my soul.

Your kiss is like embers in a forest dry

That threaten to engulf me in fiery passion.

The world is mine at this immortal moment.

But, alas I awake, and you are gone.

Reveille

By Charles H Lee

Let not your heart enclose an empty void,

Nor let it rattle like the summer
sun's gourd;

But keep it flowing with the good things of life,

Till it sings a song like the piper's life.

Awake to a new day; awake with
And add noteworthy thoughts to your mental file.

Greet the rising of the most nourishing sun;

And wait of your day's work is already done.

DR. W. K. PAYNE
President, Savannah State College, is Honorary Director.

President's Message

The importance of the Press in modern life and the future of our goals and ideals should always be kept in the forefront of our planning and thinking. The number of Americans unable to read and write diminishes each day while the number of potential readers increases at a more rapid rate. It is to be expected that the materials for the readers would be improved in quality and variety. The people who do the writing will need to be able to express and report accurately the ideas to be conveyed. It is through education and training that writers for newspapers, journals, and periodicals develop the proficiency required for a growing society. In every school, some individuals should be encouraged and trained to develop their ability to express themselves through writing. Some will need to be able to interpret, to compare, and evaluate as well as report news and information.

It is expected that the Annual Press Institute sponsored by Savannah State College will provide some leadership, direction, and inspiration for the growth of this area. The youth in our schools need the contacts and the experiences which are shared during such a meeting. The experiences should prove valuable to all participants. Many who participate may not make careers in this area, but the ability to profit by the experiences will be of a decided advantage in whatever area they pursue careers. There is an ever increasing demand for writers and reporters who have special training in the scientific and technological fields.

Dr. Wm. K. Payne

Proofreading the News

Proofreading is a two-man job. It consists of one person reading along the original copy while the other corrects the proofs. The purpose of this is to see that the galley proof follows the original typewritten story. The person who proof-reads can correct misspelled words, incorrect English and other such blunders that have been overlooked.

Securing Advertisements

The number of advertisements that a staff secures for a paper is largely determined by the procedures used in soliciting ads. Before beginning to solicit some preparation should be made. This includes listing definite prospects, having in mind the size and the space they could really take; and also having a complete knowledge of the rates and provisions of your advertisements.

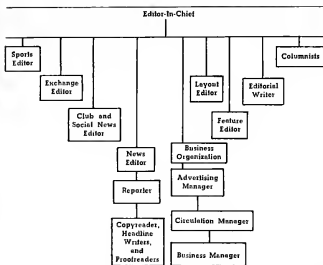

Being a member of a school newspaper staff gives one an opportunity to broaden his scope of knowledge. Such activities as these place emphasis on scholarship, leadership, and citizenship. In addition, they increase one's desire and appreciation of cultural living.

Suggestions for Operating a School Newspaper

Very few people realize that a great deal of hard work and time is required to publish a school newspaper. Most of them think that all the staff does is write the news stories and other articles for the paper and the printer does the rest. They are not aware of the work that has to be done by a large or small number of students along with assistance from advisors in order to publish a school paper.

The first step toward publishing a paper is to organize a staff. The following is a typical school newspaper staff organization:

Staff Organization

The person who heads the staff is called the editor-in-chief. His duties include getting the paper out on time and supervising each step of the production, from gathering and writing the news to reading the final proofs.

The editor-in-chief should possess five main qualities according to Walter Rine, author of Editing Small Newspapers. They are as follows:

1. He should have leadership ability; if he possesses leadership, his attitude toward policies and principles should be of the highest standards.
2. He must have tact; that is, know how to deal with people in general.
3. He should be an able executive; if he possesses this quality, he will organize his staff in order that the work will be adequately planned and distributed.
4. He should know his job. This includes knowing his responsibilities and duties.
5. He should have high moral standards; if he is going to interpret to the public what is good and desirable he must be a worthy person himself.

After selecting the editor-in-chief the next step is to select an editorial staff. The job of this staff is to select and arrange the contents of the paper. Before organizing this staff the capacity of each member should be considered, so that they will be placed in the best positions according to their capacities.

The business staff plays a role just as important as the editorial staff, because it controls the finance and other business matters. The business staff makes contacts with the printing company, sets up the advertising rates, and solicits advertisements and subscriptions.

The advisor or advisors are usually selected by the principal or the president of the school. They are the persons who have authority over the editor-in-chief. They are usually the last persons to check the material before it is sent to the printer. They also attend staff meetings.

Obtaining News for the Paper

Often the staff has the problem of getting enough news for the paper. If the editor wants to be sure of having enough news for the paper, then he should make out an assignment sheet. This sheet will have the names of the staff members, the articles and stories for them to write, and the deadline on which they are due. The editor should post this sheet so that the staff members will be aware of their assignments.

News stories are very important part of the paper. They tell what is happening in the school, community, and city. The news story should open with the most important facts being stated first and the less important following them. This is done so that the lead paragraph (or in some cases two or three paragraphs) could stand alone as a complete story if the following paragraphs had to be cut.

The feature story also plays an important part in filling out the pages of the school newspaper. There are countless feature stories on every school campus just waiting to be written. They are often the most difficult types of news to prepare, however, they are also the kind most likely to be remembered.

Original jokes and poems often attract readers to a paper. For this reason, the staff should try to secure them for publication in every edition of the paper. They may be secured from students who attend the school or from outside sources.

Obtaining Suitable Photographs

There are several things to keep in mind when selecting photographs for a newspaper. One thing is to make sure that the picture tells a story. Good pictures usually tell a story and therefore, they are easy to caption.

Another thing to consider is the composition of the picture. Make sure that the persons and objects are arranged attractively and try to avoid distracting effects in the background. Usually "action pictures" or pictures with some type of motion attract attention quickly.

Planning the Make-Up

The physical make-up of the paper contributes a great deal to its success. In making up the paper attention is given first to the Consultant.

Functions of the School Paper

Probably the primary function of the school paper is to serve as the eye of the reader: to reflect the activities of the school. Three requirements are essential in the carrying out of this purpose: (1) the news coverage must be adequate. (2) News evaluation must be fair and impartial. (3) The news must be told interestingly.

The high school paper is an instrument of education. It affords a training ground for students interested in newspaper work. It encourages creative writing on the part of students who wish to do this kind of work. It educates the average student in the resources of his school and in its needs. The school paper educates the fathers and mothers of the community by informing them of the school system and its operation. The school paper should be exact in maintaining a high standard of correctness in grammar, punctuation, and principles of expression.

Playing Up a "W"

Writer Describes Method of Writing The Lead Paragraph for a News Story

By Louise B. Jones

Of the 5 W's, one is frequently of much more importance than the others. This element should be placed "first" in the lead sentence; that is to say, it should be played up or "featured." The following examples show how one W can be featured:

The "Who" Lead. If the "who" is a person (place or thing) well known, it is usually the feature of the lead. The name alone attracts attention. Unless one of the other elements is particularly outstanding the "big name" comes first.

Example Cited

"John T. King, president of King Furniture Store, was critically injured in an automobile accident at Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue this morning."

The "What" Lead. Concerning a person of less importance, a similar lead might appear as follows:

"A head-on automobile collision at Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue sent Elmer Davis, truck driver of Southern Coal Company, to General Hospital this morning."

Where' Lead

The "Where" Lead. Sometimes the "where" is significant enough to overshoot all other W's.

"The dangerous intersection of Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue was the scene of another collision this morning when Elmer Davis, truck driver of Southern Coal Company, was critically injured in an automobile accident there."

The "When" Lead. Rarely is the time of an event the most interesting feature. However, circumstances may make it significant. For instance:

"Just 15 minutes after police had erected a 'danger' sign at Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue, Elmer Davis, a truck driver of Southern Coal Company, was critically injured in an automobile accident at the intersection."

Noble or Cause

The "Why" Lead. The motive or cause of an event frequently is the most important feature. Failure to discover the "why" may lose an interesting lead feature.

"Haste to get to the bedside of his dying mother this morning sent Elmer Davis, truck driver of Southern Coal Company, to General Hospital critically injured. His sedan crashed into a parked car at Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue."

The "How" Lead. The "How" also is a potential leading feature which is sometimes overlooked by beginning reporters.

"Thrown through the windshield when his sedan crashed into a parked automobile, Elmer Davis, truck driver of Southern Coal Company, was critically injured this morning at Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue. These examples play up (by placing first) the various features which an automobile accident might reveal. Rarely would more than one of the elements be worth featuring in a story of a single accident. The reporter's choice is usually therefore, determined by the material itself. One feature usually "sells out" its importance and demands first place in the lead.

Avoid Crowding

CROWDING THE LEAD. If, in the simple one-incident story, two or more W's seem equally interesting, the reporter must choose arbitrarily between them. Awkward leads usually result from the attempt to feature more than one W.

Speeding to the bedside of his dying mother, Elmer Davis, Southern Coal Company employee, was thrown through the windshield and critically injured when his sedan crashed into a parked automobile at the dangerous intersection of Fourth Street and Flowers Avenue just 15 minutes after police had erected a danger sign.

Even if a simpler combination were more successful, it would not really play up (in the sense of placing first) more than the one W. In the simple news story it is usually better to play up only one W in the lead sentence. Other W's can then be amply expanded later in the lead paragraph or be given ample emphasis in the body of the story.

Associate Editor, is Discussant.

"... The first duty of the press is to obtain the earliest and most correct intelligence of the events of the time, and instantly by disclosing them, to make them the common property of the nation. The Press lives by disclosures. . . .

The duty of the journalist is the same as that of the historian—to seek out truth, above all things, and to present to his readers not such things as statcraft would wish them to know, but the truth as near as he can attain it."

John Thaddeus Delane, editor, The Times of London, 1841-1877.

The Journalist's Creed

By Walter Williams

I believe in the profession of journalism.

I believe that the public journal is a public trust; that all connected with it are, to the full measure of their responsibility, trustees for the public; that acceptance of lesser service than the public service is betrayal of this trust.

I believe that clear thinking and clear statement, accuracy and fairness, are fundamental to good journalism.

I believe that a journalist should write only what he holds in his heart to be true.

I believe that suppression of the news, for any consideration other than the welfare of society, is indelensible.

I believe that no one should write as a journalist what he would not say as a gentleman; that bribery by one's own pocketbook is as much to be avoided as bribery by the pocketbook of another; that individual responsibility may not be escaped by pleading another's instructions or another's dividends.

I believe that advertising, news and editorial columns should alike serve the best interests of readers; that a single standard of helpful truth and clearness should prevail for all; that the supreme test of good journalism is the measure of its public service.

I believe that the journalism which succeeds best—and best deserves success—fears God and honors man: is stoutly independent, unmoved by pride of opinion or greed of power, constructive, tolerant but never careless, self-controlled, patient, always respectful of its readers but always unafraid; is quickly indignant at injustice; is unwayed by the appeal of privilege or the clamor of the mob; seeks to give every man a chance, and, as far as law and honest wage and recognition of human brotherhood can make it so, an equal chance; is profoundly patriotic while sincerely promoting international good will and cementing world-comradeship; is a journalism of humanity, of and for today's world.

Importance of the College Newspaper

By James C. Matthews

The college newspaper plays a important role in college life. You may not know it, but colleges are represented to the outside world by student publications. The College newspaper does not only represent the college in the outside world, but it also serves as an outlet for informing students of the activities that have taken place on and off campus which concern them.

The college newspaper is an instrument of mass communication on campus. It is a publication by which the students may speak or voice their conceptions through editorials. It features stories, poems, etc. This also raises the question of freedom of the student publication versus control. The college newspaper represents the students and gives them a chance to debate and test experimental thoughts, emotions, and beliefs. A free college newspaper gives self-expression of the outstanding moments on campus. It has many motives of expression and is as multifarious as human emotion.

The college newspaper does not only have a local campus value, but a professional value also. For many colleges are judged by their student publications. So from these conceptions it can be concluded that a college newspaper holds the major spotlight of student expression in college life.

Footsteps

By Charles Lee '61

Shuffling along he treads there. Lost in despair and mortal fear. A wanderlust of frightful horror, Dreading each new tomorrow.

Church bells may peal loud and bold.

His soul remains damp and cold. He has resigned himself to the living dead.

And nature his epitaph has read. Where he is going he doesn't know.

Life is truly his dreadful foe. And beneath a tree he would slowly pass.

While nature chants a requiem mass.

Editor's Note: This poem was published in the 1961 American College Poetry Anthology.

Tigers Win Second Straight District Play-off; Lose In K.C.

Savannah, Ga.—Savannah State won a bitterly-contested NAIA District 6-A Playoff Saturday night in defeating Benedict College, 94-37 in the Morehouse College Physical Education and Health Building.

It was the second straight triumph for the Tigers, who won the inaugural playoff defeating Morris Brown College, 76-71.

The second triumph of the Tigers was a majestic one. Savannah State held command of the game from start and surrendered the lead to the SEAC tournament champions.

Savannah State and Benedict were deadlocked at 41-41 at halftime but the Ocracoiners refused to give ground and pulled ahead to stay.

Redell Walton, the gilt edge SEAC pointmaker, took scoring honors with 36 points. His closest challenger was Benedict's Timothy Shinn who bucked 23.

Redell Walton, Ira Jackson, Stephen Kelly, Walter Simon and Walter Simpson were named on the All-NAIA District 6-A playoff team.

Morris Brown perfected a freeze to chew up the biggest portion of the final three minutes of the fourth quarter of the NAIA consolation game, and went on to overcome Clark College, 71 to 63.

Clark pressed the Wolverines for command of the game, but failed to come up with the lead, the Panther offensive did knot the count at 51 all with 10 minutes left to play, but Irvin Ross pushed in 25 markers to quickly send the M.B.C. five out front 59-51 for a commanding lead that the Clarkites could not overcome.

Editor Ross blitzed the Panthers with a 24-point barrage to take high point honors for the victors. Teammate Wilbert Smith took runnerup honors with 15 points.

Charles Smith was high scorer for the losing Panthers with 19 points. Henry (Moon) Clark amassed 16 points in a losing cause. Walter Simpson collected 12 points through the hoops.

Joe Carter, the lanky center, was credited with 10 points.

Monday, March 19 the parents and students of S. C. Johnson showed open rebellion against the Chatham County Board of Education's action on Mr. Cheatham's dismissal, by picketing the downtown office. Signs were carried saying: "Free Our Teachers," "Mac Unfair," "We Want Cheatham." These persons were arrested by Savannah policemen and rushed to the local jail.

One student commenting on the student body's response to Mr. Cheatham as a Principal said, "We like Mr. Cheatham and respect him. I can't see any reason why his contract was not renewed. Our school does not have any glow lights or the such as other schools in Savannah have. Under Mr. Cheatham's principality our school has developed a band, choral group, a good athletic program which includes football, basketball, track and baseball and many other activities."

Citizen Blasts Paper's Policies

Editor, Morning News:

Reading in the column "Extra Points" in Wednesday, March 8th edition, I share the disappointment with Mr. Ellis concerning the unnamed Tigers, referring of course to the Savannah State College basketball team. However, I am still wondering whether the press gave this great team the coverage that they really deserve.

Of course, you might say that they were given "adequate" press coverage, but in comparison with the "exploded" coverage given to the local white high school sport programs, I am convinced that your paper is as much to blame as anybody else for a team of this caliber to be unnamed among small college teams. Do you remember the little Savannah girl who was a member of the Gold Medal U. S. Relay Team in the Olympics? The chances are, you will have to do some "research" just to learn her name.

Meanwhile, back to the Savannah State Tigers—this is the best team in the state of Georgia, including Roger Kaiser (our great All American), and his Georgia Tech mates.

nationally famous soprano, Leontyne Price. He received the A.B. degree from Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., where he was a recipient of grant-in-aid from the Phelps-Stokes Foundation for two consecutive years. He was granted a Master of Science degree in Education from Indiana University.

Dr. Mercer served as an elementary school teacher and a supervising teacher of student teaching in the Powell Laboratory School, Savannah State College. After completing a planned program in the supervision of student teaching at Atlanta University during the summer of 1952 and 1953, he became a certified supervising teacher of student teaching. In 1955 he was appointed instructor and co-college supervisor of student teaching, Department of Education, Savannah State College.

In 1958 he was appointed director of student teaching, Savannah State College, his present position. He was a recipient of a Danforth Foundation Special Graduate Fellowship for the year 1959-1960.

He holds professional membership in the National Education Association, Georgia Teachers and Education Association, Association for Student Teaching, and the Association for Higher Education.

Matches and Smoking Leading Fire Cause

This is Spring Clean-Up Time, and many families are busily engaged in sprucing up their homes.

Throwing out accumulations of old newspapers and trash is a vital part of the Clean-Up job, because it reduces fire hazards.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests that fire safety be made a year-round job. Around one-fourth of all fires are caused by matches and smoking. The National Board said. Another 20.4 per cent are due to misuse of electrical equipment.

Three-fourths of all fires are the result of carelessness and forgetfulness. They could have been prevented.

MY KIND OF DEMOCRACY

By William Hagins

Is the U. S. Behind Russia in World Leadership?

For a long period of time people of the Western world have been trying to calculate our resources, and resources of our infrequent enemies. This calculation is usually in terms of atomic power, military leadership and manpower.

It has been said that the United States is behind Russia and her allies in the struggle for leadership control. In America we have a system that is called "freedom," and this is a system that Russia cannot touch. Freedom means to most Americans, the act of governing one's self. That is the prime idea of a free nation. We are free in America to criticize, to deduct, experiment, and to think creatively as well as express natural heritage, "Freedom of Speech."

The system of communism does not tolerate the high ideals and principles of the people of the Western world. It is because Communists are prisoners of their own system, because they cannot adjust their complexities and behaviors to realism, for they recognize those realities that fit into their life processes.

Ours is a different sort of philosophy; it is different because we are free and we can criticize. Our historians are able and free to follow the truths and our leaders can follow the wills of the people and the will of God.

Here in America, we are trying to convey our true rights which our forefathers have fought so nobly and laboriously for. In this strive, the minority must be given the chance to show to the world that the fate of their lives rest upon the same Omnipotent God that they serve.

Freedom Must Overpower Discrimination in America

Americans must find a true democracy and not a semi-democracy. A true democracy, the government, rest in the hands of everyone and not in a ruling class.

This is the necessity of freedom, if freedom cannot prevail within these United States, then our allies, man will never discover the peace of mind that is inevitably his dream. Seeing that the United States is the prime factor of the Western world, it rest upon her to determine the fate of her immediate surroundings and all that she tries to influence. Therefore such practices as discrimination as such must be ceased in America.

SCAT Tests Administered

New ability tests to aid in prediction of success and guidance of college upperclassmen were given to randomly selected seniors at Savannah State College this week in a standardization program preliminary to publication of the tests.

Some 1,600 seniors in 48 colleges throughout the country participated in the program designed to determine typical scores for the upper level of the School and College Ability Tests (SCAT). The series now includes ability tests suitable for use only through the college sophomore year.

Test scores obtained from the sampling of college seniors will be used to construct comparison guides and other materials which will be published with the new level tests to permit proper interpretation of test scores. Similar samplings of college juniors will be made in the fall of 1961.

The new upper level tests are designed to provide information helpful in predicting academic performance in the college junior and senior years, in determining qualifications of junior college students applying for admission to four-year colleges, and in guiding students toward post-college goals.

The tests, which are scheduled for publication in approximately two years, follow the same content pattern as the present five levels, measuring verbal and quantitative skills.

Miss L. Davis administers the new tests, Savannah State College participated in a similar program for the college freshman and sophomore level of the test series in 1956 and 1958.

String Section Makes Debut at Band Concert

Recognized throughout the State as one of the most outstanding college bands, the Savannah State College Band, under the direction of Samuel A. Gill, presented a concert Sunday, March 12, at 6 p.m. in Melldrum Auditorium.

The concert featured many of Broadway's top musical selections as well as classical and many other popular tunes. The program included "Seventy-six Trombones," Meredith Wilson; "Manhattan Tower Overture," Glenn Miller; "Back to Back to Sorensen," Ernesto De Curtis; "Begin the Beguine," Cole Porter; "Deep River Suite," Frank Erickson; "Poet and Peasant Over-tune," Elmore Lo Duca; "Maigand," Rimsky-Korsakov; "Jesse Joy of Mans Desires," Johann Seba; "Variations on Colonel Bogey," Arr. Samuel Gill; "Five Million Wins," David Shyne; and "Willie Tell Tell-Tell," G. A. Rossin.

A highlight of the concert was several selections by the newly formed string section of the band. The string section made its first public appearance during the concert. The concert attracted band members and directors from high schools and colleges all over the South. Last year's performance as well as this year's were witnessed by a large capacity audience.

Tigers Eyed Pot-of-Gold In Kansas City

By Theodore Clark
"With the road practically paved and the rocks under the sand," the SSC Tigers eyed a sparkling pot of gold when they left Savannah Saturday afternoon for Kansas City, Mo., to compete for National Championship honors in the 1961 NAIA tournament, March 13 through 19.

Faced with the tough job of beating two of the SIAC's best teams in the District 8A playoffs in Atlanta last weekend (the Tigers did just that). After watching the talented Benedict Tigers virtually dump the Clark College Panthers 99-86 in the opening game of the playoffs, the Tigers edged a towering Morris Brown squad 85-83 in the second game of the opening night, placing them against the first game winners, the tall and talented Benedict team. Again SSC emerged as victors qualifying them to compete for National honors in the NAIA tournament.

A year ago when the Tigers arrived in Atlanta for the playoffs, the word around the sports circuit was that the Tigers were just there to watch the taller teams play. This year like last year they proved basketball belongs to the team with the superior shooting prowess and ball handling skill, as they dumped Morris Brown 76-70 in the finals, after running through Florida A & M 95-89 in the semifinals.

Esquire's CLUB & CAMPUS FASHIONS

BY Q. E. SCHOEFFLER Fashion Director of ESQUIRE Magazine

Easter vacation time draweth nigh. Time to turn your thoughts away from differential calculus or Chaucer and concentrate on dazzling the hometown belles with your fashion acumen.

Here's a cram course on the fabrics, colors and stylings to keep in mind when you assemble a Spring outfit.

THE BIG THREE choices for university men this season:

1. Muted glen plaids in worsteds or blends
2. Soft flannels or unfinished worsteds
3. Hairline stripes

In all of these, and particularly in the plaids, the outstanding color is olive. Expect to see plenty of the soft greenish cast that topped top fashion honors last year and also new variations on the olive theme... olives with golden, bluish or blackish casts. Runner up color is a basic medium grey. You might also consider black with half-inch white chalk stripes (very new in tropical worsteds) or check into the new checks.

Trousers are plain, pleatless and tapered.

ADDENDA ON FIT. Be sure cuff jackets are short enough to allow at least a half-inch of shirt cuff to show. Ditto on the jacket collar to give it proper slope. Trousers should be long enough to just break over the instep.

SPEAKING OF SHIRTS... button-down collar models in white or pale pastels are almost de rigueur with a traditional suit. Select knickerwear in either a small figured print or regimental repp stripes to coordinate with suit and shirt. In shoes this season, look for the plainer models... slip-ons in dark brown or plain tie ties in brown or one of the burnished olives.

PERFECT TOPPING for your new outfit is a soft felt hat. Tapered brim and narrow crown are the points to look for. Again, the best color is olive, especially olive accented by a black band.

NEXT MONTH, we'll delve into the latest in slacks, shorts, sport shirts, knitwear and other related fashions for your sportin' life. Have a good holiday!

Spring Is Here

Spring showers will bring a flowering of the newly favored patterns. With the International Silhouette and the American influences, the Italian Continental is a creation of a more catholic model. The Navarre Grey suit is an unusual shadow-type pattern compounded of olive, gold and blue, with bronze overcast. It has three buttons, moderately built shoulders, slight waist peak lapels, shaped waist, rounded front, and slanted flapless pockets. Trousers may be cuffless or double pleated.

This season is still heir to the strong sway of plaids and checks, and to the ever-mounting influence of the British silhouette. Vivid colors and the natural fruition of last fall's featured Grape Tones, share spring's important color spectrum with currently popular golds and olives. The American version of the British look, of the lightweight wool jacket checked in gold, white, black, or mellow brown is referred to as the British silhouette.

Another lightweight wool jacket selected the full-bodied Vineyard shade called "British Claret" the vivid back-and-Claret plaid is finely overlaid in olive or gray. The gentlemanly or colligate model has three buttons, some waist suppression, horizontal flap pockets and center vent. "Alta Blue" broadcloth shirt and Claret tie are excellent co-ordinates.

The man who prefers the different in rain wear, but eschews pattern, will look for ultra-light tones and fresh styling features in his spring choice. On campus, it will be the near-white beige "shorty," cotton poplin, with diagonal slash pockets, stitched yoke, button tabs on sleeves, and the accordion pleated side vents, which may be worn open or buttoned.

Around the World On a Penny

(ACP)—A 26-year-old Peruvian traveling around the world "on a penny" in an effort to further the international friendship emphasized greater understanding between North and South America in a stop at the University of Redlands, Redlands, Calif.

In an interview with the REDLANDS BULLDOG, Alejandro Sanchez, acting project chief of the Pan Americanist Organization of Youths, urged people in the United States not to talk about North and South America but about the "Americas," and to "recognize that the countries of South America are not a small and forgotten world but have great accomplishments, and a heritage to their credit."

Cartoon Quips

Nothing irks the hard-pressed college student more than shaking out an envelope from home and finding nothing in it but news and love.

The professor who comes in 15 minutes late is rare—in fact, he's in a class by himself.

The college basketball coaches are all interested in higher education, and the closer they come to seven feet the better they like it. Nowadays many college men live by the sweat of their brow.

Man at desk to himself: "I wish I had a dental appointment to cancel—that always brightens my day."

Wife to husband struggling out of bed after an evening on the town: "How would you like your aspirin this morning—on the rocks?"

Woebegone husband, loser in battle with his wife: "We got two cars, two televisions, two bathrooms! How come we can't have two opinions around here?"

Fortuneteller reading customer's palm: "You're a very glibbie man."

The Tiger's Roar Forum: A Column of Opinion

By Annette Kennedy

Recently the basketball team visited Kansas City, Mo., for the second year in succession after defeating opposition at the District 6-A tournament in Atlanta. Student opinion for this issue was polled on the following question: "WHAT IS YOUR REACTION TO THE BASKETBALL TEAM SECOND TRIP TO THE NATIONAL TOURNAMENT IN KANSAS CITY?"

Nathan Knight—Senior—Folkston, Ga. "Personally I feel that the guys on the team gave the college a pretty good showing. I do feel that they were somewhat hindered by their height."

Wilma Rhoney—Junior—Savannah, Ga. "I feel that the team's spirit would have been higher if it were not for the recent actions taken by the scholarship committee toward some of the star players."

Howard Bohannon—Senior—Newnan, Ga. "All I can say is that I think the team represented SSC well in Kansas City and every student should be proud of the team."

Zelmar Stevenson—Junior—Florence, S. C. "I think the second trip was just marvelous, and outstanding for the school. With more loyal support there might be a time when the team will come home from Kansas City with the championship trophy."

Albert King—Senior—Waynesboro, Ga. "The team appeared to be eager to go to Kansas City. Indications from the rest of the student body showed that they were pleased to see the team go again, and supported them 100 per cent."

Juanita Moon—Senior—Savannah, Ga. "It was as exciting for the students as it was for the team. The quality of performance that the team has given was indicative of the expectations of the students of the team to make the trip. I'm very proud of them."

An Unidentified Basketball Player. "Actually we (the team) went back to Kansas City again because we like winning. The school spirit here is not great enough to inspire us and other distracting things such as the Scholarship Committee and their policies could really take away our determination. These factors, however, were not great enough to keep us down."

Mary Hollis—Sophomore—Moultrie, Ga. "I feel that the basketball team had a great season and the official record proves it. Although Redlands defeated us in Kansas City I know we have one of the best teams in the country."

LONELINESS

By Charles H. Lee

Restless and longing is engulfing me,

For want of you no contentment I see.

To gaze into your beautiful eyes, Would quiet this raging feverish tide.

Facing and turning in my lonely room,

While your vision rises it's fullness.

Peace be unto this desperate heart,

For real true love must play its part.

No sleep I know, no rest I'll find, Till I hold her once more and know she is mine.

Miss you; oh, how I pine for you, For love like this is known by few.

Begone the bearers of my despair,

This loneliness I am much aware. Come, my dove, on silken feet, And quiet my heart in it's restless beat.

PASSIONS

By Charles H. Lee

Passions of youth must live, To nature's spender give.

In bed and couch and band, Encircling all the land.

To this title sing praises then; To your ear this petition lend.

For want of cohesive tranquil thoughts,

For this great men have endlessly sought.

Oh! Bounteous nature in all her excess,

Exalt and rejoice and hear the takers,

Of passions my friend of all there is:

For Worldly prize, I say it 'Tis

Three National Fraternities Criticized Because of Discrimination

(UPI)—Three national social fraternities—Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi—were under fire this week because of alleged discriminatory pledging practices.

Alpha Tau Omega's High Council depended upon its Stanford University chapter to conduct closed hearings before deciding whether the national will expel the chapter for pledging four Jewish students. The Stanford chapter has voted unanimously to keep its Jewish members, regardless of the consequences.

ATO National President Gerald Johnson answered the charges of discrimination by explaining: "We don't exclude Jews—if they embrace the Christian faith. ATO is centered in Jesus Christ, its ritual is based on the New Testament, and any rushee or pledge believing in a non-Christian religion would be the ritual and some of ATO's Christian practices offensive."

Phi Delta Theta came in for stiff criticism from Lake Forest College in Illinois when the Phi Delta national refused to ship to a Jewish student after the local chapter had asked him to join.

Charging Sigma Chi with being the only remaining fraternity on the Cornell University campus with an "overt discriminatory clause" four Cornell students picketed the Sigma Chi chapter

Poll Reveals Students Would Patronize Integrated Theaters

(UPI)—The results of a canvassing of the student body of the University of North Carolina during Brotherhood Week last month has revealed that over 80% of the students questioned (1879) at the University would continue to patronize local theaters if they were open to persons of all races.

The poll, conducted by a volunteer student group, was intended to find out if claims of theater owners that their business would fall off if they were to integrate were valid.

Students in each living unit were given a questionnaire, the completion of which was optional.

Of the 1879 returned form, 803 (42.7%) indicated the No. 1 choice requesting the opening of the theaters to all. 28.18% checked the No. 2 alternative indicating that they would continue patronizing the theaters. 16% checked the No. 3 choice, indicating opposition to the policy but stating that they would continue patronage.

The paper also cites, as indication that theater seats are "growing cold under the present segregated arrangement" the recent practice of offering free showings to fraternity and sorority groups during prime evening hours at the Carolina Theater.

Esquire's CLUB & CAMPUS FASHIONS

BY D. E. SCHOEFFLER Esquire's Fashion Director

Defining "sportsman" is a somewhat sticky wicket in a column for university men. Apparel which is considered appropriate only for leisure wear on one campus, may be perfectly suitable for the classroom or even for casual days on another.

Therefore, I'll not attempt to dictate when the following fashions should be worn... that's up to each man on each campus to decide for himself. These are the newsmakers in the general sportswear field for the warm seasons ahead:

YOU NEVER HAD IT SO LIGHT in jackets! The new crop of wash-and-wear jackets in combinations of Duran and cotton are almost shifting weight, and inclined in the bargain. Two positive trends are notable: giant plaids for the peace-seekers; gaily colorings in the native craft fabrics (batik, madras, Kalamkari) for the conservatives. Outstanding color-mates in the plaids will be either olive and blue or olive and grey. These look best with solid color lightweight trousers in deep olive or grey. Complete the outfit with a classic, button-down collar shirt in white or the new "fute" color... a light natural tan, especially effective with olive.

THE BRITISH-INFLUENCED BLAZERS, created with Yankee know-how, are currently in great favor. Choose a natural-shoulder, single-breasted version with metal buttons in navy or one of the newer hues... olive, gold or light grey. The double-breasted blazers are smartest in navy, accented with white pearl buttons.

THE KNITS ARE IT for casual shirts in cotton, Banlon or blends. These, in the conventional, solid-color, short-sleeved pullover style, can be dyed in light tan, gold or olive. For kicks, pick one in bright red. Note, too, the great variety with contrasting border stripes of collar and sleeve edge, and another group with knit collar and button plackets half-way down the front.

CHECK THE NEW SLACKS... in checks, stripes and plaids. The fabrics are lightweight and washable. Basic tan chinos continue to be popular, but let yourself go and add at least one pair of patterned slacks to your Summer wardrobe this year.

SWEATER COLLECTORS will want to investigate the semi-bulky in pullover or six-button cardigan style. These look warmer than they are because the knits are very porous and many are of cotton or blends, as well as very lightweight wools. White is still the number one choice for warm weather, but tan, gold and olive are also good.

Advance tip: on my recent fashion-scouting trip through Europe and the Scandinavian countries I saw patterned sweaters everywhere, some in such wild color combinations as purple, orange and white.

STANDOUT SHOES in the sportswear category are the hi-risers... either slip-on or laced desert style. Choose yours in olive or natural tan in brushed leather.

WHAT'S AHEAD: In the next column, we'll clear up some of the confusion about correct formalwear and accessories, and report on the new trends in beachwear. So long, for now.

Space Food

Travelers to outer space may have to grow their own food en route, reports the May Reader's Digest. It is estimated that a space traveler will need about seven pounds of food and water per day. Since this need would make long trips impractical, scientists are studying the possibility of using sunlight to raise nutritious, fast-growing algae during flight.

Vanishing Americans

Each year an estimated one million Americans vanish—most of them deliberately. Lt. John J. Cronin, former chief of New York's Missing Persons Bureau says in the May Reader's Digest that the chief reason for such disappearances is "to escape a problem which looks overpowering." Spring and fall are the peak seasons for vanishing. More men vanish than women, and married women disappear more frequently than single ones.

OUTLETS FOR FASHION STYLE SCENE

This year even more than last, the vernal style scene promises to be a harmonious blend of tradition and innovation that should provide more ample outlets for both conservative and liberal tastes.

Things to Come

The shape of things to come will change a bit, but only the perceptive eye will notice. Happily, the natural shoulder hasn't been touched, but the new pinks will be longer by a fraction than heretofore, and their lapels will be slightly wider. Waist suppression, gentle but noticeable, will be back, and you can expect to find more patch flap pockets on solid-color coats. Slacks will retain their slim and clean-lined silhouette, but with a decline in elasticized waistbands. Belt loops will be disappearing, and with them, a sumptuous variety of new belts in both leathers and fabrics. But the biggest news is the triumphant revival of stripes: candy stripes, boater stripes, awning stripes, ice cream parlor stripes. On blazers, sweaters, swim trunks walking shorts, belts, dress and sport shirts, they promise to infuse the style season with an atmosphere of carnival gaiety that has not been enjoyed since the stripe-candy Nineties.

The dress shirt picture reveals the same balance between traditionalism and experimentation. The tidy tab collar in both snap-fastener and collar button style, still will be a handsome complement to your spring and summer wardrobe of suits and ties, and much dressier than the button-down. But watch for the introduction of a short, modified spread collar as a London shirt feature. The most noteworthy news item is the proliferation of the short-sleeve, tapered body dress shirt in a multitude of new patterns, colors and collar styles.

Where Is Your Shangri-la?

By Katie Williams '59

"Romance, like a ghost, eludes touching," said the noted American essayist and editor, T. W. Curtis. "It is always where you were, not where you are." Almost every well traveled person has a favorite spot on the earth somewhere, a place he regards as supremely romantic. But fortunately, it is not necessary to be a world traveler to have a favorite romantic place, these days. Thanks to movies, television and magazines, we can tour the world vicariously and search for Shangri-la in our living rooms.

Most people agree on the qualities that make a place romantic. First, it must be a place where we can do the things we enjoy doing. Second, it must possess breath-taking beauty. Lastly, the places we remember as romantic are invariably those we associate with memorable people or circumstances. One young couple who have traveled extensively claim the most romantic spot in the world is Sea Island, Ga. Reason? They spent their honeymoon there.

To attempt to name the most romantic place in the world would seem to be as presumptuous as attempting to define or beauty. Each person has his own reason for finding a place romantic—reasons involving time, people, and circumstances.

Campus Spotlight

By Veronica Owens

The Campus Spotlight cites another outstanding personality in this issue, Bobby Burgess. He is the cordial and versatile fellow on campus that is known and respected by all who are acquainted with him.

Bobby is a graduate of Candier County Training School, in Metter, Georgia. The fall of the year he graduated from high school, he enrolled as a freshman at Savannah State College. Since that time, he has endeavored and excelled in numerous aspects of education on the campus. Presently, he is a junior majoring in Chemistry.

He has the honor of being a Tutor in the Alpha Kappa Mu Tutorial System. He secured this position because of his knowledge and keen understanding of Government.

Recently, Bobby served as the General Secretary for the Annual Men's Festival Committee.

Other activities that Bobby is affiliated with are: Secretary, Young Men's Christian Association; Vice President, Wright Hall Dormitory Council; Member, Committee on Student Teacher Education; Member, Pan-Hellenic Council; Chairman, Social Committee, Savannah State College Student Council; Member, Delta Eta Chapter, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Incorporated; Member, Tiger's Roar Staff; and Honor Student, 1959-60.

Bobby has a most apt philosophy of life. His philosophy is "Take the world as you find it."

In addition to the numerous activities Bobby is affiliated with, he still finds time to have some interesting hobbies. He enjoys listening to modern jazz, reading current news, playing basketball, and attending the movies.

A versatile person is truly one to be admired. And, consequently, that is why Bobby Burgess was one of the persons chosen this month to take his place in the Campus "Spotlight."

Another outstanding personality in the Campus Spotlight this month is Rosemary Singleton. She is the petite little miss that everyone knows as "Rose." She has earned this distinction because of her pleasing personality and enviable scholarship.

After graduating from Tompkins High School in 1957, she enrolled at Savannah State College. Since that time, she has excelled scholastically and educationally. Evidence of this is the "Business Award" which she received from the Business Department last year for excellence in business.

Presently, Rose is a senior majoring in Business Administration. She plans to obtain her B.S. degree in Business and do further study on the subject in graduate school.

Last year Rosemary reigned as the attendant to "Miss Alpha" 1960-61.

Rosemary is the secretary and typist for "AROUND THE TOWN," a local bi-monthly magazine.

The honoree has numerous hobbies. Some of them are listening to records, dancing creatively, and reading novels.

YOU ARE ONE OF THESE

By Verdel Laverne Lambert

When it comes to eating, there are only two classes of people: those who live to eat and those who eat to live. It is only necessary to know what a body eats to determine what class he belongs to. If an individual eats as though he were fattening himself for the market, he would belong to the first class. If he eats barely enough to keep an ant alive, he would belong to the latter class. Consequently, inasmuch as there are only two classes of people—you are one of these.

Fifteen scores and fifty-two years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation—the gluttonists! The entire world knew of their greatness—for they were great in width and great in appetite. But then, what made them these gross eaters? History tells us that they were motivated by greed—the greed for food. They believed strongly in the biblical quotation: "Man can not live by bread alone, he must eat to meat, time, and in between meal times, they would eat meats, vegetables, fats, and sweets lavishly.

Most gluttonists eat about ten pounds of food each day. And it is with joy and delight that they sit down to ravage and devour their food, consuming their meat asunder, bite into the bones, and swallow the solid food in large pieces.

If you were to meet a gluttonist on the street, you would recognize him instantly. All of them have the forward look and are generally bulky people.

People who eat to live are often referred to as "skinny bones."

The "Skinny bones" fast frequently when in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for them to eat, they do so sparingly. Their lack of interest in food is due mostly to their desire to acquire an attractive figure or a slim physique. And so, day after day they consume pills to lose their appetites while their flesh waste away.

Their choice of foods would be quite repulsive to the gluttonists. Like the vegetarians, they eat lettuce, cabbage, squash, spinach, etc.

If you were to meet a "skinny bone" on the street, you would recognize him instantly. All of them have the recessive look and are generally skinny people.

Gluttonist! Oh gluttonist! The next time you sit down at a table to eat, take heed that thy greedness does not overcome thee.

"Skinny bones" Oh "skinny bones" The next time you sit down at a table to eat, you would do well to pattern after the gluttonists, for they are a great race of people. A word to the wise is sufficient, is it not?

Professor Speaks On "Success"

By Alphonso S. McLean

"Everyone seeks the secret of success," said William H. Bowen, Associate Professor of Economics at Savannah State College, as he addressed more than 1,000 students during the weekly Chapel Hour, Thursday.

"There's no straightforward formula for success. For most people the word success is the rightful place in life one has attained through hard work," he told the assembly. Professor Bowen cited occasions in history where some of the most successful men in the world considered themselves failures because things they wanted most could not be achieved. "We should change our conception of success and never let failures defeat our individual aspirations and intended goals," he said. He urged the group to grasp hold of individual ideals and develop them.

In his conclusion he stated, "When we think of success we should think of making the most of our lives to help others to make this world a better place in which to live."

Mr. Bowen, who lectures in Economics and Accounting, earned the Masters of Business Administration Degree in Accounting from New York University and has taught at Savannah State College for eight years.

George is a sophomore from Savannah, majoring in Business Administration. He is a member of the Newman's Club, the Business Club, YMCA and other campus organizations.

Duties of the Exchange Editor include the mailing of all issues of the Roar to various colleges and universities, throughout the U. S. and abroad; and the evaluating of other college newspapers to note trends in layout, editorial, special features and campus activities as a whole.

The task of the Exchange Editor is indeed an important one to any newspaper staff.

Staff Personality of the Month

By Richard Coger

This column is designed to give the students an opportunity to know a little of the personal background of staff members who work tirelessly to better the college.

This issue of the Tiger's Roar is citing a personality warm and pleasant in the name of Mrs. Claye H. Watson, director of Wright Hall Dormitory.

Mrs. Watson was educated in the public schools of Raleigh, North Carolina and attended Shaw University.

In 1929, Mrs. Watson married the late Mr. Junius Watson. She has two daughters, Mrs. C. Faskins and Mrs. F. H. Cuthin who is employed by the Einstein Medical Center, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, as a medical social worker.

Mrs. Watson is an ardent sports fan and has toured both Europe and Australia. In her traveling, she attended the Brussels World Fair, Brussels, Belgium.

In the fall of 1960, Mrs. Watson became the director of Wright Hall Dormitory. Last year, she was assistant director of Holmes Hall, dormitory for girls at Clark College, Atlanta, Georgia.

Mrs. Watson's willing attitude to help others beyond the line of duty has inspired the men in Wright Hall to take a cleaner approach to college life.

Again the writer of this column is proud to present this distinguished personality; a world traveler who has varied added experiences to the SSC family.

Major League Baseball

Great Leveling in Major League Baseball

In major league baseball, 1961 may eventually become the year of the great leveling. The National League has three teams—the Philadelphia Red's and Cubs that appear to have no chance at the pennant—in the American League the present race seems to be tight with the Kansas City Athletics, the Boston Red Sox, the Detroit Tigers and the two new teams the Los Angeles Angels, and the Washington Senators fighting early for the championship. This year the talent is divided so equally that a New York writer voted in a spring training poll that the Minnesota Twins was his choice for the pennant. Nine other New York writers picked the New York Yankees.

Yankees Are Strong

The Yankees are strong, fast and replete with fearsome batsmen. Assuming the new office of Yankee manager is Ralph Houk. Houk has his job cut out to prove himself capable of replacing the old War Horse Casey Stengel. Age may be a slowing down factor to the White Sox but the acquisition of Juan Pizarro and Cal McFisk could give them that added upbit needed to keep in the running. Showing improvement over last season are the Cleveland Indians.

Pirates National League Favorites

In the National League it is said that this League is more balanced than any ever before in the history of the game. The Pittsburgh Pirates are the favorites. Also standing a good chance are the Milwaukee Braves, Los Angeles Dodgers, St. Louis Cardinals, and the San Francisco Giants to cap the National League Pennant.

This baseball season will offer fans the thrill and excitement of trying to predict a winner for both leagues.

Where Is Your Shangri-la?

In the end, each of us must find his own Shangri-la.

This is exactly what more and more Americans are doing each year. The search for romantic places is taking Americans all around the world and making us the most travel conscious people in history.

Somewhere, for everyone, there is a place where the grass is always green, the house never depreciates and love flourishes in the moonlight. But even if you never get out of your armchair, it will do your dormant corporealities good to pick your paradise.

Mild Indians

Six Sioux chiefs, visiting New York City and waiting for a luncheon table at a restaurant, were asked by the hostess, "Have you a reservation?" "Yep," said one. "In South Dakota."

Spring Probation Brightens Campus

By Norman B. Elmore

As the spring season arrived, so did the annual probation and initiation period for the Greek Letter Organizations here on campus. There was a multiplicity of hilarity witnessed on campus as a result of the singing, ducking, dancing, marching, and funny stunts performed by the various probates. At the height of the noon hour, the fun seemed to reach its zenith. All of the groups were assembled in front of the Bandstand and each probate group tried to outperform all of the other groups in order to please their most Honorable Greeks (Big Sisters) and the Noble Greeks (Big Brothers). Some groups sang identical songs and performed crazy stunts thus causing the grand performances to be more comical than ever.

The neophytes (new sorors and fraters) became members of the various sorities and fraternities on campus DELTA SIGMA THETA SORORITY, accepted into membership Dorothy L. Brown, Mary Nell Hollis, Imogene Smith, Emily Snype, Geraldine Spaulding, Eunice Veal, Hattie Watson, and Helen Woods; OMEGA PSI PHI FRATERNITY: William O. The next probation will be held in November.

Dormitory Gives Pajama Party

By Lucile Lamar

The residents of Camilla Hubert Hall sponsored a Pajama Party, in the dormitory lobby, April 11th.

One might wonder, "Just what is a Pajama Party?" A pajama party is merely a gathering of young ladies to play games, chat and relax. Refreshments are served so that the evening will be cooled from the hot discussions that may occur. These discussions vary from politics to "how to hook a man." After all is said and done, the evening is truly one that inspires women to appreciate the art of utilizing "Leisure Time."

Miss Towles emphasized the importance of having a pleasing personality and of being able to get along with others. (1) The ability to make others feel at ease, (2) optimism, (3) a pleasing voice, (4) gracefulness, (5) and a sense of humor, were cited as the five important facets of a pleasing personality.

Speaking of goals, Miss Towles advised that they be set as high as possible, and that although there may be detours, one should never lose sight of his goals.

As final hints to the young men and women, the speaker suggested that everyone should strive to improve his walking and sitting habits, make his clothes reflect his personality, and learn how to make and acknowledge introductions.

MY KIND OF DEMOCRACY

By William D. Hagins

AMERICA HOLDS THE HOPE OF THE WORLD

President Theodore Roosevelt once said "We here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of history." Yes, here in America hold the fate of the whole world, and it is up to us to maintain this position for the hope of the Western World. We cannot afford to be overcome by Russia and her satellite countries, if so the world would be governed by a dictator instead of the people.

Americans must be urged to wake up and begin to realize what is before them. They must show the world that the democratic form of government is the human way of life. A government in the hands of the people and not in a ruling class or person cannot promote. Point out to them the importance of free education, freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom of the right to live in the pursuit of happiness.

America can then undoubtedly show to the people behind the Iron Curtain that the United States has men capable of leading them out of darkness of communism and into the light of a true democracy.

After this factor has been proven to the world, the high ideas and morals that America stands for will give the depressed countries in the world a feeling of confidence in regard to world peace.

Need a Summer Job? Make Your Own!

"Cash for trash, mice for a price, and bucks for books will enable teenagers with imagination, initiative, and ingenuity to make money this summer," declares Russell J. Fornwalt, who has counseled more than 7,000 boys and girls on employment problems. "If you cannot find a job this summer, then, by all means, make your own," advises Mr. Fornwalt.

In order to assist teen-agers and college students everywhere, Mr. Fornwalt has dug deep down in his files and compiled a helpful and unique new booklet, "99 WAYS FOR TEEN-AGERS TO EARN MONEY DURING THE SUMMER."

It is packed with all kinds of practical and profitable ideas which have been tested money makers for boys and girls in every part of the country. The booklet also tells teen-agers how to set up a profitable business of their own and lists 10 ways for getting customers and making sales. The 24 page booklet has been published by THE ADVANCEMENT AND PLACEMENT INSTITUTE, an occupational information service for the field of education since 1932. It is now available for 50 cents from the Institute at P. O. Box 99, Brooklyn 11, N. Y. Quantity rates will be furnished on request.

This is the same Institute which publishes the well known SUMMER PLACEMENT DIRECTORY that is used by over 1500 colleges and thousands of individuals each summer to obtain interesting and well-paying summer jobs. Copies can be examined at most University Placement or Deans' offices, college and public libraries, and school superintendents' offices. It is stocked in book stores or from the Institute for $3.00.

"Mental Quiet Room" Effective Tranquilizer

A useful substitute for tranquilizers—free, always available and effective is proposed by a world-famous physician in an article in the June Reader's Digest.

The substitute is a "mental quiet room," a peaceful quarter of the mind into which each of us can retire at will to shed tensions and troubles and to restore ourselves.

Says Doctor Maxwell Maltz, author of the article and noted plastic surgeon: "It's my belief that each personality is equipped with a center which, like the deep of the ocean is never disturbed." We need to find this "quiet center."

Finding it may be difficult, says Doctor Maltz, but is well worth the effort. As a start, learn to control so-called "automatic" responses. Next, time the phone rings, for example, don't jump to answer it. Let it ring. Once you learn to control your responses to such external stimuli, you'll find it easier to control your emotional responses.

Such control, once achieved, is the key to your quiet room, your mental vacation spot. Like a real vacation place, it should be equipped with favorite scenes—images of famous paintings—borrowed from music you enjoy—beloved lines of poetry. Says Dr. Maltz: "Above all, keep in mind the 'psycho-cybernetic' matter of whether you are disturbed or tranquil, fearful or composed, is not the external stimulus, but your own response."

His article, "How to Stand Up Under Stress," is condensed from "The Psycho-Cybernetic," published by Prentiss-Hall, Inc.

The four weeks session in July will begin on the 24th and end on August 18 with concentration in Library Science, Cataloging and Classification.

Effective Living: Technical Sciences, Elementary Metal Work and Problems in Vocational Education.

The Summer School Program at Savannah State College is designed for: (1) pre-freshmen students who require more fully or enrich their formal training in order to insure success in college; (2) entering freshmen who are desirous of beginning their college career at Savannah State College; (3) advanced students who wish to pursue their studies the year around and consequently complete the degree requirements in less than four years; and, (5) in-service teachers who seek to renew, up-grade or convert their certificates and to improve their personal and professional growth.

To meet the demands of these groups, the following programs are provided: (1) Reading (reading clinical service), Mathematics and English for pre-freshmen students; the regular college curriculum for beginning freshmen and advanced students.

To supplement the regular college and summer school staff, the service of Dr. Maurice A. Lee at Morgan College, Baltimore, Maryland, has been secured. Dr. Lee received the degrees—Bachelor of Arts, Morehouse College; the Bachelor of Philosophy, the Master of Arts, and the Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Chicago. Dr. Lee is Professor of English and Director of the Reading Center at Morgan State College, Baltimore, Maryland. He is the author of several articles on reading and is an authority in this discipline. Dr. Lee will direct the Workshop in Reading for the summer program.

BASKETBALL OUTLOOK FOR 1961-62 SEASON

The basketball outlook for the 1961-62 season looks extremely bright for the Savannah State Tigers. Coach Teddy Wright, maker of champions, will have one of the best developed squads among small colleges in the country, reports Marion Jackson, Sports Editor of The Atlanta Daily World. The squad will lose only one varsity player, Alphonso S. McLean, at graduation. Composed of the same starters for the last three seasons, the Tigers will sport a seasoned senior team. This team came here in 1958, and as the years progressed have won local, state and national honors for the college.

LOST ONLY ONE CONFERENCE GAME IN 3 YEARS

Only one game in the S.E.A.C. conference was lost in the last three years by Wright's little giants. The team also boasts a three year conference and tournament championship record. Having traveled to Kansas City, Mo., twice to participate in the NAIA National Tournament, the Tigers have beaten some of the nation's top negro colleges. Listed among them are Florida A & M University, Southern University, Grambling College, winners of the 1961 NAIA Tourney, Morris Brown College, Clark College, Morehouse College, Benedict College, Allen University, Fort Valley State College and others. Last season the Tigers made a good showing against nationally rated Tennessee A & I University and Winston Salem College in the Atlanta, Georgia Invitational Tournament.

RETURNING LETTERMEN

Returning lettermen will have their work cut out in patterns when Coach Wright tosses up the ball for the first ball practice. Among the returning lettermen are Willie Tate, James Dixon, Ira Jackson, Stephen Kelly, Johnny Mathis, Raymond Harper, Harvey Bailey, All American (NAIA) Redell Walton, and William Day.

All in all the 1961-62 basketball season should prove to be one of the best ever seen at Savannah State College.

SPORTLITE

By Redell Walton

Willie Tate, a junior from Chicago, Illinois, has been unanimously elected by the editors of The Tiger's Roar as sport personality of the year. Tate graduated from Crane Tech High School of Chicago before enrolling at Savannah State College in September of 1958. Tate is a member of the basketball team, and is attending SSC on a basketball scholarship. He is known for his friendliness around the campus. His favorite pastime, when he is not playing basketball, is listening to music. He likes to listen to music of all varieties.

His hobbies are dancing, playing cards, and attending movies. Tate looks at life in this manner: "Treat others as you would have them to treat you." A member of the Savannah State College hardwood five for three years, Tate can play the front and back court, and do a splendid job playing either. He has proved to be very valuable to the team.

His other favorite pastime and hobby is Ingegne Smith, a young lady with whom he spends most of his leisure time.

A Salute to Editor McLean

By Redell Walton

The entire staff of the Tiger's Roar would like to pay tribute to one who has contributed to the betterment of our newspaper, Editor-in-Chief, Alphonso McLean. McLean is one of the most versatile students on campus. He served as vice president of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity; played a leading role in the recent College Playhouse production, "Tiger at the Gates"; a four-year member of the varsity basketball squad; a member of the 14th Annual Men's Festival planning committee; Public Relations Director of the Savannah Midtown Chamber of Commerce; columnist and editor for the Around Our Town magazine; and a free lance writer and photographer for the Herald Weekly Newspaper. McLean is a dedicated student, and has shown great interest in the development of the entire college and student body.

McLean is graduating this June, with a major concentration in business administration. He graduated from Alfred E. Beach High School, Savannah, Georgia. He enrolled at SSC in September of 1957. In Editor McLean my opinion, if we had more students on the campus who have as much interest in the college student body as McLean, the developments and advancements here would be inestimable.

Again, our sincere appreciation goes to Editor-in-Chief Alphonso McLean.

New Careers for 30,000
"Programming" Computers

Ten years ago the occupation was barely known but today 30,000 young Americans have found new careers in it. This is programming the new electronic computing machines which are solving many problems in science and business faster than was previously possible.

The field is growing so fast that to be able performer will lack work in the next ten years. So reports Robert O'Brien in a June Reader's Digest article, "People Who 'D.' With Machines."

Today's almost miraculous computing machines, in the time it takes to light a cigarette, make calculations that would occupy the working hours of a man with a desk calculator for two or half months. But it takes people these electronic spaghetti-like tangles of wires.

They must have instructions to tell them on punched cards.

paper or magnetic tape. A set of instructions to control one problem, or machine "run," is called a program. This is how programmers got their name: they write the program that tells computers what to do, and how to do it.

The job demands two clear-cut qualifications: an analytical orderly mind, and a regard for detail that borders on the obsessive. Many programmers have a passion for puzzles, mathematical games or chess.

A high percentage depend on music for relaxation. Robert Bemer of International Business Machines, at 41 one of the older programmers, has mastered 15 musical instruments. A young lady programmer is an authority on medieval and Renaissance instruments and is constructing a clavichord in her spare time.

The article is condensed from Rotarian.

CREATIVE POETRY

"Ecstasy"

By Veronica Owens

Two young lovers starry-eyed,
there on a moonlit beach;
Dreaming and oh, so satisfied, as if Heaven is in their reach.

Standing barefoot in the sand,
caressed by waves of love;

They remembrance both hand in hand,

The big, bright, moon shines down on them, while in their rhapsody;

And sparkling stars that look like "peeps," makes all sheer "Ecstasy."

As if by magic, music's heard; rearing waves couldn't even arrest.

Too filled with love to utter a word,
they share their first embrace.

The "fascinating rhythm" gay, have both their souls possessed;

The art of dancing they convey,
as they whirl with unusual zest.

The tide emerging to the shore,
a sight they both admire;

Neither could ask for anything more,
as their warmth becomes desire.

Never let this moment end, both make this silent plea;

A thought of love makes them both grin, we love this "Ecstasy."

This "wonderland" they are convinced is an ideal place for romance;

They both become strangely tense, give our "young love" a chance.

Here they would come forever more, for they found eternal bliss;

The atmosphere they did adore, and shared the splendor of their first kiss.

Their vows are written in the sand, she wrote "Je vous aime beaucoup";

He whispered "I'm at your command, my darling I love you, too."

Dreamy-eyed they say good-bye, to this Paradise by the sea;

Final Exam

A young teacher, looking harassed, came into the school office and asked for one of the IQ-test forms. When asked what he was going to do with just one test, he replied, "Oh, I just want to find out if it's them or me!"

Men's Fashions

By Charles Phillips

Spring and summer fashions show a similarity to last season with only a few exceptions. Last year, if you will recall, the styles were flared cotton trousers. Now to the cord line this season is a unique and different fabric made of dacron and cotton. This material is called pique.

It is completely washable, and it holds a crease longer. The trousers are tapered for that slim ixy effect, and have plain fronts, that is without pleats. These trousers come in a variety of colors; such as olive, navy blue, sea-green and tan. The suit is a three-button ixy model with lap-seams on the shoulder, lapel and the back of the coat. It has flap pockets. This suit can also be purchased in the same colors as the trousers.

The other addition to the fashion family is the seersucker shirt. In addition to being fashionable, cool, and crisp, this material is washable. It comes in dacron and cotton. It has natural shoulders, straight-hanging lines, flap pockets, and a central vent. This suit comes in blue on white stripe, olive on white stripe, and brown on white stripe. It can also be gotten in a green plaid of various muted colors.

Sport coats, trousers, and shirts are also made of this material. The shirts are ixy, of course, with button-down collars. Another shirt in the sport-line is the bettise madras, which is a truly wonderful material, that is completely washable. Also oxford that are tapered at the sleeves, and the sides for that snug fit. Both of these shirts come in white, maize, tan, sea-green, and blue.

Faculty Personality Of the Year

By Veronica Owens

The faculty personality chosen by the Tiger's Roar staff to be in this edition of the paper is Elton J. Josey, the librarian at Savannah State College. He was born in Norfolk, Virginia, and educated in the public schools of Portsmouth, Virginia. He is a veteran of World War II.

Mr. Josey is a graduate of Howard University where he received the A.B. degree in History. Then he matriculated at Columbia University and received the M.A. degree in History; his professional training in Librarianship was done at the State University of New York where the M.S.L.S. was conferred.

Among the positions he has held in various professional capacities are: Desk Assistant, Journalism Library, Columbia University; Technical Assistant, New York Public Library; Librarian at Free Library of Philadelphia; Instructor of Social Sciences, Savannah State College (1954-55); Librarian, Delaware State College (1955-56); and currently Librarian and Associated Professor, Savannah State College (July 1, 1959).

While he was in Delaware, Mr. Josey was quite active in professional organizations. He was the first Negro to enter the Delaware Library Association Bulletin. As a member of the Delaware State Department of Public Instruction, School Librarian Certification Revision Committee, in this organization Mr. Josey was asked to serve as recorder of the group. He is now Chairman of the Sub-Editorial Committee of the Savannah

MR. JOSEY

State College Research Committee, and he is a member of the Projects Committee of the Library Section of G.T.E.A. and recently named Chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

Mr. Josey's philosophy of Library Service for the academic community is that "the college library undergirds the instructional program. The college library is not an adjunct to the teaching program but the very foundation of a sound academic program. The College Library has the sacred duty of instituting lifetime reading habits. Therefore, the library should provide recreational, as well as curricular materials.

The members of The Tiger's Roar staff are very proud to have Mr. Elton J. Josey join the other faculty personalities of the month being spotlighted.

A JUNIOR'S PRAYER

By Mammie Green

Heavenly Father, may these young people in the Class of sixty-one who are about to launch a new voyage on the sea of life, have all the faith, courage, hope, and ambition indicative of a graduate of our institution.

May they have scholarship, leadership, and character, but most of all, may they remain in close contact with Thee. May they always reflect the very best upon our institution. Dear Lord, may they remember that things will not always be as they wish them to be. Help them to know that Thoa has many things for them to do of which they may not be aware. Give them strength to continue life's struggle until the finish line is reached. May their accomplishments serve as beacons to all of us who must follow, and may we be able to serve in ways which may be of value to them.

Having done their best in this present world, may they be rewarded with eternal life in Thy Kingdom. Amen.

President Speaks at Assembly

Dr. W. K. Payne, President, addressed the Savannah State College family at the first All-College Assembly for the summer session. He spoke from the topic "New Frontiers in Education," and emphasized the intellectual and educational frontiers in colleges. In order to succeed training, skill, thinking and vision are required; opportunities, both open and closed, are important. He spoke of the need for accuracy, ability, speed and learning on all age levels in order to successfully face the coming frontiers which are the frontiers of efficiency, and of ability to produce. The great challenge of the educated, he indicated, is to attack problems on the basis of the real frontiers we face; to learn thoroughness for ourselves, for society and for world accomplishments. Education, he said, is not determined by size, loudness, or intentions, but by skill and by accuracy exhibited. It is concerned with learning, not with going to school.

In conclusion President Payne said the most dangerous frontier is that of living where there are no artificial barriers. To live in harmony and peace is the goal, and this goal places serious responsibility on us in extending this most recent and modern of all frontiers.

Dr. E. K. Williams, Coordinator of Education and Summer School Director, introduced the speaker. James E. Deen, an alumnus and ex-Student Council President, gave the invocation and Dr. C. Brathwaite furnished music for the program.

MY KIND OF DEMOCRACY

By William D. Hagins

It has often been said that the United States practices what she advertises. This is quite true in some instances. We here in the United States try to preach the idea of democracy abroad, but here in America the Negro is not given a chance to buy a ten cent cup of coffee, or to eat a hardy meal without going back to their place of residence.

This so-called democracy must cease in America, if America wants to remain a democratic country. Our courts must show the white people that their word is the law and they must carry them out or be subject to punishment. The whites in the South must come into the new standard of living, and try to live happy with the Negro.

It is not the young people of the majority group who are showing animosity against the Negro, it is the older generation. They are showing hatred because they are scared to lose their reign of supremacy which they have been accustomed to having. But they do not realize that all the Negro wants is a chance to show the world that he can help bring peace and good will to America.

No America, the Negro is not ignorant anymore. When the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Fifteenth amendments were passed, which gave the right of citizenship to everyone, the Negro immediately started to educate himself because he realized that education was the only answer for the future. The future has arrived for the Negro and he is ready to try to write new annals in American history, if he is given a chance.

POLITICS AND WORLD NEWS

By Samuel M. Truell

What Happened at the Vienna Summit?

Recently, President Kennedy conveyed to the nation that his rendezvous with Soviet Premier Khrushchev at Vienna was somber, and that there were no concessions granted by either of the two, and that both took a firm stand on their ideologies and beliefs. From this we can see that this meeting accomplished nothing in these antagonistic moments in our history.

The only virtue of the meeting is that the two leaders met face to face for the first time, however, this was sidetracked with what is commonly known as dictatorial diplomacy. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Khrushchev met for approximately three hours without even the presence of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Evidently Mr. Kennedy adopted his arbitrary policies from his idol Franklin D. Roosevelt, who allegedly said Poland to the late Joseph Stalin.

Is this indicative of the new Frontier? This writer certainly hopes it is not. The Soviet premier revealed information to the Communist world that the President held back from members of the Free World concerning the highly controversial Berlin crises. This and other paramount issues has left our representatives in Washington puzzled as to what actually happened at Vienna.

I am sure that Americans everywhere hope that if the time should ever present itself again, the chief executive will secure an extensive coverage of diplomacy in the American tradition in lieu of the sanctioning of our representatives by former Presidents. With utmost sincerity that if such a meeting should again present itself something concrete will materialize, rather than a social get-together between echelons of governments.

Freedom For Berlin

Freedom is of paramount importance to West Berliners, and the United States, as the leader of the free world, and her allied friends of NATO must ascertain this by more than mere intentions and lip service. We should make it known to the Communists that we will meet our obligations to Berlin, and that we will at any time, if necessary, defend and fight for West Germany. Only when this becomes a reality will the Communists lay off Berlin and her compatriots. Surely, Americans recollect the Lebanon crises, and the Marines that were dispatched there by former President Eisenhower to cool things off. Mr. Khrushchev understands militant action.

These steps are essential simply because West Berlin must remain free as a collective representative of all Oppressed Nations. Berlin must divorce her chaotic conditions because she is a symbol of freedom and hope to troubled people everywhere.

Mayor Willy Brandt and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer appealed to the Reds to grant East Berlin with free elections, and consequently the right to decide her own fate. Subsequently, however, Adenauer were explicit in stating that the Reds that West Berlin would resist communist threats with every available force at its disposal, even if she has to have deals with rocks and stones as did her contemporaries, East Berlin.

Now, this is all the western allies need to know, and they should be willing and ready to aid and help the Berliners in their prolonged fight against Communist aggression. This writer does not believe in nor cater to war, but it is absolutely necessary that vigorous action be brought against the Communists to teach them a lesson and to prove to them that we mean business when we say "lay off Berlin!" It is high time for a victory in the cold war, especially after the catastrophic Cuban invasion.

But one must pay for his blunders and we Americans have paid a costly price for the errors and miscalculations of the incumbent administration. With all sincerity, Americans are hoping that the administration has learned a lesson from the Cuban mishap, and will heretofore labor premeditation before resorting to action. Nevertheless, the administration has suffered deeply and will now refrain from hasty decisions.

Students Find Americans Not Virtuous, Not Indignant

"The average American is a warm, individualistic person embodying the right to freedom, more human than superhuman. Self complacent, and often apathetic to the opinions, highly social, naive but in a complex manner, and boastful when in a foreign port." The aforementioned statements are impressions of Americans made by foreign students attending American Universities across the country.

Hiroshi Takano, a leader of the Communist inspired riots that prevented former President Eisenhower's visit to Japan a year ago, now after careful evaluation likes capitalism, but was more impressed by the individualistic nature of Americans. The students said that Hollywood, the press and conservation painted a very bad picture of Americans for their foreign contemporaries.

Summer School Enrollment

The regular summer school session held annually at Savannah State College officially began on June 13, 1961.

As is characteristic of summer school, there are numerous new faces around the campus. This change is accredited to the fact that besides the continuing students resuming their studies, there are also recent graduates beginning freshman courses, and teachers taking courses.

This year's enrollment is relatively average in comparison with last year's. This summer school enrollment totals 473, which is a moderate decline from last year's 601. Nevertheless, the intellectual atmosphere remains the same.

Included in this year's summer school program are elementary school, secondary school, reading and science workshops which are being held daily.

From The Editor's Desk

The editor wishes to take this opportunity to welcome some and say farewell to others. To those of you who are leaving at the end of the six weeks session, I hope, as you go your separate ways, fond memories of Savannah State College campus and the college family will go with you. To those of you who are experiencing your first quarter on our campus, I hope you have been favorably impressed by all you have come in contact with.

However, whatever your status on the campus, or your status in life—whether educator, student, or laborer—be the best of whatever you are and the best of whatever you can. The world today is calling for the best in all fields of endeavor. In order to face the new frontiers, we must be prepared in the best of ways and in every way possible. Therefore, let us not take our teaching, our studying, or our work lightly; be not concerned with just a pay check or a passing grade. But let us be concerned with performing whatever task undertaken with the greatest amount of proficiency, striving always for supremacy and never satisfied with mediocrity.

I hope all of you are having or have had an enjoyable and memorable stay on our campus and one that has provided or is providing maximum educational and intellectual growth.

Sincerely,
Virginia A. Mercer,

Alcoholism: A Threat to You?

An alcoholic may feel terribly alone—but he isn't. For every alcoholic, few people are personally affected. Indirectly, all of us are affected.

There are five million alcoholics in the U. S. today, according to the National Council on Alcoholism, and the disease costs a total of a billion dollars a year—a conservative estimate. Where does the money go? To pay for hospital, prison, and welfare expense . . . the loss to industry . . . the accidents caused by alcoholism.

That's why alcoholism is a threat to you—even if you never took a drink in your life, even if you never will. That's why you should know something about it, and do something about it.

Most people, when they think of an alcoholic, imagine some bleary-eyed, ill-smelling, unshaven man in filthy rags.

It might surprise them to learn that most alcoholics have well-paying jobs, children, nice homes. They may be gifted, sensitive, charming. One may be president of your board of education . . . your butcher . . . your bowling pal. He may be your relative. You can't tell by your neighbor's face.

Few recognize them. And few of them can—or will recognize themselves.

These are the hidden alcoholics. Look at these statistics: 75 million Americans (87% of all adults) drink; of these, one out of 15 has a drinking problem; and of these 97% are not on skid row.

Alcoholism, according to the American Medical Association, is a disease—like cancer, like TB. And in terms of incidence, it ranks fourth.

A heavy drinker need not be an alcoholic. The heavy drinker may be able to stop drinking. An alcoholic cannot.

Oh, he may stop for a few days, even weeks, even months. But he'll start again. He has to. He needs alcohol as desperately as some people need their insulin. Only many alcoholics don't even know they're sick, let alone that they can be helped.

THE DANGER LINE

The National Council on Alcoholism lists these stages in becoming a problem drinker.

1—You drink socially, beer and other low-alcoholic drinks. There is no set pattern to your drinking.

2—You get drunk only on some regularity. You begin having blackouts—you don't pass out. You just forget, you have a memory blank.

3—You gulp your drinks instead of sipping them. And you sneak drinks. Liquor has become important in your life—and you don't like to think about it, or to talk about it. At this point, you can

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

By Samuel Traell

The rise of the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds as pennant contenders is shocking to baseball fans everywhere from Maine to the Rockies. Last year both teams finished remotely in the second division and it was anticipated by the pre-season diamond league that the Redlegs of the National League would run a repeat performance.

As of now the two teams performance has contradicted the fortune-telling of baseball writers and sports commentators alike. Cincinnati and Detroit are leading the National and American Leagues respectively. The bulk of the Reds success can be attributed to the excellent pitching of two young men, Joey Jay (10-4) and Ken Hunt (8-3). These two brilliant hurlers are strongly backed by the super 6 hitting Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson. During the month of June, Pinson upped his batting average 100 points to a neat 3.20.

The Tiger's success can be summarized as follows: The powerful hitting of Norm Cash, Rocky Colavito, veteran Al Kaline and the acquired additions of speedy Bill Bruton and Rookie Jake Wood who is a leading candidate for the rookie-of-the-year honors.

Another reason for the Tiger's success is due to their good pitching. Their triumphant Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Phil Regan have compiled a satisfactory twenty-five victories between themselves. Regan has gone the distance in seven games.

Cash, who until now never could quite make the starting lineup, is now leading the American League with a respectable 3.07 batting average accompanied by 24 circuit blows and 66 runs batted in.

This writer believes the two teams are having a bit of luck, as did the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates last year, and subsequently will cool off after the All-Star games. My predictions how the clubs will be situated in the first division of both leagues come season's end are as follows:

National League

1. Los Angeles
2. Milwaukee
3. Cincinnati
4. San Francisco

American League

1. New York
2. Chicago
3. Cleveland
4. Detroit
5. Baltimore

The Destruction Of Sophistication

By "Gem"

Some folks assume many roles which they play everyday. Yet, there are those who never play any roles.

But of all the artificial persons, there is but one kind who hurts.

The one who finds out that he's nothing what he thought him self to be.

All his dreams are fantasies, All ideals fallible.

He discovers, much to his sorrow, that his life is but a sham.

All the years of one's existence and all the joys one's known are shattered during this ephemeral time.

Oh, how sad it is to live (or think you're living).

For sometimes, many "blissful" years,

Only to find out that you have only been existing.

Existing, pretending, living a perennial lie.

You realize that there were times you were in conflict

With yourself. But accepting that as natural,

You continue to exist—exist in a vacuum.

Slowly, surely, sorrowfully, sorely, sophistication

Ebbs away and in its place comes bewilderment.

Where shall I turn, what can I do, how do I start?

These are the questions you'll constantly ask,

But often you find that there's no one who knows the answers.

Life becomes sheer oblivion.

A life that is "certain." Not always filled with fear.

Adventure, adversity, audacity, and strife:

Words. Words tinged with excitement.

The excitement sought by many folks.

Some overact, some underact, and some do just their share.

The actor who suffers most is the one who refuses.

From one act to the next: only to discover that many lines and gestures were skipped.

Like an adorned general stripped of all his medals.

Or a knight who lost his armor, you go through the motion of living.

You try to pretend you're pleased.

You endeavor to camouflage the aches you feel.

And the regrets you will never forget.

Back at the bottom! Not knowing where to start,

You pick up the pieces of the life you've lived.

Though you're now unhappy, feel pleased if you're fortunate

Enough to know that your life's been wrecked, but with Determination you can live on.

Don't look back, don't cry over.

For Girls ... Lots of Spice

By Rosemary McBride

Summer fashions will take on a carefree casualness for the cool this summer. Outfits are in the making and they will be in combinations ranging from skirts and blouses to popovers and walks.

Play skirts are above the knees, and for ease of movement and linear grace, the culotte is a natural.

Going together in startling and unexpected combinations is what colors are doing this summer. One outstanding combination is a dress and jacket suit in pink, tobacco, and black. There is lots of black and white dashed with other colors such as lemon, tobacco, or parrot green. There are miles and miles of Roman stripes. One in particular is a smashing dress in mustard, red, navy blue, and white jersey.

This summer, cool, do not worry about your skin. For at this moment a night cream exists that may well bring the age of angelness for women.

Campus Spotlight

By Verdelle Lambert

Portrait of a musical minister: Willie Williams, Jr. He is soft-spoken, amiable, and quick of wit.

Willie is a senior majoring in mathematics and minoring in biology. He is vice president of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, a member of the College Playhouse, and a member of The Tiger Staff.

Willie began his matriculation at Savannah State College in 1949. Shortly thereafter he joined the Air Force. Upon his return to State, he found himself in a different environment.

"I think that the caliber of students at the college now, as opposed to the caliber of students when I first entered, is to a large extent more progressive and more education-minded," he commented.

As for his musical activities, Willie plays the alto saxophone in a five-piece band called "The Preacher and the Deacona." Naturally with a name like that, the music couldn't be anything but heavenly.

Willie's hobbies are reading, playing tennis, and collecting jazz records. His favorite recording is "The Sermon," by Jimmy Smith.

"The world is yours for a prayer and a smile—and hard work." This is Willie's philosophy of life, and a good one it is too. At the present time, he is the itinerant minister at Townsley Chapel. After graduation he plans to attend the Theology Seminary at Shaw University.

The Campus Spotlight takes pleasure in presenting Willie Williams, Jr., as its outstanding personality of the month.

The Faculty Personality of the Month

By Norman B. Elmore

That new, dashing, pleasant, and jovial personality whom you have encountered on our campus, is none other than Dr. Forrest Ovan Wiggins, Professor and Chairman of the Division of Humanities.

As witnessed by an address given by Dr. Wiggins shortly after his arrival at Savannah State College, one can readily deduce that he is a scholar of subtle profundity.

Dr. Wiggins received his elementary and high school education from the local schools of Indianapolis, Indiana. He is the recipient of the Bachelor of Science degree in English from Butler University, the Master of Arts degree in Philosophy, and the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Wisconsin.

Our distinguished faculty member has done considerable study in the field of Modern Languages at universities in both Mexico and France. Among the many honors received by Dr. Wiggins, he has functioned as both Department Fellow and Post-doctorate Research Fellow in Philosophy at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Wiggins has served on the faculties of the following institutions: Morehouse, Bishop, Louisville Municipal, and North Carolina Colleges, as well as those of Minnesota, Howard, Johnson C. Smith, and Allen Universities.

Our personality of the month is affiliated with the American Philosophy Association, the Metaphysical Society of America, and the American Association of University Professors.

Ivy League vs. Presidential Two-Button

By Percy L. Harden

The American styling creates a new tempo in fashions. Everywhere you go in the United States there is a well-dressed man.

As you know, President Kennedy is youthful, dynamic, vigorous, and very business-like. My question is: Will his two-button suits exert a fashion influence on C. men's clothes?

The two-button suit of the President has not taken effect on the college man yet. The typical well-dressed college man wears a light weight wash-and-wear or dress and cotton poplin suit in the three-button style in popular shades of blue, olive green, or khaki. He wears shirts in the Ivy style which features the new snap-down collar and can be found in several new shades. The tie is a red (stripes, large or small) and will match numerous different outfits. Socks are solid and shoes

Dr. Wiggins is the author of a vast amount of published articles in his field, so vast that there is not adequate space to list them.

Seemingly cosmopolitan and ever-seeking to gain additional knowledge and to broaden his horizons, our subject has traveled extensively in Haiti, Canada, France, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, and Mexico. Dr. Wiggins states that he has always been very impressed by pleasure trips during his foreign travel.

Dr. Wiggins is the proud husband of Mrs. Nell D. Wiggins, a teacher by occupation, and is the pride and joy of two children, Ernest and Florence. Playing bridge is one of his most entertaining hobbies.

The members of the staff of the Tiger's Roar are indeed proud to have Dr. Forrest Ovan Wiggins join the ranks of other distinguished faculty members who have been spotlighted.

Visiting Professors

Dr. M. A. Lee of Morgan State College is on the Savannah State College instructional staff for the summer. He is conducting the four-week reading workshop.

Mr. R. J. Martin, principal of Ballard-Hudson High School in Macon is here conducting the secondary school workshop which is being held at 801 C. Johnson High School.

SPORTS BRIEFS

By Samuel M. Truell

Savannah State College is optimistic about 61-62 basketball season.

There is a very good outlook for the upcoming basketball season here at Savannah State College. With the return of the triumphant Redell Walton (All American), Ira Jackson and Willie Tate. These three will be backed by two very scintillating ball handlers, namely Stephen Kelly and James Dixon.

The aforementioned players, along with their wise coach, Ted Wright, are expected by everyone with even a minute knowledge of sports to make it three in a row to Kansas and, hence, the NAIA tournament.

On the two previous visits to Kansas our boys gained valuable experience, and this writer believes wholeheartedly that the magnificent five's tournament experience and tricky ball handling will compensate for what the team lacks in height. The team's only liability is that of one Alphonso McLean which is a consequence of June graduation. Mr. McLean's versatility will be highly missed by everyone, but nevertheless we are everything pessimistic, and consequently are hoping that the team will continue its magnificent and hence, perpetuate its maneuverability and strength over the opposition.

Don't Use Big Words!

Don't use big words. . . . "In promulgating your esoteric cogitations or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amiable, philosophical, or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversations and communications possess a clarified conciseness, a compact comprehensibility, a coalescent consistency, and a connotated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flutulent garrulity; jejune babblement; and asinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous disquisitions and unpremeditated explications have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without redomestic or thesaurical bombast.

"In other words talk plainly, briefly, naturally, sensibly, truthfully, purely. Don't use big words; don't use slang; don't put on airs; say what you mean; mean what you say, and avoid big words."

Wiggins Addresses College Assembly

Dr. Forrest O. Wiggins delivered a challenging address at the second All-College assembly. He spoke from a thought derived from the phrase "Mourn Not the Dead, but Mourn the Apathetic, the Meek, the Coward." He chose as his subject "The Aims of Education" of which he said there are two. They are the training of intelligence and the instilling of ideas.

Other points highlighted in the address were that the role of the scholar is to prepare one's own mind and to develop moral sensitivity. Scholars should have the capacity to see beyond one's own personal problems, yet have the courage to face them with an open mind.

"The responsibility of college," he said, "is to teach methods of freedom." Within this realm of responsibility are two poles—the teacher and the learner. In conclusion, Dr. Wiggins stated that in order to successfully face the challenges of this responsibility, both teacher and learner need to see new positions, and travel new paths.

Dr. Paul Taylor introduced the speaker, Dr. C. A. Brathwaite provided the music and Rev. A. E. Peacock gave the invocation and presided.

By James C. Matthews

The college newspaper plays an important role in college life. You may not know it, but colleges are represented to the outside world by student publications. The college newspaper does not only represent the college in the outside world, but it also serves as an outlet for informing students of the activities that have taken place on and off campus which concern them.

The college newspaper is an instrument of mass communication on campus. It is a publication by which the students may speak or voice their conceptions through editorials, feature stories, poems, etc. This also raises the question of freedom of the student publication versus control. The college newspaper represents the students and gives them a chance to debate and test experimental thoughts, emotions, and beliefs. A free college newspaper gives self-expression of the outstanding moments on campus. It has many motives of expression and is as multiform as human emotion.

The college newspaper does not only have a local campus value, but a professional value also. For many colleges are judged by their student publications. So from these conceptions, it can be concluded that a college newspaper holds the major spotlight of student expression in college life.

Guest pianist, Marshall Izen, in a scene from a German opera that he presented as a part of his performance on July 7th Assembly program held in Mddrim.

Marshall Izen Guest at Assembly

Marshall Izen, pianist and humorist, appeared at the All-College assembly on Friday, July 7.

Mr. Izen's thorough musical background adds dimension and substance to his humor as well as refinement and taste to his serious offerings. During the program he played Waltzes by Schubert, "Flight of the Bumble Bee," "Soldiers' March," Chopin's "Waltz in E Minor," and several versions of "Happy Birthday" as he imagined famous composers would have arranged them.

The most humorous part of the program was a German opera in which Mr. Izen portrayed the entire opera with the use of hand puppets. He provided his own music and used the top of the piano for his stage.

Mr. Izen received a Bachelor's degree in music from De Paul University in Chicago. He studied at the Juillard School of Music, New York City, in preparation for a concert career. Through a series of odd adventures, his unique musical and satiric talents first received recognition in several New York supper clubs. His many appearances on television have included the Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen shows.

He was secured for the College program by Dr. C. A. Brathwaite, Chairman of the Department of Fine Arts.

POLITICS AND WORLD NEWS

By Samuel M. Truett

JKF Increases Military Strength

In his address to the nation via radio and television, President John F. Kennedy stressed that the alternative of the present Berlin crisis was not all but nuclear war or humiliation on a national level. The chief executive requested an increase in this country's military power to stand against the communist threat against humanity and freedom. In a very somber speech the President made it clear to the aggressors that we will meet all of our commitments in Berlin and elsewhere, regardless of the consequences.

The President requested that the Congress make appropriations for him to double or possibly triple the draft, in order that he may extend the service branches. He said that Americans have borne burdens before with courage, and will not divorce them now. Individual sacrifices must be made in order that freedom may survive.

It can plainly be seen that such a large increase in revenues will result in a bulky tax hike, but Mr. Kennedy ruled this out. Nevertheless an increase in taxes is anticipated no later than next January. We are sure that the American public is behind the President, but one must wonder just where the money is to come from. Within a period of nearly seven months, Mr. Kennedy and his Harvard chums have greatly increased our national debt and it seems as though the President thinks he is still spending "papa Joe's millions."

Before any of my admirers entertain the idea that Truett is anti-Kennedy, let me state freely, I am not. But I do believe the incumbency should have put more emphasis on military might instead of all their capricious federal aid to this or federal control of that.

We will be a jubilant occasion on the homeland when the United States regains her strong foothold in the world community and ceases to always be in retaliation to the enemies of liberty. In these crucial moments in our times the leader of the non-communist countries must seek more efficient measures than the forestated one because one of these days it may be too late.

Someday, Mr. Kennedy moves only upon castigations of the Kremlin; but he must realize that the man who moves hastily is victorious and the man who moves slowly will reach his destination, but when?

Negro on Civil Rights Panel

In spite of the vilifications of the Deep South, the Senate approved Negro integrationist Spottiswood W. Robinson III, as a member of the Federal Commission on Civil Rights.

Robinson was confirmed unanimously by a vote of 73-13 as a result of President Kennedy's nomination of him as a member of the six-man investigating committee. Mr. Robinson, Dean of the School of Law at Howard University, had on numerous occasions counseled the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Civil Rights suits.

MY KIND OF DEMOCRACY

By William D. Hagins

Democracy Comes to Dallas

Democracy has finally come to Dallas, Texas, the last of the big cities of Texas to integrate their stores, restaurants, and schools.

Dallas is now undergoing a plan to adjust their citizens to integration. The following are some of the features of the plan which the citizens of Dallas have adopted as taken from the article "Dallas Follows Long-Range Plan to Adjust Citizens to Integration," which appeared in The New York Times, Sunday, July 30.

"The concept of what is involved in school desegregation has been broadened to include many other spheres of life."

"Publicity has been avoided to avert the crystallizing of hostile factions and to thwart agitators on both sides."

"The community affairs have kept the integration fight connected with the numerous regional and national organizations involved in racial situations elsewhere."

"The main bone of contention, segregation vs. desegregation, has been sidetracked in favor of the more pressing question of law and order vs. violence."

Because of Robinson's avowed stand against racial inequalities, Southerners argued that he was partisan to the rights of the Negro and consequently would lean only to the side of the Negro. Robinson is one of the nation's leading advocates of racial integration in all walks of life in our American society.

U. S. Makes Second Sub-Orbital Flight

Early in July astronaut Virgil I. Grissom made the second sub-orbital flight into space. The flight was supposed to be identical to the one made by Commander of the Navy Alan B. Shepard last May.

Grissom's triumph almost cost his life, due to an accident on his part or by a mechanical failure. Before he could be rescued by the awaiting helicopters, the hatch on the door of the Liberty Bell 7 blew open. As a result the 5-foot-10-inch Air Force Captain was forced to leave the space capsule and swim for his life.

The dashed sixteen-minute flight of astronaut Grissom was good in its main respect. The Korean War veteran came down safely after a flight which soared 118 miles into space and 303 miles down the Atlantic Ocean.

The events that occurred immediately after his splash into the ocean are what subordinated his trip to that of Commander Shepard's. After releasing himself from the Mercury capsule, the cosmonaut sank about 300 miles down into the Atlantic and with it went $5 million dollars worth of equipment and vital space information.

Space experts tried to minimize the liabilities to the public but there is little doubt that the sinking of the capsule failed to complicate matters. Prior to the hatch incident, it was anticipated that Grissom's flight would be the last sub-orbital flight. All attention was to be directed toward an atlas flight similar to the one made by Russian astronaut Yuri Gagarin. But now another flight is almost inevitable.

All in the second flight was good but not excellent as the first American flight. The reasons for these sub-orbital flights are simple, the United States places more emphasis on the individual life than do the Soviets. The Russians may get lucky with the touchdown, but most games are won with consistent and frequent first and tens.

From the Editor's Desk

For four years I have struggled here at Savannah State College as a student in the College family. These years have been most rewarding for me in many ways — educationally, socially, and intellectually. I have passed from the hallowed halls of SSC to confront the chaos which awaits in the world before me. I shall miss the persons and things which comprise this campus; but I shall also feel that the past four years of experiences have prepared me to be able to cope with the awaiting conflicts.

I challenge you who are high school graduates, freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and even non-graduating seniors to take advantage of the opportunities which college offers you. No matter how close or how remote you may be to achieving your goal, be serious minded about it. It will play a huge part in your objectives and aim high for your goals. Then work hard to achieve those objectives and to reach those goals. However, strive to be a well-rounded individual as well. Savannah State College offers many opportunities for growth. Take advantage of them. Remember as much as I have learned outside of class as inside the classroom, if one properly applies himself.

I challenge the graduating seniors also. Let us not stop here, but let us continue on to the higher learning and opportunities for wider growth. As a friend of mine says: "The world is yours for a prayer and a smile — plus hard work." And my motto is that "Every man is the maker of his own fortune." Therefore, let us one and all work hard and make our fortune a rewarding one.

Yours sincerely,

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

By Samuel M. Truell

Major League Baseball

There is a tight two team pennant race in both of the leagues this season. In the National League the rallying Los Angeles Dodgers are fighting a torrid race with the league-leading Redlegs of Cincinnati. The former Bums of Brooklyn have been hampered by injuries to many of their star players this summer, but have managed to stay in the thick of the pennant race.

At present the Cincinnati club is leading the Dodgers by one game. By the time this writing goes to press the Dodgers may well be in first place.

However, if the aforementioned is to become a reality the Los Angeles Club must not concede to the powerful Reds. Cincinnati has been in the number one position in the National League for the majority of the current baseball campaign. Her pitching can cope with the best in the league and the team hitting is tremendous.

In the Junior Circuit the Detroit Tigers and the Bronx Bombers of New York are battling to the hilt to see who will represent the American League in the rich World Series. Tiger Norm Cash is still leading the American League in hitting and is a runner-up to big Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles in the runs batted in department.

It seems as though the Yanks have a triumvirate in Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and pitcher Whitey Ford to spark the rest of major Ralph Houk's squad. Mantle and Maris have compiled a total of 79 circuit blows between the two of them and Ford has been victorious in 19 of 21 decisions. In addition to these established stars, catchers Elston Howard and John Blanchard have been hitting the ball solidly. Blanchard just tied a major league record by hitting four home runs in four times at bat.

Even though the pennant races seem to be two team affairs in both leagues, it should make a very interesting finale come September, and the post-season classic may be between two old rivals, the Yankees and the Dodgers. But one thing can be ascertained, whoever enters the series in October will be fighting to make the forthcoming series one of the most exciting ones ever.

SENIOR CLASS SONG

(Tune: "Auld Lang Syne")

Oh SSC, Dear SSC, proud of Thy name are we Great Alma Mater of the South
Thus it shall always be.

Chorus

This day of days we come to part
From Comrades loved so true
We plan to make Thee proud of us
As we are proud of you.

Our hearts are filled with sorrow now
We hate to bid good-bye
But happiness, perhaps success await
Our aims so high.

Chorus

Now watch the time for us because Someday great things we'll do
We plan to make Thee proud of us
As we are proud of you.

FEATURES

A Word From The Editor

By Virginia Mercer

I take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to the advisor of the Tiger's Roar, Mr. Milton C. Scott, for appointing me editor of the Tiger's Roar for the summer school session. I have enjoyed the work and have benefited from the experiences. During my sojourn with the student newspaper, I have been richly rewarded. Such experiences as the opportunity to attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Institute in New York, to coordinate a workshop session in the Regional Press Institute here at the College as well as to serve as editor of the Tiger's Roar are ones I shall ever remember. To all who helped to make these experiences possible, I humbly say "Thank You."

Expressions of thanks are also extended to the summer school Tiger's Roar staff for their whole-hearted support and cooperation. Without your help, the two summer editions would not have been possible.

To I express appreciation and extend thanks.

CAROLYN CAMPBELL

Campus Spotlight

By Verdelie Lambert

If you have charm, you don't need to have anything else; and if you don't have it, it doesn't matter what else you have.

Carolyn Campbell's cup runneth over.

Carolyn, a delightfully charming English major, is a prospective August graduate. She is president of the Board's Head Club, Organization Editor of The Tiger (yearbook), a 1961 "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" honoree, a former student assistant in the Department of English, an Alpha Kappa Mu English tutor, a member of the Choral Society, and The Tiger's Roar staff.

In 1960-61, Carolyn served as an attendant to Miss SSC, Yvonne McGlockton. Recalling this stupendous event in her college life, she commented modestly, "When I heard that I had been elected as an attendant to Miss SSC, I was very happy—and rather surprised."

As for her future plans, Carolyn wants to teach literature on the college level and to "write poetry on the side." In her leisure time she enjoys collecting records, taking in a movie, drawing, and reading Greek drama. Caught in a moment of ecstasy she squealed, "Oh, I really love that Sophocles!"

Carolyn has two philosophies of life: She doesn't believe in worrying about things over which she has no control. She does feel that if you like people, more than likely, they will like you too.

For Carolyn, and for many other graduating seniors, the dawn of the new day is fast approaching. I demur here to

The Faculty Personality of the Month

By Norman B. Elmore

It is indeed a rare discovery when one can find a woman who possesses intelligence, talent, wit, charm, and poise. If this be the case, a woman such as this has been found here at Savannah State College in Mrs. Madeline H. Dixon, Catalogue Librarian and Assistant Professor of Library Science.

Mrs. Dixon is a native of Kingston, North Carolina and began her formal education in that city. Very diversified in the field of education, she received the Bachelor of Arts degree from Fisk University in Nashville, Tennessee, with English as a major and a minor in French. In order to realize her dream of entering into the field of Library Service, Mrs. Dixon matriculated at North Carolina College at Durham, North Carolina where she was the recipient of the Bachelor of Science degree in Library Science and also at the University of Illinois at Urbana, Illinois, where she received the Master of Science degree in Library Science.

Among the many positions held by Mrs. Dixon, she has served as a teacher-librarian at Boggs Academy, Keyville, Georgia; Assistant Librarian, Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College, Alcorn, Mississippi; and she has served as Assistant Librarian and Cataloguer at Savannah State College since 1946.

Our distinguished personality of the month is a member of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Incorporated, Regional Representative, Archon, the national publication of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Incorporated, a member of the choir and president of the Episcopal Church Women of Saint Matthew's Episcopal Church, Savannah, Georgia. For many years, Mrs. Dixon served as advisor to the campus branch of The Young Women's Christian Association.

Recently, Mrs. Dixon was elected as one of the six delegates, who will represent the Diocese of Georgia at the Triennial Meeting of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States in Detroit, Michigan, September 17-20, 1961.

MRS. MADELINE H. DIXON

When asked about her philosophy of life, Mrs. Dixon replied: "I don't know that I have a clearly defined philosophy of life, but I do believe that one should continue to broaden his interest and circle of friends. I have learned, over the years, to take today's mishaps with a shrug, for by tomorrow they will probably have lost their meaning. Life has taught me that there are many undesirable things I need not accept if I care enough to stand up against them, and I have also learned not to worry about the things I cannot change."

Mrs. Dixon is the charming wife of Mr. Willie L. Dixon, a teacher by occupation. Reading, cooking, and playing bridge and scrabble are her most entertaining hobbies.

The members of the staff of the Tiger's Roar are indeed proud to have Mrs. Madeline H. Dixon join the ranks of other distinguished faculty members who have been spotlighted.

CREATIVE POETRY

"What's in a Day?"

By Veronica Owens

Some of life's days are rainbow-hued.

Having no dark phantoms to obscure them;
They sparkle and shine with the Illuminance of Keats' "Bright Star."

And smile as prophetically as "Helios"
On earth's inhabitants from afar.

On these coveted days, nothing less than Life's advantageous components are imbued;

Etienne's indulgent and ambitious to pursue them.

A-h-h-h, but think not pretentious,
That "Helios" sends everyday your way;

For beware, the somberness of Ben Jonson's "Night-Watch"
Is encompassed in many a day:
And some days have the melancholy mood of

"The Deserted Village" to supplant element your dismay.
The days that "Pegasus" chooses to send will be Forever exempt of suns,
And opportunities will seem to fly as they stay beyond your zenith!

wish all of you the best of fortune in your post-graduate endeavors.

Carolyn, the Campus Spotlight takes pleasure in presenting you as its outstanding personality of the month.

Alas! The golden days of empyrean,
With seraphims in the sky;
Or days that has as sunshine,
Clouds of gloom, remorse, discontent, and woe;

When "Pegasus" takes pride in making
Every friend a foe.

Both these types, without a doubt, should eliminate dismay.

About the probing inquiry, exactly—
"What's in a Day?"

A Vie!

By Verdelie Lambert

What is this thing which eludes
our grasp;

Teasing us with its coquettish smiles;
Tricking us with its cunning and wiles;

Befuddling us with its invincible masque?

Whoever you are, whatever you are,
Heed the mournful cries of the men;
Desert not the youthful lad of ten;

Open your heart to those near and far.

Spirit flitting, forever young, forever blind,
Soothe me, caress me, and with me lie;

Mutually loved you no more than I—
Share with me your eternity of promised time.

Alpha Kappa Mu Presents Assembly Program

Throwing the spotlight on the subject of the relationship between the humanities and creativity, the Alpha Kappa Mu Chapter of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society presented its assembly program on July 27.

The discussion leaders were divided into an expert's panel and a laymen's panel, with Eva C. Roseman as moderator and Virginia Mercer as recorder. Members of Alpha Kappa Mu Chapter, Charles Frasier, Annette Kennedy, Verdelle Lambert, and Juanita Moon were on the laymen's panel. The expert's panel consisted of Mrs. Luella C. Upshur, assistant professor of English, Mr. Phillip J. Hampton, assistant professor of Fine Arts, and F. Coleridge A. Braithwaite, professor and chairman of the Department of Fine Arts.

The four motivating questions behind the discussion were: (1) What is creativity? (2) What role do the humanities play in creativity? (3) What are the motivating factors behind creativity? (4) Is creativity something which is innate, or is it produced by the culture in which we live, or a combination of both? The questions and answers elicited notable comment from the panelists.

Immediately after the discussion, there was an audience participation period which was conducted by Norman Elmore, who presided at the program.

The members of Alpha Kappa Mu Chapter of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society are to be congratulated for sponsoring such a highly motivating program at Savannah State College. We hope to see many more events such as the one presented here on campus.

Peace Corps Questionnaires Now Available

Peace Corps headquarters has mailed Volunteer Questionnaires to the presidents of 2,000 colleges and universities for campus distribution.

Students who have written to the Peace Corps or to the President of Volunteer will automatically receive questionnaires direct from Washington.

Questionnaires can also be obtained by writing to Congressmen or Senators or to the Peace Corps, Washington 25, D. C.

They are also available at local Post Offices and will be distributed by the United States Department of Agriculture Extension Service for relay to their county agents.

The questionnaire is four pages long. It asks 28 questions. It also asks the potential Volunteer to list references. An explanatory sheet is attached.

Fine Arts Dept. Presents Chapel Program

By Veronica Owens

Members of the music department, under the direction of Dr. Coleridge D. Braithwaite, head of the department, and Mr. Samuel Gill, band director, presented an unusually delightful program on Chapel July 13, 1961. The theme of the program was "Music For a Summer Day."

The anticipation of the audience began to rise when the "jazz quartet's" melodious sounds of the theme song "Sweet Georgia Brown" filled the air. The members of the quartet were composed of Samuel Gill on trumpet, Coleridge Braithwaite at the piano, Alex Jenkins played double bass, and "Bill" Campbell on the drums.

Following this the concert ensemble played the incomparable "Embraceable You" by the great American composer, George Gershwin.

Then the musical pace changed slightly when Jesse Kease, an outstanding music student, sang "Without a Song."

Another aspect of the entertainment program included the appearance of the string ensemble, under Samuel Gill's direction. The talented group which was organized this summer, made their debut on the recent chapel program. The members of the ensemble included Carol Coxon, William Forrest, Edward Manico, Lawrence Hutchins, Willie Moore, James Williams, and Van Buren Jones.

Instrumentally wise, the program proved to be a rare treat for everyone in the audience. Rose Overstreet, a talented music student at Savannah State College, played one of the selections from Edward McDowell's "Woodland Sketches" entitled "To a Water-Lily." Following that, Mrs. Hattie Copeland, a music instructor in Chatham County, thrilled the audience with her rendition of "To a Wild Rose," another familiar selection from McDowell's "Woodland Sketches."

The program went on to include a number by Eugene Higgins, "Around the World in Eighty Days." Eugene's version of the popular song was highly appealing to the receptive audience. Then Juanita Moon sang the lovely "Ah, Love, But a Day."

At this point, the string ensemble made their final appearance by playing two selections, "O! Black Joe" and "No. 307."

Finally, the Jazz Quartet played the last number on "Music For a Summer Day." It was the good old standard "Blues in B Flat," a real rouser that left quite an impression on the audience. In fact, the entire program was entertaining and unique. Just the type of "Music For a Summer Day."

Members of the Library Science Class present a panel discussion at an All-College assembly program. Title of the discussion and demonstration is "Programmed Instruction and the School Library."

Library Science Students Present Interesting Forum

Members of the Basic Reference Sources class presented a forum and demonstration on "Programmed Instruction and the School Library" at the weekly all-college assembly on Thursday, July 20.

The program revealed the importance of the school library in the use of teaching machines and programmed instruction techniques. Mrs. Rachel Meeks, librarian of Lee Street School, Pierce County; and Mrs. Gloria Brown, a teacher at the Florence Street School, Chatham County, discussed the philosophy of the teaching machines, and they also pointed out that teaching machines promoted individualized learning.

There are five points of emphasis in the operation of teaching machines and programmed instruction: (1) Break down the learning into tiny steps leading from what students know to what you want them to know. (2) Have the students to do something. (3) Help students to eliminate their mistakes by keeping the steps tiny, and if necessary, by clues. (4) If they do make a mistake, have them correct it immediately. (5) If their answers are correct, reinforce immediately by letting them know that they are right, and give them another problem.

Mrs. Vivian Howard, a substitute teacher in the Chatham County Schools, and Miss Mamie Greene, a senior at Savannah State College, demonstrated a teaching machine which helps to develop computational skills in multiplication of fractions. This was done through the auspices of Dr. Jack Miller, of the University of Arizona faculty, who invented the machine.

Miss Mary Berry, a teacher at the Collins Elementary School, Tattnall County, and Mrs. Catherine Torrence, instructor at Cuyler Jr. High School, Chatham County, demonstrated "English 2600," a programmed instructional technique for the teaching of English. Mrs. Lucy Solomon, itinerant-librarian of Chatham County, discussed the role of the school library in the support of this new curriculum technique, programmed instruction. Samuel Williams, a senior at Savannah State College, served as moderator for the program.

The future librarians related that because the effectiveness of teaching machines depends on the ability of the learner to read and understand the questions presented, teaching machines will never substitute for the teaching-book, but will demand wider reading of books and other printed matter.

Other members of the class were: Mrs. Rutha B. Alexander, George Washington Carver School, Bryan County; Mrs. Pharene Appling, Bowles Elementary, Camden County; Miss Christine Eaddy, Lee Street School, Pierce County; Miss Rebecca S. Gray, Tattnall County Industrial High; Miss Texanna Henderson, G. W. Carver, Bryan County; Mrs. Altomese B. Magwood, Sol C. Johnson, Chatham County; Mrs. Carrie Maynor, Arnett Elementary, Screven County; Mrs. Rosemary Richardson, Liberty Elementary School, Liberty County; Mrs. Lucille Roberts, Twin City Elementary School, Emanuel County; Miss Sadie Rutledge, Dawson Drive Elementary, Muscogee County; Miss Sarah Stafford, Arnett School, Screven County; Miss Frances Timble, Edward Johnson Elementary, Bulloch County; and Miss Marie Williams, Todd -d- Grant High, McIntosh County.

Other regular students enrolled in the class were Jerome Anderson, Mrs. Clementine Campbell, and Miss Rosemary McBride.

Mr. E. J. Josey, college librarian and associate professor, serves as instructor for the six-week course.

Mr. Samuel Gill directs the recently formed SSC String Band Group during the group's first performance which was at college assembly.
